PRACTICAL ECONOMY

Billie Simpkins went to college
In pursuit of classic knowledge;
Greek, perchance, and things like that.
And football, too, right off the bat.
And making love, and some agronomy.
But, best of all, he learned economy.
He learned what other college youth
Had learned ahead of him, forsooth—
That while it costs—as goodness knows
A most stupendous lot for clothes,
Such cost may be cut down by half—
Oh Boy! Oh Joy! It is to laugh! —
He bundles up his duds and sends 'em
Down to Foster—Foster mends 'em.
Cleans and presses 'em so neatly
They're as good as new, completely.
Charges but a trifling sum—
Puts old High Cost on the bum.
And the Co-Eds are as wise
As Billie is, you may surmise—
For each of them has found it cost'er
Less to send her togs to Foster—
Garments last and look much neater—
Sweet Co-Eds thus look still sweeter.
So it is that all the students
Of a wise, sagacious prudence
Know that best of service lurks
Around the Foster Cleaning Works;
And they are graduates, you see.
In practical economy.

We could not begin our editorials, especially in this, our first number, without making a request of each and every reader. Our request is this: "That before you lay aside this copy and place it in your files of 'Days gone by,' where it will become musty before it is brought forth some winter night in the years to come, to be re-read and re-dreamed and re-enjoyed, you pay your due respects to those who have made possible the publishing of this paper."

Now, if any of you are in doubt as to whom we mean, just turn to the cover pages and those next to them and read the names you find set off in the squares and oblongs. Please remember that these people will appreciate it if you drop in and show them that you appreciate what they have done for us. Now, in other words, "Patronize the Advertisers."

Some people are like the old woman's clock of which she said that as long as it wasn't running it was sure to be right at least once in the twelve hours. While if she started it going it might never be right. Now, if you have not wound the clock of your College year, watch very carefully and when it is right the "once in the twelve hours" be sure you wind it and start it off! Then keep it wound, and, if you are afraid that you will fall asleep, just set the alarm.

I am a little wood box,
 I hang in the lower hall,
 I have a slot in my head
 That makes me open to all.
 I can keep a secret well,
 For I am deaf and dumb;
 And what you put in my head
 I wouldn't tell anyone.
 The letters on my breastplate
 Will tell you what I'm for,
 I've given my life to my cause
 If you'll help me I'll do more.

Twenty-five years from now will my memory be able to recall the lessons I spent hours to prepare? Will I remember the faces of the kindly-intentioned Profs? Or will I think first of all of the class-fights, or the parties, or the banquets and all the beauty there? Ah, beauty! that is the word! I have always admired beauty in all its many forms. And who would be guilty of marring beauty in any way? Surely, no one! Then who? oh! who? pleads guilty to the slaying of the faithful old—what shall we call it? —that which measured so many steps and so many strokes of the dumb-bells over in the gym, with its “four-four” reuglarity? And now why should it be left so heartlessly in this dead state, lying flat on its back to the mercy of the elements, marring the beauty of our campus.

Ye classes, with your loyal spirit! in memory of the musical tones that once ensued from this box, we challenge you: That you see that old “Trum-Trum” be given a suitable burial with the proper services! ” that our campus may remain “a thing of beauty and a joy forever.”

THE CHAPERON

A new department called “The Chaperon” is to be added to the “Sandburr” this year. This department has been used with satisfactory results in the past, but has been discontinued in our paper. We feel, however, that the need for it exists and that the members of the student body will appreciate having this means of satisfying themselves regarding points of correct social usage about which they may be in doubt. So if there is any question of this sort you would like to ask, write it on a slip of paper and drop it in the “Sandburr” box in the lower hall of the Administration building, or hand it to one of the editors, and the question will be printed with the answer, in the next issue of the “Sandburr.”

FACULTY

Two new teachers have been added to our college faculty this year. Miss Georgian Adams comes to us from the University of Nebraska, where she took her Master's degree in chemistry. She is entering into the school activities heartily, having made her debut as Freshman sponsor at their class weinie roast.

Prof. Verder, who has charge of the Expression Department and the work in advanced English, took his Master's degree in Expression at Harvard University. The courses he offers are very popular and much enjoyed.

