VOLUME XIX

NUMBER SEVEN

F E R

JUNE, 1919

ACADEMY NOTES

Mr. Walter Beatty, an Academy stu-dent in 1916, called on York friends a few weeks ago. He was en route to Kearney on a business trip. He is now making his home in Omaha, where he is connected with the Osbusiness trip. He is home in Omaha, born Realty Co.

Miss Callender entertained the third and fourth year Academy classes, and Prof. and Mrs. Morgan, at her home, Friday evening, May 30th. The even-ing was spent in music and games. A two-course luncheon was served.

When it became known to the mem-bers of the first and second year Academy classes that Miss Esther Mo-Laughlin intended to leave school on May 15th to make her home in Wash-ington, D. C., during her father's congressional term, they decided that a surprise party in her honor would be in order. But only a few days remained and it seemed that all the time out-side of study hours must be devoted side of study hours must be devoted to practice for the pageant. Something, however, had to be done, regardless of time. So this enterprising class de-cided to hold a noonday picnic in Mar-athon Park on May 13th. But alas! When the day arrived the sky was heavy, the air was damp and the grass was more than damp. Un-daunted, the class agreed that the grounsaium was a good substitute for gymnasium was a good substitute for a park. The committee carried tables from a class room and decorated them with lilacs and tulips. Then they brought forth the viands which had been carefully hidden from curious eyes, and arranged them on the tables. At twelve o'clock the class began to assemble. Not until Esther saw the tables did she have any idea why her companion had led her thither. It was an unusual surprise party in that the guest of honor was really surprised and it was an unusual class party in that no spectators arrived until after all of the ice cream had been consumed by the people for whom it had been intended. Music by Henry Kolling added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Esther's many friends hope that her sojourn in Washington will be pleas-ant and profitable and that she will join them again in the Academy before very Joing. Miss Marian Boughner delightfully entertained the "Monday Bunch" of York College at 7 o'clock dinner, May 26th, honor of the seventeenth birthday of Miss Mable Meeker.

As soon as the young ladies assembled the guest of honor was crowned with a beautiful wreath of spirea.

A delicious three-course dinner was served, after which the hostess read several beautiful selections of poetry, having been written by a soldier friend in France. The later hours of the evening were spent with music and in social conversation.

in social conversation. The following guests were present to enjoy this happy event: Misses Merle and Ione Philson, Ethel Garner, Gladys Reynolds, Myrtle Hunt, Helen Opitz, Freda Ball, Mabel Meeker, Viola Stoddard and Cecylle Newbold, a for-mer student of York College, who has taught the present year in Milford high school. Although several of the members

Although several of the members will not be present next year, yet each determined that this should not be their last meeting together, and those who remain for next year's school work shall keep the wayfarers posted as to further occasions of this kind.

On June 2nd the Freshman class having a bad attack of spring fever, decided to go with well filled baskets for a hike several miles in the country. Here they greatly enjoyed them-selves with games of various kinds. And their sponsor, Professor Bisset, proved to be a real cook. It was be-tween sunset and sunrise that the freshies returned home with merry beaute hearts.

hearts. The next evening, which was just before exams, the freshies not feeling the need of study autoed to the home of Eva Williams, whree_(iii) they were en-tertained with music and out-door sports. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and the guests departed in the wee hous_(iii) of the morn-ing morn-ing.

JUNIOR NOTES

There are a great many people in college who do not like the new time, for it makes us all get up an hour ear-lier for 7:30 classes. But the Juniors really did break their record on the morning of May 20th when we went to Miss Clarke's for that delicious breakfast of waffles and-. But I will tell about that later.

Duke and Coffey surely must have broken their record—Lawrence, at least, for he always comes late to French class—and French is at 8:30. At any rate, they sounded reveille promptly at 6:00 a. m. on their way to Miss Clarke's, thus arousing some delinquent Juniors on Seventh street. One by one we collected at Miss Clarke's and at 7 o'clock we were all there except Fletcher. We don't like to touch on this delicate subject, but we dare not leave it out. Many re-ports are floating about concerning this unfortunate youth. It is said that he carefully considered the matter the night before--whether to be unthe hight before-whether to be un-faithful to Faith that night or to his class in the morning. Of course he couldn't go both times, for every hu-man should sleep a few hours of the twenty-four. He had our sympathy— and we had his strawberries. The above is one statement of the and we had his strawberries. The above is one statement of the situation. Here is another—and it is sad, indeed for it is said that he mirac-ulously dropped from the second floor through the skylight into the swim-ming pool at the "Y" on this fateful morning. But as I said before, we will not dwell on such a delicate matter.

not dwell on such a delicate matter. It was indeed a happy circle of Jun-iors that gathered around Miss Clarke's hospitable board with its dainty china and wonderful "eats." Those were the best waffles—hot, crisp, golden brown--the kind that fairly melt in one's mouth. And we ate them with maple syrup and honey. The coffee was even better than Tom-my's, if that be possible. Then the my's, if that be possible. Then the strawberries—well, you all know how delicious big, red strawberries are, eaten with sugar and cream.

There is no other class in college that so heartily enjoys every moment of a class function as the Junior class. of a class function as the Junior class. It must be because it is so evidently the best class in every way. We were all happy, hilarious and free from any restraint. Tommy and Frank left us at 7:30. We admired their spirit greatly—it must have taken much heroism to leave those waffles. But Duke and Lawrence made up for their ab-sence, and ate waffles as long as they could —then they began all over again could,—then they began all over again. "Hitchie" was there, and made us all uncomfortable by counting the waffles that we ate. At 8:30 we departed, reluctant but happy. Miss Clarke had a French class, but we forgave her on account of the waffles, and also because she was so apologetic about it. We went to classes feeling fine, and found every one green with envy, for they had heard of our breakfast. Even Fletcher had thought better of it, and could not hide a tear or two of genuine regret.

OUR Y. M. NEXT YEAR

Prof. Bisset says that in 1920 The Y. M. C. A. will have work a plenty.

He intends to put across a plan That will involve the labors of every man

And every man will work for him Putting forth efforts with pep and vim, For our adviser is an ideal man And we'll glady $_{\rm (sic)}$ aid him all that we can. To make the gang get up and step; A program he'll put across next year, And he'll do his bit, don't ever fear; With a cabinet behind him doing its best To work the life out of the rest, Co-operation is all that we need To keep the Y. M. in the lead.

