PANTHERS VICTORIOUS

York Quintet Too Strong for the Grand Island Team.

On last Wednesday night the York College basket tossing squad journeyed over to Grand Island and succeeded in lifting the scalp of the Grand Island "short-pant" aggregation. The game was rough and rather slow.

Grand Island scored first and a few minutes later Art Ostbloom dropped in a long shot, knotting the count.

From there on in it was York's game all the way and it was only a question of how many baskets might be made. The game was played at the Y. M. C. A. on a small floor making fast clean cut playing impossible.

Ostbloom and Ashmore played a snappy floor game for York while Loreman's guarding was a feature.

Grand Island played two entire teams.

The line up:

Grand Island made only two field goals during the entire game, both of these in the first half.

Grand Island plays here next Thursday night. A warm battle is promised.

New Recruits

Among the new students this semester are the following from York: Donald Feaster, Rex Goble, Carl Lewis, Art Ostbloom, John Muir, Fred Muir, Edward Heuston, Stanley Greene and Albert Guidinger. Our out of town students are: Nell Simpkins, David City; Claude Prusel, Lushton; Frieda Alt, Akron, Colo.; Frances West, Wisner and Elwin Foster of Cambridge.

We certainly welcome all of these young people to Y. C. and we hope that they will love our Alma Mater as we older students do.

Estella M. Hughes, '18, is in school this semester taking Advanced Latin. We are glad to welcome a Y. C. graduate again and hope more will come back for advanced work.

Normal Art

The second semester opens with a large Normal Art class of about twenty-five. The work in this class began Wednesday with the work of shading and shadows.

Everyone assured the teacher, Mrs. Giauque, they were in for work and to enjoy it. With work outlined as it is we anticipate pleasure in carrying out the program. This class meets once a week for a three-hour period.

Academy Notes

Where are the Seniors of yesterday?

They've drifted far or anchored near,

Seeking a place in the Hall of Fame

And thus we too, shall drift away
After our graduation day.

There was a young lady named Min

Who was so exceedingly thin
That when she essayed

To drink lemonade,
She slipped through the straw and fell in!—(Old Stuff).

Annual Debate Preliminary

The preliminary debate was held Monday evening in the college chapel. There were seven speakers who took part. Some of the best talent of the school was represented. The Sophomores take no small amount of pride in claiming four of this number.

Four of the participants were on the teams of last year, Levi Loreman, Dorothy Reid, Virginia Neville, and Harry Hart. Suttin Hice distinguished himself at the High school last year as a debator. Don Hale and Winifred Wimmer are showing marked ability as speakers.

The judges for the evening were Mr. Alden, Mr. Wildman and Prof. Warrick. They rendered the decision as follows: 1st, Virginia Neville; 2d, Levi Loreman; 3rd, Dorothy Reid; 4th, Suttin Hice; 5th, Don Hale; 6th, Harry Hart.

With these able young people going out to fight our verbal battles, great results may be looked for this year by York College in the field of debate.

A Basketball Tossers' Diary

Wednesday: Up at 7. Bid all Prof's good-bye and asked for many excuses. Spent many minutes bidding my "bobbed-haired" girl adieu.

Rush to depot. Train pulling in. Great consternation among squad. Coach nowhere to be seen. Just as train is ready to leave he walks calmly out of the smoker.

Arrive at Grand Island. Coach rushes to hotel and puts us all in room. Sound sleep, many snores.

Supper at 5:30—soup—Out to gymnasium. Suit up and arrive on floor. G. I. team comes on, many cheers, let's go G. I., let's go.

Game starts, huge battle. G. I. can't go but York does. Victory—Ain't it a grand and glorious feelin'? Wrap ourselves around a steak and go to bed.

Thursday: Up at ten next morning. Breakfast. Shaves all around. Dinner. Speedy ride to Kearney. Rush hotel. More Snores. Supper 5:30. More soup. Out to College. Less said the better. Supper at 10:30. To bed at twelve.

5 a. m. Friday: Milkmen of Central Nebraska hold a convention outside hotel. Clerk calls. Ashmore refuses to get up. Dragged out. Hurry down to breakfast. When waitress asks Ashmore what he wishes, he sleepily replies, "Soup, and lots of crackers."