We are glad to welcome both of these instructors and hope they will enjoy their work here.

“A fit for every foot” at Rogers Shoe Co.

The first Y. W. meeting of this year was held September 17. Marion Boughner as leader, gave an outline of the founding of the Y. W. and the many phases of its work. The need of prayer was especially emphasized.

The time for the Y. W. meetings has been changed from the chapel period on Wednesday, to Monday afternoon at 4: 15. That the spirit of reverence and worship could not be attained in the morning meetings as it could at the close of the school day, was the reason for changing the time.

Mrs. Morgan lead a very helpful meeting on Monday, September 22. The subject, "The High Art of Living," was very forcibly brought to each girl's mind by the illustrations and the high ideals of girlhood given by the leader.

Let every girl that hasn't already handed her name in for membership, be ready to give her name in the membership campaign that will soon take place. Every girl in school an active Y. W. worker is our aim and help make this year one to be long remembered.

On Thursday, September 11, at 4: 30 p. m., occurred the regular Y. W. C. A. "Jolly-Up" reception for the new girls in school. The affair was held in the literary halls and about seventy-five girls were present to become acquainted and have a good time. The afternoon was well spent in "get-acquainted" games. Punch was served before the girls left, and a cordial invitation was extended to all the new girls to join the Y. W.

reception at the College Gymnasium. At the appointed hour the guests began to arrive and were greeted by the members of the cabinets of the two associations, who formed the receiving line. After this they were given cards upon which they were to have written the names of as many others as possible. Following this was given a splendid formal program as follows:

- Vocal solo Miss Celestia Johnson
- Reading Miss Alice Meyers
- Vocal solo..... Marion Mulvaney
- Reading..... Ruth Yust

These were very much enjoyed by all. The remainder of the evening was spent in various games and stunts given by different groups of students representing other Colleges of the state. Before leaving, everyone was served delicious refreshments, and everyone departed having spent a very enjoyable evening.

A reception was given Friday evening, September 12, at the Congregational church by the members of the Federated churches for all the College students. A large number were present to enjoy the entertainment provided for them. Several charades were given to provide fun. Then a splendid program was given, consisting of a piano solo by Margaret Valentine; words of greeting by W. C. Baer; vocal solo by Mrs. Nordlund; some original poems by Prof. Verder, and lastly a beautiful organ and piano duet by Miss Rankin and Miss Pearson. Punch was then served and the remainder of the evening was spent in conversation. A very enjoyable time was spent by all.

THE PALS

The Pals held their first meeting on the 18th. A large crowd was in attendance and lots of pep and enthusiasm for the coming year's work was manifested.

The girls held a short meeting early in the evening at which occurred the pretty installation ceremony with all new officers dressed in white. The new officers were as follows:

- President Kathryn Stowe
- Vice-Pres Maude LeFever

- Secretary..... lone Philson
- Treasurer..... Blanche Harritt
- Cor. Secretary..... Eva Kerr
- Censor..... Joyce Cushman
- Critic..... Miss E. Clarke
- Sergeat at Arms..... Ellen Hayden

Pal Principles
 (Adopted, 1919)

1. We believe in self-improvement, physically, mentally and morally.
2. We believe in loyalty to each other and to our society. We understand loyalty to our society to mean:
 - a. Regular attendance at meetings.
 - b. Prompt and willing performance of duties.
 - c. An earnest endeavor to uphold the principles and spirit of our society.
3. We believe in strict enforcement of our constitution.
4. We believe in equality and fraternity.
5. We believe in the spirit of helpfulness and co-operation.
6. We believe in making every student welcome to membership in our society.

7. We believe pledges of membership are sacred.
8. We believe in democracy, both within the school and within our society.
9. We believe in doing unto others as we would have others do unto us.
 Welcome to our Society.

CLASS NOTES

Freshmen

The Freshmen of old Y. C. congregated in the rear of the chapel room after the first chapel and elected their most honored officers. The elected are:

- PresidentMarion Mulvaney
- Vice-Pres.Stella Carroll
- SecretaryWalter Henry
- Treasurer..... RobertSteven
- Sponsor MissAdams

The class is the largest in school and is composed of thirty-five very competent students. Some are leaders in music, athletics and all College doings. As to the doings of the Freshmen, they nearly spoiled the Seniors' small picnic and then "pulled off" a similar stunt on a larger scale under the eyes of the rest of the school. Their "eats" were large in quantity and quality, everyone being sufficiently supplied. Watch this space for something more interesting next issue.