Our cabinet is a grand affair, There's Vice President Stowe, an officer rare Van and Wagner know enough $z_{(sic)}$ To handle the money and that sort of stuff. "Mull" will help the fellows sing And you bet they'll make the whole place ring.

Tune, Keep the Home Fires Burning. YALE OF THE WEST

We have come from out the city,

We have come from o'er the plain, To our own dear old York College, Higher learning to obtain; We have come here, for we're certain That this school is far the best, And we're proud today that we can say We're the Yale of the West.

Chorus

Keep the Y. C. growing, Soon they'll all be knowing Of a school that's grander than all the rest.

Keep the "pep" e'er burning, Soon they'll all be yearning

To be in dear old Y. C.,

Yale of the West. With a noise or something that fills the soul With ambitions pointing to a higher goal,

And so today perhaps we fear We should offer an alibi for this year, Due to war conditions and lack of men. All we can say is "It might have been." For it's a factor in our school life That causes true fellowship and ends all strife.

—M. F. Mulvaney.

SOPHOMORE NOTES

We, the class of 1921, in this, the last number of the Sand Burr, wish to give the student body, faculty, alumni and friends of York College, a short review of our social functions of the year. We will not relate all of them as this would make almost too lengthy a production. For instance, at the be-ginning of the year there was that never to be forgotten night when Jun-iors and Sophomores laid aside all tra-ditional class feeling and for one even-

There's a class that is present in col-lege, A class that is loyal and true, A class, yes, you know them each one friends

They're the Sophs of the white and the blue.

SOPHOMORES

Sophomores, Sophomores,

They're the Sophs of the white and the blue. Tis true that the Seniors are brilliant, Tis

The Freshmen are certainly verdant, But the Sophs are the best class you

Sophomores! Sophomores!

Yes the Sophs are the best class you bet.

After a tremendous burst of applause given by an appreciative audi-ence the Sophs rendered another clever selection:

Hail, all hail, our Alma Mater

Sing out her praise. High float her colors,

Loud our voices raise

To honor our college, Ever to honor our college,

Loval are we.

And we'll shout for our college,

Rah! rah! for victory.

Then for a change a new yell was given: Ki yipa ki yi!

- Ki yipa ki yor! Ki yipa ki ki yi yor!
- Ki yipa ki yorl For the Sophomores!!

Next an oration was given telling of the wonders of the Sophomores and wonders of the Sophomores and the glorious prospects for a brilliant future. Since the author made up the oration can abe author in the oration as she went along and also because she Is very modest she will not copy it here or say in just what

There were several more choice yells and two more songs. The yells we will not take space to give, but the songs follow.

The first one, to the tune of "Smiles" went like this:

There are classes as green as the grasses: They're the Freshmen of old-Y. C.,

We have classes that have an awful big head, They're the Juniors don't you see? We have classes who claim a lot of knowledge, They have spent four whole long years in college; But of all the classes underneath the sun, The best is the class of 1-9-2-1.

The program ended as the Sopho-mores left the stage singing the fol-lowing song:

Goodby Seniors; Goodby Junior.; Goodby, Freshmen,

We're going to leave you now. There the stunt is over now, over now, over now

There the stunt is over now, The stunt is over now.

Fine, Miss Boughner! Next we will hear from Miss Mason and Mr. Revera

Sophomore Collegiate Reception

On the night of the fifteenth of Feb-ruary, the annual Sophomore Collegiate reception was given at Hulitt Con-servatory. The reception room was decorated in pink and white in a man-ner very suggestive of good old Saint tine. One corner of the room Valentine. was occupied by a large white throne, which also bore the symbols of that popular Saint. This throne remained vacant during the musical program and just what its purpose was to be aroused some speculation on the part of the guests. The earlier part of the evening was spent with music. Several solos, both vocal and instrumental, were given by musicians of line talent. Two humo ous readings helped to make the at-mosphere still more joyous and happy. Then to the sound of sweet music a dainty Fairy Queen appeared. Danc-ing a light fairy dance she slowly ap-proached her waiting throne. After her came three fairy helpers to whom she told the story of Saint Valentine; of the work that he had commenced and which they must carry on. told In obedience to her royal command they carried Saint Valetine's messages of love to all the guests. Refreshments consisting of ice cream and wafers were also in keeping with the spirit of the evening, for on each ice cream heart was perched clever little Dan Cupid. The reception was very well attended and we trust everyone had a good dinner in memory of St. Patrick. The dinner, in memory of St. Patrick. The usual color for that occasion was in evidence. It was used in the prettily arranged decorations and also was worn by each guest; in such forms as neckties, dresses, and handkerchiefs.

As soon as this class, which is made up of some of the most active minds, was together in the cheerful atmos-phere of this hospitable home, they phere of this hospitable home, they became engaged in a lively conversa-tion in matters of psychology and Bi-ble. The question of life work held the attention for some moments, during which time desires were expressed which when realized will have the class scattered to a number of needy fields in various countries.

The very delicious four-course dinner was enjoyed by everyone, after which a delightful time was spent in interesting games. Among these were Irish puzzles, stories, and the kissing of the Blarney Stone. Flashlight picture taking afforded added amusement and the time passed all too quickly.

The Sophomeres departed, again as-sured that they had chosen wisely when they elected Miss Cone as their sponsor.

Fine, Maud! And now we will listen to Miss John and Miss Hammond:

On the Thursday morning following spring vacation, the Sophomores as-sembled at 6 a. m. in the Domestic Science room. Miss Cone and J. Peter Wagner made waffles while the rest of the class made themselves useful by preparing the fruit and setting the table.

At 6:30 ten dignified Sophomores sat down to a delicious breakfast of waf-fles, honey, coffee and fruit.

After breakfast snapshots were tak-en and then those who had seven-thirty classes, knowing what traditions to disregard and what ones to follow, and went to class.