Rush to station. Catch Burlington "puddle jumper." for Hastings.

Arrive at Hastings and run across lots and catch the yellow streak. Four flat wheels on our car. Very noisy. Hold chapel services en route.

12:01 arrive in York—Thank goodness!

Doane Tigers Take Lion's Share of Game

York College met with their second defeat at Doane, January 25th. The game ended 20-10 in favor of the Tigers.

The York team was greatly handicapped by the loss of Levi Loreman. They were also at a loss on the Doane floor, which is a great deal larger than the home gymnasium.

During the first half York was able to keep the upper end of the scoring by a two point lead, but during the second half the Tigers became more aggressive and succeeded in casually slipping a few pointers through the loop, which placed them on the long end when the final whistle vividly spelled the word defeat for the college.

She: "Is it true that your father was a policeman?"

He: "No but he went with them a lot."

INDIANAPOLIS CONVENTION

The Youth of America.

No canvas or camera; no tongue or pen can ever give the inspiration received at the great gathering of earnest students and workers who were present at the Student Volunteer Convention held at Indianapolis. The outstanding feature of the convention was the effort made to concentrate on present world problems, and to seek their solution through the application of the principles of Christ. The discussions centered about four topics: "Racial Relations and the Christian Ideal," "International Problems and the Christian Way of Life," "Youth and Renaissance Movement," "Economic Problems and the Christian Ideal."

At times the convention was almost overwhelming, as speaker after speaker presented the terrible conditions of the world today, and seemingly there was no way of escape.

On Friday afternoon Reverend Kennedy, Rector of St. Edmond's Church, London, and Chaplain to the King, addressed the convention and presented these facts:

"We have not the Book in our hands. We do not know how to read it in the light of modern knowledge. Instead of the Bible we read the newspapers. Therefore as was the case of Pilgrim in 'Pilgrim's Progress,' we turn this way and that way as though to run, but we stand still because we do not know which way to go. We must teach the world how to unite in thought and action. Conference is a matter of character not wits, and the true requisites of conference are: apparatus, sow material, patience, and consecration."

As I think back over those days at Indianapolis, I see again over six thousand delegates, representing over forty nations, and I wonder what will be the result of this interchanging of ideas of the students of the world. Surely no one who was at the convention could come back and be so provincial in his thinking as when he went. Is the responsibility of correcting world conditions to be born by those alone, who were at the convention? In the light of Reverend Kennedy's address are not all the students of America the apparatus; the plastic minds of youth the raw material? The dearest hope of man for peace and goodwill must, somehow, be harbored in the hearts of the youth of all nations. May we not be the pioneers to blaze the trail around the earth along which international thought may travel? Was not this the great task of pioneering in the vision of Walt Whitman? "O you youths, western youths So impatient, full of action, Full of manly pride and friendship; Plain I see you, western youths, See you tramping with the foremost Pioneers! O Pioneers!"

—Bernice Wilson.

Art Department

Since the rush of final examinations the art students have been very busy and are working on some pretty things.

Florence Moore is having a hard time trying to attend all of her classes and take her art lesson too. Some other members of the class seem to be having the same difficulty. Mrs. Giauque stated that she could arrange her work to be in the studio the last of the week instead of the first if it would convenience more students.

Miss West, a teacher from the Convent is a new student in the China Painting department.

Ardith Calkins and Robert Hanna are taking work in cartooning.

The instructor of the art department will be very glad to welcome new students who are interested in the "Fine Arts" work. She is in the studio the first three days of each week.

Estes Park to Be Thrown Open to Y. M. C. A.

Tuesday morning, January 22d was a day looked forward to with much anxiety by all of the enthusiastic Y. M. C. A. fellows. The regular weekly meeting was opened with a few short but invigorating songs. Harvey Wimmer, an amateur musician, is our musical chairman who leads us in all of our songs. Harold Prentice, the Y. M. Devotional chairman, lead us in our devotions.

Max Van Wagonen, the Y. M. C. A. president, told of a few facts about Estes Park. He introduced Harold Ashmore who had attended the convention last year and who told us a few of the many benefits he derived from that convention. Mr. Ashmore vividly described the mountains, scenery, rivers, good times and many other things of interest to ambitious hikers.