Sophomores

Unlike the Freshmen class, the Sophomores are quality not quantity. Fourteen Sophomores met in Prof. Bisset's room after chapel, September 11, and elected the following officers:

- President Kathryn Stowe
- Vice-Pres Dara Mohler
- Sec. and Treas Marjorie Anderson

We are so glad to have Prof. Bisset for our sponsor again this year. With Mr. and Mrs. Bisset to help us in our good times, York College is sure to hear from us many times this year. Watch and see!

Juniors

The Juniors held their first class meeting very promptly, elected their officers and began work with enthusiasm. The officers for this year are:

- President..... Lena Myers
- Vice-Pres..... LouiseHammond
- Sec. and Treas..... Antonio Rivera
- Class Sponsor..... Miss Cone

The Juniors have the very best Sponsor ever. The class is small in numbers but the quality counterbalances this slight fault. In another column you will find what we did at our first class party. Work is already in progress for the "marathon." The class of 1921 has always been noted for originality and "pep." This year will not find any decrease in amount. "My Word" for it.

Seniors

The Senior class has reassembled this year with enough new members to make our number thirteen, which is not in the least unlucky for a class like ours. The officers are:

- President Frank Stowe
- Vice-Pres.....Myrtle Hunt
- Sec. and Treas..... JoyceCushman
- SponsorMiss Clarke

With such a president and such a sponsor, what class could fail to have a most pleasant year ahead of it.

Our first "get-together" was more of a success than usual if that were possible. Just take our word for it or ask the "Freshies" who stood across the creek and watched us eat.

MUSIC NOTES

Miss Rankin spent the summer in Chicago studying with Percy Grainger, the Australian pianist.

Miss Pearson spent the summer in York. She had a very large class in piano during summer school.

Mr. Amadon spent the latter part of the summer in Boston, visiting, and enjoying a much needed rest.

There is a larger number of music students this year than there has been for several years. Every one shows much interest in his work. The Harmony and Theory classes are large. We are in need of another practice piano to accommodate the students.

The Men's Glee Club has begun practice and we are hoping to hear some real music soon.

Henry Kolling has returned from Wyoming and resumed his piano work and has also taken up Theory of Music.

Miss Faith Baber has returned from Concordia, Kansas and is performing her usual tasks.

Mr. Lee Fletcher is again studying at the Conservatory. His course is not definitely decided.

Miss Agnes VanTine is another of our old students who is with us again.

ATHLETICS

Football

Schedule for 1919

- Oct. 3—York vs. Midland, at York.
- Oct. 10—York vs. Hastings, at Hastings.
- Oct. 17—York vs. Central City, at Central City.
- Oct. 2... —York vs. Doane, at York.
- Oct. 31—York vs. Wesleyan, at York.
- Nov. 9—York vs. Grand Island, at Grand Island.
- Nov. 14—York vs. Cotner, at York.
- Nov. 21—York vs. Kearney Normal, at York.

Thanksgiving — open. Probably Wyoming State University.

York College was very fortunate this year in securing the services of Mr. Ernie Frank as coach of our football team. Mr. Frank coached here two years ago and turned out a remarkable team and we know he can do the same again. Mr. Frank is a Nebraska man, having played three years on the University of Nebraska team and held the captaincy one year. This is an unusual record for any one person.

The football material this year seems fairly plentiful and certainly looks good. Among the men getting out are Zimmerman, Larson, Coffey, Mulvaney and Pursel, all old men who played two years ago and of whom a lot is expected.

Among the new men are Brestel of Gothenburg, Nebr., who has been in the army and surely promises good.

Brungard comes from Cambridge H. S., and seems very fast and has had lots of experience.

Four men from York High School are getting out: Bowers, Myers,

Electric Shoe Repairing while you wait. Rogers Shoe Co.

John and Cottrell. Myers was an all-state High School man and Bowers has the reputation of a good quarterback. John, who did not play with York High, has had some experience and he is expected to make good.