While the dishes were being washed three members of the class drew pic-tures of the waffles on the bulletin board, which were promptly erased by the childish Juniors. This only afford-ed amusement to the Sophomores. An-other sign was already being con-structed, which served the purpose for which it was Intended and caused a class fight. Well to told, girls. And now we will be favored with a poem from Miss Boren:

US

Now friends I'm going to tell you a bit About a good class, you must admit, And please don't go and have a fit Just because we have made such a hit.

When after chapel I go to pass Into that dear Psychology class, There sits Maude, notebook in hand, To take all the notes the Dean demands.

There is Antonio, grave and steady; To be a minister, he's getting ready. On the back seat is Marian, we're proud to say, She's at the head of our Y. W. C. A.

Joy is our musician rare Who plays for dances everywhere, But Dean puts on a solemn face When he doesn't see Joy any place.

row,

Next is Lenore, who adopted the motto: "Don't study today if you can tomor-

And whenever you see her-any place,

She always wears a smiling face.

Eva is our president, loyal and true,

FRESHMAN NOTES

During the first semester there were only six industrious girls in the fresh-man class. After a number of weeks the girls "mustered up" enough cour-age to announce their class meeting in chapel one morning. They elected their officers, this being strictly a wo-men's rights meeting, and election. At the opening of the second semester five other freshmen joined the class they added a great deal of enthus-iasm.

Although our class was branded as being "green," we were not green enough to whisper when we had our first party at Professor Bisset's. The party was a success in every way ex-cept we missed the excitement of chas-ing a disappointed upper classman from our eats. But we joyously an-flounced the party the next morning to the other students, who in open-eyed wonder asked where it was. On April the 30th, Professor and Mrs. Bisset entertained the members of the class at their hospitable home. The house was decorated in white roses, the class flower, and tulips. The evening was spent in playing numer-ous games and with musical numbers Mr. Coffey found out that a girl were blindfolded. A very dainty lunch was served, carrying out the color scheme of green and white the class colors.

Is it leap year? Well, ask a freshman girl.

In the long list of the Senior's happy memories of their college days, May 10, 1919, will always be one of the brightest and best. Why? Because on that morning Dean and Mrs. Ashon that morning Dean and Mrs. Ash-craft were at home to the class at a May morning breakfast. At 9 o'clock the six members of the class assem-bled and after paying their respects to Dean Let they were rested at a table Dean, Jr., they were seated at a table artistically decorated in the class colors, red and white, with a large basket of red roses for the centerpiece. The breakfast, served by Miss Cone and Miss Havener, was worthy of the title of banquet or dinner, at least. Be-tween courses the guests were asked to become artists for the time being and illustrate the seven ages of man as seen by Shakespeare. Of course all the production were worthy of a place in the Louvre, but all acknowledged that Dean Ashcraft carried off the highest honors. It was nearly noon when the Seniors took their leave each one affirming that Dean and Mrs Ashcraft were most royal entertainers. and that of all the sponsors in school they had the best.

and sopioniores and aside an intra-ditional class feeling and for one even-ing forgot they were two classes in-stead of one, and had a lovely time pulling taffy and playing games. All this happened at the home of Blanche Harritt. Then when everyone had eat-en all the taffy they could or would, a coasting party was suggested. The suggestion met with approval and a dandy coast completed the evening. And now for fear the readers be come wearied of listening to one mem-ber of the class telling the whole tale Miss Boughner will now take the floor. Our Pep The other day in Psychology class Dean Asheraft remarked that as we see others do, so we are inclined to do "For instance," said the Dean, "at the first of the year there wasn't much pep around here, but one of the classes eterted according on the tast two feeling and for one lass

"For instance," said the Dean, "at the first of the year there wasn't much pep around here, but one of the classes started something and since that time we've had some class spirit." Since it was the Sophomores that started that spirit this year, as a mem-ber of that class, I feel it my duty to recount some of the generators of pep for future reference. First and foremost our beloved pre-sident called a class meeting and ap-pointed three people to act as public-ity committee for the Sophomore class. The committee for the Sophomore class. Chapel was the same as usual until the second song was over. It hap-pened (?) to be "The Rose of Sharon." When the echo of the last word had died away Miss John played on and the illustrious Sophomores sang the fol-lowing song as they marched up the aisle and onto the platform:

Well done folks. Now, allow me to introduce to you, Miss LeFever, who will relate to you the lovely evening spent with Miss Cone: In response to the kind invitation the Sophomore class met, on March 17, at the home of their sponsor, Miss Edith Cone, to partake of a six o'clock

She makes a splendid friend for you, And when into the world she goes with a smile, She'll sure do something that will be worth while.

Louise is there so quiet, you know, But at hikes, feeds and parties, she sure isn't slow!

And she plays some beautiful pieces, too,

That make you feel lonesome and homesick and blue.

Lettie is very modest and shy,

If you don't believe this just ask Miss Fye, And she really thinks there's nothing absurd About "little girls being seen and not heard.

Then there's J. Peter, whose chief de-light Is staying out real late at night.

But beware fair maiden, you may be deceived,

For in divorce cases, he doesn't (?) believe

And in a closing word to you

I wish to be named as a member, too; And friends, as the long years come and go

We hope that more of our deeds you'll know. Good, Mildred. You have set before the public eyes one more of the many talents of our class and I am sure they have enjoyed the poem greatly

Now there are several other things that have happened but these we will just mention since this report seems to be getting lengthy.

VAN VLEET'S City National Barber Shop

Students trude appreciated

BATHS

4 CHAIRS

Do you have films to develop? A Picture to frame, or if you need anything to use in school

We can serve you

Do you want a Phonograph to buy or to rent? A most wonderful machine, the Pathe. No needles to change. Plays all records.

See and hear it

ART STORE

W. K. GEER Wear - U - Well Shoes

Repair Work a Specialty.

There was that oyster stew, you know, that we had in the domestic sci-ence room when the rest of the school tried so hard to molest us, but got only a few pickles. They did get some practice coming in through transoms, however, and also in going out through them!

And then there was that strawberry shortcake feed at Miss Cone's. What a good time we did have and how we ate sandwiches, drank coffee and ate strawberry shortcake. It was just lovely.

The Sophomores love fun, but we also love our dear old York College and want to boost for her in every way we can. So to prove this we have taken as our wee bit the care of the flower beds and hope to make them beautiful for the summer and fall. Now we thank you for your kind at-tention and close by giving three cheers for clear old York College. Hooray! Hooray! Hooray! York three York College!