Max gave the fellows an excellent review of his trip last year at Estes. He explained the programme of last year's conference and something of what we will see this year. The main purpose of the meeting was to boost the delegation to Estes Park this coming June.

A number of College fellows are planning to attend. Let's have a booster delegation.

Pals Literary Society

A large number of pals and many visitors enjoyed the following program in the Pall Hall on the evening of January 29.

Prelude.....Helen Meloy

Paper—Personalities.

A-llies.

L-ives.

S-ouls.....Hazel Smith

Pal Journal.....Opal Valentinc

The numbers were well rendered and contained information that was helpful as well as entertaining. The officers for the following semester were installed. Each officer vowed to carry on the work of the society to the best of his or her ability.

All those who are not yet Pals come and help us make this last semester greater and more worthwhile than any preceding semester that this society has ever enjoyed.

New Class Officers

The following are the new class officers for the semester.

Senior.

President.....Gervaichia Reamer
Vice-President.....Mae Hiscox
Secretary.....Edna James
Treasurer.....Arthur Lindall

Junior.

President.....Esther Barker
Vice-President.....Doris Smith
Secretary.....Arthur Beattie
Sponsor.....Mr. Warrick

Freshman and Sophomore.

President.....Lucille Greathouse
Vice-President.....Georgian Moore
Secretary-Treasurer.....Willis Smith

The first and second Academy classes thought they had done something when they had their party at the home of their sponsor, Miss Riggs, before the holidays, but we will watch them more closely in the future.

A Dinner Party

A number of friends were entertained at the home of Miss Mae Turner on January 20. The occasion was a farewell dinner party in honor of Miss Ethel Spore who returned to her home to be with her mother who has been ill for some time.

The writer does not remember all of the good things that there were to eat, but each place was marked by a cupid valentine, and the hostess surprised each guest at the close of the meal by asking each to speak extemporaneously upon a topic she had selected. Much wit and humor was displayed in spite of the big dinner.

The afternoon was spent very pleasantly in singing and each one present being able to play some musical instrument added to the enjoyment.

KEARNEY PLAYS GOOD GAME

Antelopes Keep York Team on Defensive.

On the second night out on the two days trip York lost to Kearney Normal 37-14.

The York team was slow and tired after their hard game at Grand Island the night before. Only for a few moments did the play become really brilliant. York's defensive was very weak.

Denton and Pauek were the big noise for Kearney. The following men played:

Tewell, rf; Ostbloom, lf; Caldwell, c; L. Loreman, rg; Ashmore, lg.
Cruzon of Illinois, referee.

Substitution: Hale for L. Loreman, F. Loreman for Hale, Hale for Tewell.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting was held in the chapel room Tuesday morning.

Mr. Wimmer gave us a very interesting speech on, "What I have received from the Y. M. C. A." He told of the inspiration he had received from a spring retreat which the fellows had taken along "The Blue." There they had grouped together in the evening laying plans for the advancement of the "Y" work and the Christian influence upon the campus.

He also told of taking a trip to Scotia as a member of the gospel team and the joy of seeing many young people won to Christ thru its work there. He concluded by saying that all men in school should be in the "Y."

Let's boost for the "Y" and make it a helpful source in promoting the will of Christ on the campus.

The Sandburr Box

I am sure all of the Seniors, most of the Juniors and possibly some of the Freshmen know of and have seen the little box in the Main hall of the College building known as the Sandburr box. From the way material for the Sandburr comes in at times, it would appear that no one had seen it. So please next time you see the box make yourself acquainted with it by dropping an item into the box. I am sure you all know the combination. It is very simple, all you have to do is to glance at the top and there you will find an opening through which you may drop your article.

If you have an idea which you think is worthwhile, write it down and put it in this box. If you don't think it worth-while please don't put it in. Maybe you heard a good joke on some one, if you did be sure and put that in. Maybe it was on Professor Noll's Physiology class or Mr. Noll or on Professor Bisset or his Economic class, if you did, be sure and put them in.

You may have decided opinions about some school matter, write it down. If we could get enough of such things we might run a column of student opinion.