As usual, we have a Mutt and Jeff in Parks and Hamilton, who came from Plainview, and have had three years' experience.

Other new men are on the field of whom little is known as yet. They are Baller, Dickey, Hobbs and McClatchey. While not familiar with these men, we wish to say that they are surely showing the spirit and will surely win out.

Davidson, Stowe and Jordan are also out, fighting hard; so someone will have to keep moving.

There have been a number of spectators at practice and some of them are college fellows who should be out in suits, and, if you can encourage their getting out in any way, you will be helping somewhat. The more men out means a greater number to pick from and also means a stronger second team. The second team has a lot to do with the development of the varsity and we think that all that possibly can ought to get out.

LOCALS

Hep! Hep! Hep! Hep!

Most everybody's now in line.

Pep! Pep! Pep! Pep!

York College, friends, is starting fine.

Ernest Baber of Omaha, visited his sister Faith the second week of school.

Eva Williams, we are informed, spent last evening at home—the first in three weeks.

On September 11th, at the chapel hour, the student body enjoyed an opening address by Prof. Verder.

Lawrence Coffey, the morning after the Jolly-Up reception, was scarcely able to walk. There is a Reason—Punch.

Dean and Raymond Wolfe visited old friends here on the 16th.

The joint reception of the Christian Associations was largely attended by students and friends. Several former students were present some of whom were Miss Mildred Boren, who is teaching this year in Waco; Miss Hattie Mapps of Aurora, Fred Steley of Denver, Colo., and Clara King of Lushton.

The first meeting of Y. W. C. A. was held in the chapel and led by Miss Marion Boughner, was well attended.

Lloyd Cottrell says it rained the other night. Perhaps he knows.

Miss Merle Snider of Lincoln, gave us a wee small glimpse of herself one day last week, when she stopped over between trains.

We have rather an unusual happening in our school this year—four sisters all in school at one time. We have had as large a number as this from one family, at different intervals before, but not all at one time. We are all acquainted with the Davidson tribe and the Reynolds clan, etc., and now we hasten to acquaint ourselves with the Yaw sisters.

Electric Shoe Repairing while you wait. Rogers Shoe Co.

Ray Baber, who has recently returned from China, and who is attending school at Madison, Wis., this year, stopped off at York on his way there to call on his sister, Faith Baber on Wednesday of last week. Miss Bertha Mitchell and Mr. Lee Fletcher were also invited in to spend the evening.

Steele Holcomb visited and dined with the Y. M. cabinet Monday of last week.

Miss Nina Belle Caldwell spent a part of her vacation with friends and relatives in York. Miss Caldwell is an alumna of York College and is now taking nurses' training at Evanston, Ill.

Chapel time on Friday has been changed from 9: 30 to 11: 30, so that it will be possible for the Business College to attend on those days.

Louise Hammond, we are informed, was out past her bed time last night. We are not real sure as to the location of this place, but we hope Louise found everything O. K. out there.

The Freshmen seem to be hunting Seniors. Can it be knowledge they are craving?

The Juniors are beginning to talk Annual. In fact they had their first session with Miss Cone, Monday evening. At least they talked about how nice it was going to be. But feeds are more fun than Annual talk, especially when everybody else is chasing seniors. So with weenies and all sorts of good things that go with weenies, these Juniors left town, all unbeknown to other folks, and in a nice little nook northeast of town, built a campfire and toasted, roasted, etc., like good times always demand. Joy riding and serenading were other pastimes of the evening.

At chapel the next morning—

The Seniors sing and orate (?).

The Juniors exclaim!

The Sophs are quiet.

The Freshmen—!?? *—?!!! **?!? *.

Miss Garnet Hillman from north of Bradshaw, returned Monday to take up her studies after two weeks' illness. We are all glad to have her back with us.

Business College Locals

Roy Stone spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Central City.

The students in the Commercial Department were re-seated Tuesday, the beginners and the advanced students being respectively grouped together.

Earl Hobbs and Edwin Aetts spent Sunday at their home in Aurora.

Miss Mary Hansen visited her home Saturday and Sunday. Miss Hansen comes from Battle Creek, Ia.