Y. W. C. A.

Since the Y. W. meetings have been held in the morning, more interest is manifested, for nearly all the girls can attend.

April 16th Marian Boughner was the April 16th Marian Boughner was the leader. The members discussed meth-ods of conducting our meetings, so that they would be more practical and create more interest. It was suggest-ed that the lesson subjects be more practical and that more girls should take part in each meeting.

On April 23rd the Y. W. had the privilege of hearing Miss Vera Blinn of Dayton, Ohio, deliver an excellent address on "Life Work." She forcibly pictured the need of trained workers in the foreign field, especially in China. April 30th, Eva Williams led a very helpful meeting, upon the subject of "Personal Ideals." Our personal ideals are the intellectual, the physical, the ideal are the intellectual, the physical, the ideal of honor and the pride of the workman. May 7th, "Habits" was the subject of a very practical lesson. Alice Kaliff was the leader. The need of the more important habits, such as industry, obedience, thoughtfulness and truthful-ness(was emphasized. May 14th, Joyce Cushman was the leader and "Tastes" was the lesson subject. We all should strive tar culti-vate a love for the beautiful, an inter-est in bodily activity and a taste for good reading.

good reading. May 21st. At this time the regular business meeting of the association was held. Everyone looks forward to a very Everyone looks forward to a very bright year when school opens again in September. May 16th. On this date the histor-ical pageant, "The World's Goal," was put on by the Y. W. girls. The Com-mercial Club of York asked that the pageant might be given for the G. A. R. convention, on April 22nd, which we were very glad to do.

were very glad to do

LIFE RECRUITS

On April 19th, the school received a visit from Mitts Vera Blinn and O. T. Deever. Miss Blinn was formerly a teacher in the Miss Blinn was formerly a teacher in the college and we are al-ways glad to welcome her for a visit. She is now editor of the Evangel, a missionary magazine published by the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Brethren church. Mr. Deever is well known throughout the country through his work in Christian En-deavor deavor. Miss Blinn and Mr. Deever are visining all the United Brethren schools in the interest of the movement to in-terest college and high school students in taking up some definite Chris-tian work as their life work. This should be of interest to every thinking Chris-tian boy or girl and we are quite sure that no one could listen to these two able and inspiring speakers and come under the influence of their personalities without experiencing a broadening of their own spiritual life and gaining a greater desire to live a life of ser-

In the morning at the chapel hour. Miss Blinn met with the girls of the school, while Mr. Deever met the boys.

Both speakers made a forceful appeal to the students. After these meet-ings

Take A Kodak With You and bring back your summer vacation in picture form

We are showing the COMPLETE ASSORTMENT OF STYLES & PRICES

each machine carrying the Eastman Service privilege free

Send us your films-we develop FREE

TOUT DRUG CO. 605 LINCOLN AVE. NYAL STORE

ZETA

On May 2 1919, the following pro-gram was rendered:

Piano solo......Faith Baber Debate: "Resolved that the new time is advantageous to the average American."

Affirmative-Clyde Reynolds, Alice Kaliff.

Negative—Lee Fletcher, Goldah Tomlin. Vocal solo Ernest Berger

Continued Story, Chap.1.....Andrew Sweet This was the last rhetorical program of the year. A meeting was held on May 28, 1919, for the purpose of electing officers for next year.

President Lena Myers
Vice PresidentEllen Kaliff
Secretary Lucy Davidson
TreasurerEva Williams
Critic Alice Kaliff
Chorister Faith Baber
Pianist Grace Ulsh
Press Reporter Lenore John
Chaplain Kathryn Helzar
UsherEthel Garner
TrusteesLena Myers, Bertha Mitchell, Faith Baber.

VACATION CONSCIENCE

"For Goodness' sake, Lena Burns, how much more time do you mean to spend on those letters? You have been writing for Iwo solid hours. I didn't know you had such a tremendous cor-respondence." Jessie Wilson came in from the porch of the little cottage in the mountains where the two circle mountains where the two girls were enjoying a month's well-earned vacation.

"But I promised each one of my girls that I would write to her, and it lakes quite a while," replied Lena quietly. "Well, I think you are foolish. I came out here for a vacation and rest, and I will not be tied down to any old Sunday school class. I want to forget them." "Why, Jessie Wilson! aren't you

"Why, Jessie Wilson! aren't you ashamed? I never could forget my Sunday school class. My girls are al-ways first, vacation or no vacation." "Mine are not." drawled Jessie, sketching herself out luxuriously on the bed. "I came out here for a good time." As if it were not enough to teach day-school all year and Sunday school every Sunday without their school every Sunday without their ris-ing up and haunting one all summer! Aren't you going to be ready to go out pretty soon, Lena? I want to climb that mountain trail we can see over

"If you are dying for action, you "If you are this bunch of letters I might take this bunch of letters I have ready to the post office. If it wouldn't be too much of a burden."

"O! anything to get rid of them. If can't climb the mountain in search of adventure, perhaps I can find one in the crowd. I'll be sure and see who is there.

"I found it, or rather him," announc-ed Jessie an hour later, coming in flushed and triumphant. "And then he has his touring-car'

"Which is of more importance than the gentleman?" interrupted Lena teasingly. "Well I am not so sure although the car is advantage, especially since an jolly time!" who seemed more than glad to have them Lena looked straight at her friend. "What do you mean by a jolly good time, Jessie? That we are to do things here that we wouldn't do at home?" "Why, of course. What is a vaca-tion for? We can't climb mountains at home, can we?" "You know what I mean, Jessie. I mean things which our conscience does not approve." who seemed more than glad to have them with them. They did not ask the girls to go on Sunday, however, until they learned that a special feature, a world-famous band was to play on the last Sunday of their vacation. Of course Lena did not go and for some reason Jessie did not enjoy it. O, there were thrills in abundance. There was laughter and music. It was a per-fect does not approve."

does not approve.

"Well my conscience fully approves of a little family outing tomorrow. You aren't going to spoil everything by re-fusing to go, are you, Lena?" "I think the Delaneys will excuse me. I don't want to spoil our good times, Jessie, but I can't feel right about going tomorrow," replied Lena. "I promised Mr. Delaney that I would meet them at the spring and let them them will up an article profil "Certainly, I will go. I shall be pleased to meet the Delaneys." That afternoon when Jessie would have introduced her friend she was surprised when Jack Delaney came for-ward with outstretched hand to meet Lena.

Miss Burns?" he said, turning to Lena. "It is very kind of you to ask me, but I cannot go tomorrow," replied

"We can depend on you, Miss Wil-son?" asked Mrs. Delaney. "Certainly," was all Jessie had to say. "Why, I had no idea that you knew Jack Delaney," said Jessie on their Jack Dela way home.

"You haven't kept track of all my doings," was all Jessie could get out of her friend.

The next day the weather was beau-tiful, Jessie arose early and prepared herself for a good time. "Such a glorious time!" she exclaimed on returning in the evening. "You don't know what you have missed, Lena. Oh, but I am tired. I think I shall go to bed right away." "I am so sorry, Jessie. I had counted on your going to church with me tonight. Don't you want to, Jessie?" asked

"Oh, no; his mother is here, and you and I are asked to go with them for an all-day picnic tomorrow, to the ark and canyons. Isn't that fine?" "You don't mean tomorrow lease an all-day pichic tomorrow, to the ark and canyons. Isn't that fine?" "You don't mean tomorrow, Jessie? Why, tomorrow is Sunday!" Jessie looked a little frightened. "Why, really, I never thought of that. But what harm is there in going to-morrow?" "But aren't we going to church?" asked Lena. "O Lena, let's not go to church out here. Everything is strange, and it isn't expected of us. Anyway it doesn't Based Letter "O Lena, let's not go to church out nere. Everything is strange, and it isn't expected of us. Anyway it doesn't matter out here where nobody knows us. Let's just turn loose and have a jolly time!" Lena looked straight at her friend. Let's just curn loose and have a isn't expected of us. Anyway it doesn't matter out here where nobody knows us. jolly time!" Lena looked straight at her friend. isn't expected of us. Anyway it doesn't matter out here where nobody knows us. jolly time!" Lena looked straight at her friend. isn't expected of us. isn't expected of us.

and the views were wonder-but Lena's face followed Jessie day ful, all day, and she did not enjoy herself. More than half of the return trip had been made in safety when sudden-ly there was the sound of a wild dash just back of them, then a terrible crash. The rear of their car rose in the air and the two machines dashed together in the narrow roadway together in the narrow roadway. Jessie awoke in a hospital room and with Lena Burns' face bending over her.

"Where am I and what happened," she asked dazedly. "Safe, dear. Just a little bump on the head," Lena assured her. "All were saved. It was a miracle. Mr. Delaney is here with a broken arm. Now you are not to talk but just lie

DEAN THEATRE Where you see the pick of the better pictures. The place to go to enjoy the highest class of photo plays produced.

Always good Music Good Ventilation

"Miss Burns, I am so glad to see you again. You must meet my mother and sister," he said eagerly. "I am delighted to make the

"I am delighted to make the ac-quaintance of Miss Burns," said Mrs. Delaney. "You know my favorite niece, Nellie, is in your Sunday school class. You have a wonderful influ-ence for good over those young girls, Mia Burns". Miss Burns.'

and rest so that we can go home to-morrow." Three days later found the girls back on the little orch_(sic) of their cottage where Jessie observed: "Lena Burns I am not fit to touch the hem of your garment.," "Nor am I," said a voice and Jack "Nor am I, said a voice and oack Delaney dropped down on a step at Lena's feet. His arm was in a sling. "But she has promised to take me through a course of training. Do

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

SINGING A GREAT FACTOR IN THE LIFE OF THE COLLEGE STUDENT

The college student who spends a part of his time in singing, is energetic, enthus-iastic, and ambitious.

America is singing today, as she has never sung before. Everywhere we find a great desire for the song. A dinner party, club meeting, and other social functions, are not complete until vocal music has been given a place on the program.

Voice culture sustains vitality. Those who take singing as a part of their daily life, find that it gives them well developed lungs, erect position of the body, free action of the throat muscles, and opens the resonant cav-ities.

Our voice department has been one of the strong departments of the col-lege this season, and the enthusiasm shown by the boys, bespeaks a good glee club next season.

College students are always welcome in the various choirs, and choruses of the community, as well as at the school.

Next season it is our desire that each and every student may (sic)artipate in some glee club or chorus con-ducted at the college.

CHARLES A. AMADON.

The past season has been very suc-cessful in the Piano Department, and through the special efforts of everyone concerned a good interest has been maintained in spite of the difficulties at the first of the year, Not only has the enrollment been large, but the quality of the work done has been very good indeed. We lost one of our most valued members. Miss Ethel Samuelson, from an attack of the influ-enza the first of the year. There have been of necessity very few recitals this year, but next year we Percy Grainger, the great Australian expect to resume our recitals and class work with renewed enthusiasm.

Miss Rankin is going to scend(sic) the summer in Chicago, in study with pianist and composer, and in taking special work in repertoire.

Miss Pearson will have charge of the piano department during the summer, and already has a very large enroll-ment.

York College is proud of the fact that she had no Athletic teams to rep-resent her in the past season. All her letter were in the service of men Uncle Sam.

The boys are coming home and are strong for athletics. Old Y. C. will have a strong nucleus upon which to build a strong team. We are proud of our boys and expect all the under-graduates to be back for football this year. The old men back and all the prospects from high schools make Y. C. look like another championship. We are after the pigskin for keeps this fall.

COFFEY, Conference Halfback--is out of service and is lined up for foot-ball next fall with the blue and white.

PURCELL-who did not get to finish the '17 season because of injuries, is back from overseas and is looking like a real backfield man.

for football. Released from Officers Train-ing Camp and is in line for next

ATHLETICS

COX (Niddy), Halfback—just back MULVANEY (Skinny), from overseas. We are strong for Cox Tackle—"Skinny" played in '17. Strong for Y. C. GLUR. All-Conference Quarterback -will be back from the other side by September. Jake was captain in '16.

lineup next fall if he gets out of the navy, keeping in condition for football by

LARSON (Captain), Guard-releas-PAULSEN, Fullback-will be in the ed from the navy and is at present farming

Fresh Candies

OUR MAY FESTIVAL

As you all know, our May Festival took the form of a pageant this year, "The World's Goal." It was a very appropriate idea and it appealed to everyone, both by its beauty and its historical interest.