Students are invited to call and see our shoes. Rogers Shoe Co.

Business College Notes

The Business College is beginning splendidly with an enrollment of one hundred and twenty-five students under the supervision of its able business manager, V. V. Moore. Mr. Moore has been connected with the Business College for the last three years, and is a resident of the city of York.

For the benefit of the new students it might be well to publish a brief introduction concerning each of the four teachers who assist Mr. Moore.

Miss Iona Geiger, from Perry, Oklahoma, has been the teacher in book-keeping and rapid calculation since January 1, 1919. She is very proficient in her work and is greatly respected by all who know her.

We have a new teacher in the person of Miss Ella Pederson, who comes to us from Kratka, Minnesota. Miss Pederson has had several years' experience as a teacher in shorthand and typewriting and has charge of those departments in our College.

Mrs. Paul Porter, probably better known to the old students as Nina Francis, has the supervision of the English, arithmetic and spelling departments. Since Mrs. Porter, during the years '16 and '17, taught in the same position, the work is not at all new to her. She possesses a personality that brings cheer to all who are fortunate enough to have made her acquaintance.

Last but by no means least in this list of our teachers, is Mr. E. V. Deason of York High School, who instructs in penmanship. Mr. Deason uses a thorough and accurate method that is sure to get the best results.

"If your feet hurt" go to Rogers and let them fit you.

ACADEMY DEPARTMENT

First and Second Academy

The class officers of the Freshmen and Sophomore classes in their joint organization are: Miss Ione Philson, president; Mr. Clair Gustin, vice-president; Miss Reka Blanc, secretary, and Miss Francel Barr, treasurer.

They have a jolly sponsor in the person of Mr. Noll, and with their fine bunch of students are a big addition to the Academy of York College.

We hope that they will like our school so much that they will want to go on through school here, and graduate from the Academic Department and the College Department as well.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

The Junior Class

Prof. Morgan seems to be very popular among the Junior and Senior Academy. The misunderstanding of the Seniors that the Juniors had secured him as sponsor, has been removed and negotiations are under way for the federation of the two classes during the first semester.

Our outlook is bright for a prosperous year in gaining knowledge as well as an active part in College life. The Junior class is full of "pep" and social activities despite the fact that nearly every one is carrying extra studies and making his way through school.

Miss Myrle Philson has been elected as president, Ernest Philson as vice-president, and Edward Jordan as secretary-treasurer. With these officers we have a strong class organization and look forward to many pleasurable occasions together.

The Senior Class

The Senior class in the Academy is larger than usual this year and we certainly have lots of pep and enthusiasm which has already been shown. We are all looking forward for a bright future in our college days which will soon be here.

We have a strong organization this year, having elected the following officers:

- President Ethel Garner
- Vice-Pres..... PeterDell
- Sec. -Treas. Madeline Reynolds
- Sponsor.....MissCallender

On the 24th of September the Academy Seniors entertained the other classes of the Academy. At 5: 00 p. m. all assembled at the Northwest edn depot. From here they hiked westward along the track about two miles until they had come to the place where they had planned the entertainment. The greater part of the time there was spent in playing various games.

A bonfire was built where wienies and marshmallows were roasted.

This was the first informal gathering of the Academy and everybody felt free to get acquainted and have a good time.

Heard in Class and Through the Halls

Prof. Noll (in General Science Class): "If the earth should stop revolving, what would happen?" ffl

Myrle Philson: "We'd hit astar."

Talk about absent-mindedness! The other day Prof. Feemster was deep in thought explaining to the first year Algebra class about positive and negative signs.

Henry Kolling entered the room and as he stopped at the desk, Prof. Feemster looked up with a start, exclaiming, "Did some one knock?"

"No, I just walked in," explained Henry.

Miss Adams, who had been a little exacting with Peter Dell at an examination in Chemistry, asked as a final question: "Can you tell me anything at all about prussic acid?"

"Yes," replied Peter Dell, "It is a deadly poison. One drop on the end of your tongue would kill a dog!"

In Ancient History class, Miss Boughner explained that in ancient times the people believed in "keeping their souls light for their bodies!"

Registrar: "And are you the oldest in your family?"

Freshie: "No, both mamma and papa are older than I am."