Our stately queen and her dainty at-tendants were a credit and an orna-ment to our school. There is always something very beautiful about the processional of a May crowning, This custom, brought down from time im-memorial, gains in attractiveness every year. And what queen could fail to be pleased with the sweet little dance given by the little tots. Child-ren are so graceful, so winsome in any performance of this kind, verily butterflies and flowers.

What person, young or old, can with-stand the delight of watching Indians dance or pull off stunts? It belongs so distinctly to our American life and his-tory. The author of this article heard many complimentary remarks about the realistic costumes of the Indians and the excellence of the dance, espe-cially the yells.

Professor Bisset, as William Penn, was exceedingly realistic. Who would have though; our teacher could dis-guise himself so thoroughly? Our Lee Fletcher also made a fine Miles Stan-dish. (We wonder who speaks for him? Not a John Alden surely, not if we know Lee!)

After the demure little Puritans, come Martha and George, Anyone who saw them knew immediately that their last name was Washington. Their costumes were very well planfor the characters to ned be repre-sented. Even the sachet on the back of George's wig!)

The Virginia reel made, a hit. To the tune of "Turkey in the Straw", eight girls went through the old-fash-ing divergent through the old-fasheight girls went through the ord-lash-ioned "peppy" dance without a hitch. Our feet could not keep still and many a grandmother and parent in the audi-ance found their thoughts stealing back to the days of their youth when they had danced the same steps, the old fedder motion time. the old fiddler marking time.

Marion Mulvaney as Uncle Sam. and the dramatization of the protection of Cuba from Spain, was very good. Law-rence, Coffey made a realistic Teddy Roosevelt, if he did arrive a trifle late.

Then came our Allies with the flags of each country carried by the girls led by Miss Eva Kerr as Columbia.

Columbia crowning our queen as the Queen of Peace was a very pretty scene. The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" closed a very suc- cessful who witnessed the program.

King, for their faithful and efficient "oversight" Miss Alden Clark deserves especial mention because her services were rendered out of the kindness of her heart as she is not connected with the college.

May Our York College have many more successful May Days

In a pageant the success, will depend to a large extent upon the accuracy of the representations made. Particof the representations made. Partic-ularly was this true in the pageant, "The World's Goal." The spectator was impressed with the reality which the different characters gave to their particular period. Professor Bisset as William Penn, Clyde Reynolds and Viola Stoddard as George and Martha Washington, Marion Mulvaney as Un-cle Sam, John Davidson as Abraham Lincoln, and Lawrence Coffey as The-odore Roosevelt, all bore unmistakably stamp of their time. In William

William Penn with wig and broad rimmed hat, the seventeenth century was brought to view. George Washington with cocked hat, lace-edged sleeves and knee to view. George washington with cocked hat, lace-edged sleeves and knee breeches was the typical south-ern gentleman of a century and a half ago, while, Martha was so realistic that, Rip Van Winkle like, you had to rub your eyes to see if you were awake. Uncle Sam was truly your real uncle. His stately step and com-posed look gave evidence of being master of the situation, of being able to "spare the humble but to subdue the proud." The tall figure of John David-son in high hat, frock coat and black beard, suggested Honest Abe at once. Teddy could have been recognized anywhere in the world. The vim, dash, impetuosity and strenuosity, even the true Teddy smile—all were there. Miles Standish, Spain and Cuba, Puri-tans, Indians, Quakers, minuet, Vir-ginia reel, soldiers, sailors. Allies and Queen of Peace each added the neces-sary touch and color to make the

To the stately music of a minuet came tripping daintily out, six Revo-lutionary Maidens. The minuet is a pretty dance, with its graceful curtsies and bowings, and the girls performed it creditably. The maidens were dressed in true revolutionary style, even to curls and bodices.

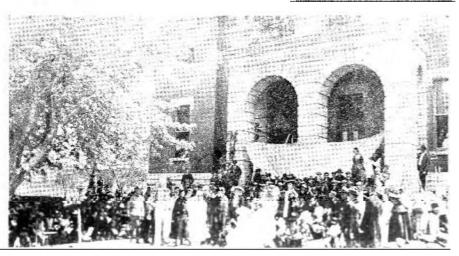

pag-eant were very much pleased with

It was a beautiful day and also another fact helped to make the afternoon a for the audience. They certainly appreciated it. The program was given under the direction of the Y. W. C. A. and the college owes much to the neccs-sary touch and color to make the his-oric picture complete.

Miss Garda Parker as the queen. showed that a wise choice had been made. With quiet dignity and conscious power she not only acted, but really was

THE SANDBURR

Published York Col	y by	the St	udents	c
Entered a	nd-class		r at	th

Terms:—One Year $1.00. Sent to any address, postage prepaid.

All friends of York College, Graduate, and Ex-Students are invited.

SANDBURR STAFF

Editor-in-chief	Lee Fletche
Associate Editor	Mary Cave
Business Manager	Clyde Reynolds
Faculty Critic	Miss Clarke
Society Editor	Hattie Mapps
Literary Editor	Eva Ker
Our Soldiers & Sailors	Miss Callende:
Burrs	Lettie Masor
Alumni	Jennie Mui
Locals:
Music	Faith Babe
College	Lenore Johr
Academy	Mabel Meeke
Business College Etta Lowrey

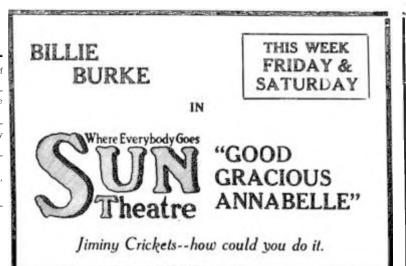

Ruth Rickard Ada Sack Mrs. Woodbury

This is the finis. The present staff lays down the pen with this issue. We hope our efforts have pleased you. The editor wishes to extend to all the members of the staff his sincerest gratitude for their very efficient co-operation. The degree of success the paper has attained is due to the efforts of the staff. It is the hope of the editor that more efficient hands will take up the quill next year. But there are no apologies offered. The new Y. C. of 1920, we are very sure will compell a better paper.

The staff are all agreed that this has been a year of shortage of material. 'rile school events that usually occupy so much space in a publication of this sort have been few and far be-tween. The beginning of the school year found "pep" lagging far in the rear. But gradually the old master be-gan to reassert himself until now he is again very much in evidence, He is manifested most often in class spirit. We are glad for the class spirit. It keeps the spice in school life. The student body may be small this year, but it cannot be accused of being dead. We have hung on to the ideals of old Y. C. and we belive we have Maintained her traditional "pep."

As an evidence of the spirit of Y. C. read this number of the Sand Burr. We hope this issue pleases you. We have endeavored to make it the best of the year for two reasons. We want to show the people who are interested in York College that the school is still on the map and there to stay. We wish some of the people who are not acquainted with our activities may see how we enjoy ourselves at York College. And in addition to this it is the intention of the staff to make this paper the connecting link with the en-larged and better paper of next year.

Now we lay down the pen. Again we say "thank you" to all students who have co-operated in making the Sand Burr a success this year. Before we go out into the summer's

UNITED ENLISTMENT MOVEMEN

World reconstruction politically makes church reconstruction neces-sary.

The Church of Christ as it is today is the greatest organization in the world. It is the greatest financially. No other organization has the amount of money invested, and no other can show such returns in the amount in-vested, with proportionate expense ac-count. No other has so many stock-holders, or every contributor is a stockholder. No other ministers to the need and welfare of so many people. While all this is true, as Dr. S. Earl Tayor has declared "No other organization is developing so small a percentage of its resources as the Christian church. All the money paid or foreign missions in 1918 would not equal the interest on the expenditure of the world war for one hour."

It is probably true that the personal and spiritual resources are just as little developed and employed as the financial. A realization of these conditons in the

A realization of these conditions in the presence of the call of the world for every kind of product that the Church of Christ and it alone, can turn out has stirred the evangelical denom inations as never before. They see the imperative necessity of closer co-operation and co-ordinaton. as taught us in the winning of the great military victory, it we are to win and maintain the victory of peace. The present stause of this co-ordination and co-opera-tion is in unity of methods and planning in which the time element is im-portant, as all the denominations will be doing the same work at the same time. Each denomination is endeavoring to perfect its own organization to do its alloted share and each has des-inated its own movement, by its own name. The Methodists call their the-Centenary Movement; the Congrega-tionalists call theirs the Tercentenary Movement in honor of the Pilgrim Fathers; the Presbyterians call their

the New Era Movement: the United Brethren have named their the United Enlistment Movement.

The last general conference made provision for closer co-oeration and co-ordination of all the hoards and forces within the denomination; DR. S. S. Hough, formerly secretary of the For-eign Mission Board, is now the general secretary of the United Enlistment Movement.

The motto of the Movement is: "God, Unity, Action, Victory." The aims are:

 The enlistment of the whole church in prayer, Bible study and ser-vice.
A unified program of action: all working at the same things at the same time. QUALITY is not merely a matter of money and materials. The best equipped photographer cannot at any price produce anything better than he or his employees are trained to do, or than his studio is equipped to produce.

The Uniform High Quality of our Portraits is the result of years of training and experience

We Try No Experiments On You THAT MAN

Send us your Kodak films for development

3. The church meeting the needs 2 of the new era on the terms of the cia Word of God, and in the power of the living Christ.

The objectives of the Movement are outlined as follows:

1. The spiritual life: the entire membership of every local church spir-itually quickened and set o work. 2. Evangelism to win 150,000 to Christ and 100,000 net increase in the denomination in four years.

3. Sunday schools and Christian Endeavor: 25% increase in enrollment.

4. Leadership: an increase of 2,000 students in our colleges and 500 addi-tional trained ministers, missionaries and educational leaders.

5. Educational Endowments: an in-crease of $2,000,000 in new funds for better equipment, endowment of scholarships, and aid to men and wo-men entering the ministry.

6. Benevolences: For missions, home and foreign, church erection. board of education, seminary, Sunday schools, Christian Endeavor, conference extension, orphanages, etc., for four years as follows:

First year -$700,000; second year $800,000 third year $900,000; fourth year $1,0000,000.

7. Special Occasions: semi-centennial celebraton of the Church-Erection Society in 1919. and of the Sunday school work in 1920.

The agencies to be employed in at-taining these objectives are:

1. Prayer and Bible Study: these are regarded as fundamental. Effort is now being made to enlist every member of the church in a covenant of prayer. Special emphasis is placed on the family altar and Bible study in the home. 2. Survey and Personal York: special emphasis is laid upon personal evangelism—one-win-one. Pastoral evangelism is also emphasized.

3. Increase Campaign: "Special em-phasis is given to the Reconstruction Campaign of the Christian Endeavor Society centering about Anniversary Day, a fall rally of our Sunday school forces in the autumn of 1919. and the great Centenary Increase Campaign of the Sunday school in the spring and early summer of 1920,"

4. Life Work and Student Campaign: hundreds of young people are enlisting as Life Work Recruits: effort is also being made to draw hundreds from the churches to educational pre-paration.

5. Educational Endowments: two United Brethren colleges since this campaign was launched, have each added over $400,000 to its endowment, and another has passed the $150,000 mark. Others are in the midst of cam-paigns.

6. Stewardship Enlistment: Chris-tian Stewardship is regarded as of paramount importance. The effort is now being made to enlist fifty thousand Christian Stewards. A full budget is indispensible. In addition to this but one united campaign will be made in the year 1919, which will take the place of all special appeals, up to April. 1920.

The United Brethren church will co-operate with the inter-Church World Movement in making a survey at home and abroad and in the united canvass or funds at a period to be determined later, probably in 1920.

7. Special Provisions: the United Enlistment Movement will care for the semi-centennial offering for Church Erection in the fall of 1919, and the Centennial offering in 1920.