Father: "What are you going to do this evening, Ernest?"

Ernest: "I must study my astronomy lesson!"

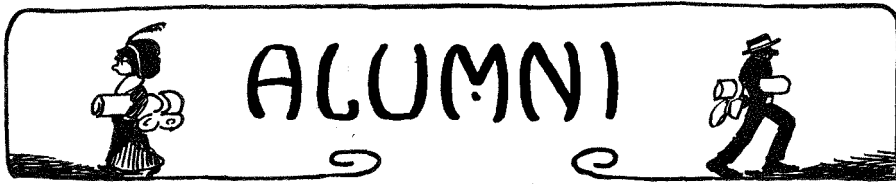

Greathouse had eaten a pork chop which a waiter at the "Con" had recommended. When he had finished the waited asked:

"How did you find the chop, sir?"

"By moving aside the two peas which were with it," answed Greathouse, —"the chop was under the peas."

I Know a Fountain

I know a fountain
 Whose waters are clear
 As the brooks on a mountain
 Where feed the young deer.
 I know a fountain
 Whose waters are bright
 As the stars that enjoy
 Their shining at night.
 I know a fountain
 Whose waters are free,
 As free as the music
 Of earth, sky, and sea.
 I know a fountain
 Whose waters are pure
 As the cup of the lily
 That grows by my door.
 And where is this fountain,
 In city or grove?
 It stands in the heart
 Of the mortal who loves.

A Freshman's Diary

Tuesday, Sept. 9, 1919. Enrolled today for football, private interviews with the professors, and promenades in the halls, and as a side issue sixteen hours of college work or recreation just as you prefer it. I expect to spend the most of my time in practicing football this semester and basketball the next.

Wednesday, Sept. 10. The Freshies all went to their classes, that is if they could find them. I entered my supposed French class a few minutes late. The conversation was in terms that I had never heard before, so of course I thought it was French. The instructor soon asked if I had my registration card so I gave it to him. He looked at it a few minutes then said, "You have not registered for Psychology." Well I moved on.

Each teacher assigned our lessons and gave a brief outline of the course. What a feeling swept upon me when each professor said, "Ninty pages of reading a week is required in this subject." A whole library of books leaped before my eyes. How could so many volumes be stored in such a small block.

Friday, Sept. 12, 1919. The Dean gave us our permanent seats in chapel and to our great horror we found that there were four more Freshie boys than girls. Which one of the Freshie boys would be captured by a Senior girl, for I have heard that tradition says the "left over" boys are always taken by some Senior girl.

I went to my class where the professor said that he would give some valuable suggestions for studying our lessons—"Spend two hours on each lesson." If I study two hours on the minor course, I cannot spend enough time on my regular course, such as moonlight walks or swiping the Sophomores' and Juniors' eats, whenever they have a feed.

Monday. Decided that probably Mr. Parks and Stella could see the words of the songs, while singing in chapel if Stella would stand on the seat.

Tuesday. After surveying myself in the mirror, I noticed what a great improvement that I had made in intellectual looks. All the Freshies have learned how to bluff in all of our recitations, especially in Rhetoric, and everything in "going fine."

Three Gates of Gold

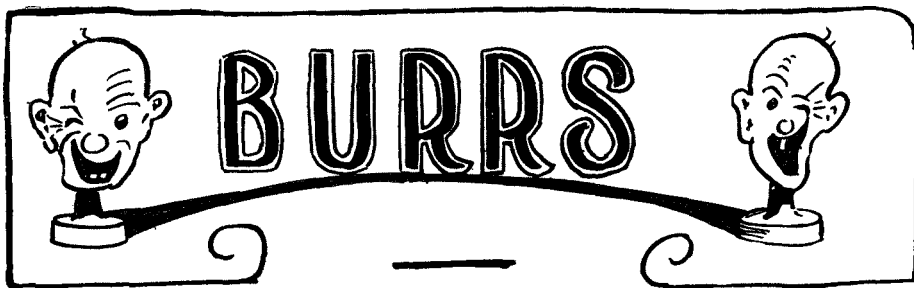

If you are tempted to reveal
A tale someone has told
About another, make it pass,
Before you speak, three gates of gold:

These narrow gates:

first, "Is it true?"
This, "Is it needful?" In your mind
Give truthful answer. And the next
Is last and narrowest, "Is it kind?"