L. F. John

want to remember and whom you want to remem-ber you, here you'll find gifts to her liking. Delicately designed brooches; exquisite lavallieres; bracelets; rings; silver ornaments; and a complete showing of famous ELGIN WATCHES -trust-worthy, time-enduring timepieces - a life companion of the recipient. Let us show our suggestions to yo

F. A. HANNIS THE GIFT SHOP

Many Charming Gifts for the Young Men

LOCALS

May 1. Duke and Wagner get May baskets. Popular (?). May 2. Wagner wants to meet the girl who gave him his May basket. Don't blush so, Maud. May 5. Dean Ashcraft lays empha-sis upon closing hours at the Con. All eyes center upon Fletcher. May 6. Meeting of the Kitchen Cab-inet.

inet.

May 7. Academy class breakfast. May 8. Wagner suffers heavy losses during the moving of the piano from the Con to the Gym. May 9. Juniors get a much needed supply of hot air.

May 12. Tennis season begins in earnest. May 13. May Day rehearsal is hard on everyone's disposition.

May 14. Academy exhibits "pep" in May 14. Academy exhibits pop ... chapel. May 15. Miss Blinn talks in chapel. May 16. May Day—The Y. M. C. A. gives a program in chapel. May 19. The aeroplane arrives from

Kansas City. May 20. G. A. R. parade. Junior pienic at the Cushman home. May 21. Zeta picnic.

May 22. College buildings become invisible on account of the growth of dandelions. May 23. Mr. Holcombe and Dr. John report on the Inter-Church convention recently held at Lincoln. May 26. shortcake feed. Sophomore strawberry

May 27. Annuals appear.

May 28. Biggest Sandburr of the vear. May 29. The morning after the night before for light footed Y. H. S. alumni.

May 30. Junior-Senior banquet.

Louise Hammond went to Lincoln April 24 to hear Louise Homer. She spent the week end with Sylvia Sbythers and Viola Samuelson.

country

DRS. MOORE SHIDLER

THE YORK CLINIC

This is the last issue of the year And what a relief it is To know that soon to another staff Will belong the work, the blame, the fear. Fear? Yes, fear the paper will be late, That someone will get sore, That something's in that should not be; Or we've left out someone's bright lore.

No more we'll hear our critics say (We've had 'em by the score) "That staff in humiliation ought to sink

For the paper is surely on the blink." Then some bright student will chime in,

"The joke editor's brains are out of

To the jokes there's not a single point." The ads are very badly arranged,"

"The stories show a mind deranged." Ah, well, that all is over now, Our worries will soon cease.

We leave the field to another staff And we depart in peace.

--L. E. M. BURRS

Prof. Feemster, "Newton's law of gravity prevents us from being flung into space Lucy: "What did we do before the law was passed?

BING!!

John: "I read once that the biggest nuts always get the prettiest girls. Ethel: "Oh, John--you flatterer."

This is a tip for Coffey. No one else is to read it. "Sh! Mr. Wagner tried to hold El-len's hand in psy. class and—sh!—she seemed to like it."

At the Junior Waffle

Duke, after he has consumed his sixty-first waffle: "Say are you twins both cross-eyed,—er, I mean both cross-eyed,—er, left-hand-ed?"

Freshman's favorite Coffey-Green. Junior's favorite Coffey—Roasted. Why does Eb Bowers hang on the west gate

> "I like cocoa, I like tea, But Coffey agrees The best with me."

—Ellen Kaliff.

PERSONALITY and Good Clothes

lothes don't make the man any more than a frame makes a picture or paint, a home. But unframed pictures are little favored and frowsy homes don't react profitably on folks who live near or in them.

"Drowsiness shall clothe a man in rags" saith the Book. By the same sign rags oft clothe one with drowsiness. Fit attire breeds enthusiasm and energy and success is bound to follow these.

As you go out to take your place with the men and women of the world, strengthen your personality with the influence of good clothes. And to get the best clothes for the least money come to this store.

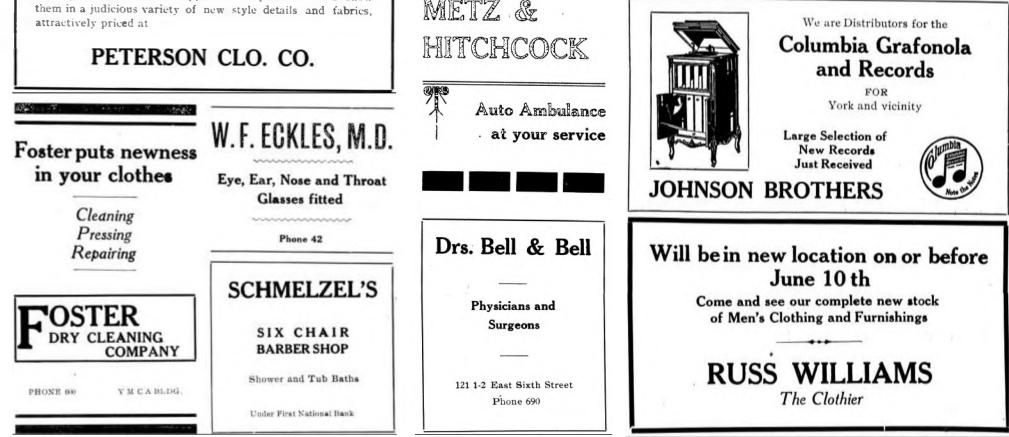

When you need a Range or Oil Stove or Housekeeping outfit be sure and call at

And when it gets warmer buy an

Alaska Refrigerator sold in this store for over 30 years

THE HOT AFTERNOON

passes quickly, when you call at our Soda Fountain

Soda-licious Soda

MADE WITH

BOYER'S SPECIAL ICE CREAM

Get It At Boyer's

The House of Kuppenheimer Clothes

Thoroughbred style, designed, cut and tailored for twofisted, upstanding young Americans. Robust lines with the finishing which lend a buoyant effect, the style of strength, virile yet graceful. These Special Models for the new American figure are exclusive Kuppenheimer products. We show them in a judicious variety of new style details and fabrics,

Marian Boughner, Ethel Garner, Vi-ola Stoddard, Gladys Davidson and Lucy Davidson spent Sumday, May 24, with Mable Meeker at her home in the

109-11 WEST 7th STREET ADIEU