And if to reach your lips at last

It passes through these gateways three,
Then you may tell the tale, nor fear
What the result of speech may be.

We are merry Sand Burrs
Waiting to be used;
Come and take a class with us
We cannot be refused.

Miss Clarke (in French class):
"Round your lips and make them more responsive to the dictates of your mind."

Ernest Philson (in loud whisper):
"She's got the idea!"

* * * *

Professor Verder (in Shakespeare class): "Those who have not paid for their books please do so immediately."

Ellen (who owed thirty cents):
"Have you a First National check?"

* * * *

Marian B. (in chapel): "I think it's a shame that the Dean didn't seat
Mrs. Webb with her husband. What's the use of having a husband if you can't sit by him?"

Merle Philson: "What's the use in having one if you can't trust him three seats ahead?"

Ethel Gamer: "What's the use in having a husband anyway?"

Freda Ball: "Well, I really don't know, but I'm awfully anxious to find out."

Grace Getty (at the Senior Wienie Roast): "Do you think the coffee is done?"

Ellen Kaliff: "Be sure to boil it long enough or I won't like it."

Grace: "Why, I thought the kind you like best is half-baked."

Joyce: "Where did you get that dreadful cold?"

Skinny: "Oh, it's nothing. I took a little swim Monday night."

Joyce (innocently): "Oh! Why, that was the night of the Senior 'hike'."

Mrs. Noll (overhearing): "Well, you can't have him!"

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Ellen Hayden: "Why don't some one choose a professional man?"

Grace King: "No Sir! I'm not going to marry a professor."

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Skinny (in Economics): "After the famine in Ireland in 1847 there was a diminishing population which was caused by the migration of people to America."

Mr. Bisset: "It was also due to the increase in the death rate, was it not?"

Skinny: "Yes—the fact is, there was considerable migration of souls."

Oh Maud, Maud, poor lonely Maud,
Where has fat J. Peter gone?
Oh! He was here in the Spring,
He was frisking on the lawn.

The Morning After

Merle Harner's senior class oration in chapel was a howling success. The sad part of it, however, is the fact that the howling was furnished by all students not connected with the said class.

One rainy day "Eb" was reciting in History class. The topic he had been asked to discuss was about how people used to deposit their money in strange hiding places. This subject had been discussed before "Eb's" wandering brain had a faint remembrance of the mention of skeletons in connection with these primitive safety vaults. We will presume that those searching for treasure had died in the attempt. But "Eb," though well used to bluffing, could not assimilate his hazy impressions. He studied the floor with an intelligent frown for a moment, then said brightly: "It's so dark today I don't want to scare the girls."

Colson (in Ancient History): "I guess when we don't know the lesson we can't recite can we?"

Miss Boughner: "I'm getting use J to that in this class now."

Teacher (English recitation): "Why are titles used in addressing persons?"

Mr. West: "To make them think more of themselves."

Mrs. Porter (in Spelling): "Will the person who dropped the pen in the back of the room please pick it up?"

Shoes at all prices and grades. Rogers Shoe Co.

Miss Geiger (in Rapid): "What is your answer, West?"

Mr. West: "Check."

Eva W.: "I have always wanted to marry a preacher."

Marian B.: "Why don't you put a want ad in the Sandburr?"

Brestel (to Elda C.): "What's Harmony?"

Elda: "Oh, it teaches you not to wear a red waist and pink coat."

A Tale of Adventure

Senior Sizzle,
Junior Drizzle,
Sophomore and Junior Fizzle.
Seniors fight,
Freshmen plight,
Skinny drowned, and served him right.
They went home
No more to roam,
"My word" said the Juniors with a moan.
Moral: Never,
No, not ever,
Say the Seniors are not clever.

MY WORD!!!

Say it not, if this edition is poor.
Answer thyself, "Could I have done more?"

No one is barred from having a part.
Do what you can though humble the art.

Blame not, the "Eds," they did what they could,

Unanimously saying: "We wanted it good."

Rather than "crab" if you find it dry,
Remember next month you'll have a try.