Remember folks the Sandburr staff is doing their best to put out a College paper that is a credit to the College, but also remember that the efforts of the staff are futile unless every student in college is willing to help and boost the paper.

The staff is willing to do their best to make a good paper if they can get the proper help. So remember, new ideas, good jokes, burrs, good old ideas, locals, school happenings of all sorts in the form of Sandburr material is appreciated by the staff. Let's boost our paper!

Mueller: "I have a funny family tree."

Her: "Why so?"

Mueller: "It produced a nut, a lemon and a peach."

THE ARISTOCRACY OF BRAINS AND CHARACTER

Let no youth of these strenuous times imagine that money alone brings permanent honor or enduring happiness. The greatest assets of human life are those things for which one has to "dig." One does not need brains to make money but he does need them to build character.

The great men of history realized the necessity of brains and character and the minor importance of wealth. They will never be forgotten and the world will continue to reverence and honor the nobler souls who have refused to be severed by pomp and splendour from the ideals of a succes which is unrelated to money. People will remember Agassiz, who refused to lecture at five hundred a night because he was "too busy to make money." They will remember Charles Spurgeon who was invited to come to America for fifty lectures at one thousand dollars each, but said in answer, "No I will remain in London and try to save souls." And there is Dr. Rainsforth, a clergyman of New York City, who might have been a leader in industry, who preferred without wealth, to hold a personal power over the most distinguished men of the world, over Pierpont Morgan and Major McClellan passing the plate in his church and endeavoring to carry out the splendid ideals which he so eloquently preaches.

Let no man think that these men depreciate money nor the independence and liberty which comes from easily acquired wealth. There is no desire on the part of the people for a corrupt aristocracy of wealth to gain power over our government and our institution. The great need is for men who think and are willing to sacrifice much for the need of others. In order to be socially equal we should have an aristocracy of brains and character and not one of wealth.

REGISTERING VICTORY

May I appeal to you students of Nebraska, and remind you of the opportunity which will soon be ours; that of attending the Nebraska State Student Volunteer Union Conference. The great Indianapolis Convention is over, but its inspiring notes are still resounding and will continue to ring with increasing vibration as they strike the great amplifiers of humanity and its forces today. There we were made to see conditions as they exist in the world of which we are so essentially a part, race hatred, materialism, international strife, present day economic unrest, and all the forces which tend to produce a world in revolt. Can we afford to be other than alert when such dire conditions are before us?

No! We dare not flinch. We must meet the challenge as knights of old in search of the Holy Grail. The clarion rings clear and canorous to the youth of our day. The goal toward which we are striving is not materialism, but the consummation of love expressed in unselfish service. The only hope for the world is the Gospel of Christ inculcated into the hearts of men to guide them in their political, economic and social affairs, to the final ushering in of His Kingdom on earth.

The purpose of the Nebraska State Student Volunteer Union Conference is to help us understand the present world situation and Christ's way of life as the final solution. Shall we not turn the spot light of Heaven on our hearts and seek His way in our lives.

Come! Youth! Students of Nebraska! Let's go! February, 15, 16, and 17 at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

They Bobbed It! They Did It!
Weren't you surprised to see Gervachia Reamer, Helen Meloy and Louise Kleinbach when they came back to school one Monday morning with their hair bobbed? We were and it was quite an agreeable surprise. Some thought that bobbing hair had gone out of style, but we are sure that more of our young ladies are sure to follow suit now. Of course spring and summer time are coming on soon and naturally the bobbed hair will prove to be more comfortable and most of all it is so convenient. However we warn our kind readers to think before they clip because they might regret it. Glenn Ender who enrolled in the Academy last semester, but who wasn't able to pursue the work he planned until about three weeks before examinations, deserves honorable mention for the fact that he completed his semester's work in Ancient History in those three weeks. He also received the highest grade in his examination in that subject. Ender is a good worker and we wish more of our students would take his attitude toward their studies. John and Fred Muir have enrolled in the Freshman class. A hearty welcome is extended to both.

Doings of the Downtown College

To the Students on the Hill:

Dear Students:
We feel that it is quite a necessary thing for us Business College people to write you and tell you that it has taken about a month for us to recover from our Christmas vacation, and that is the only alibi that we can offer for not having any news from our department, so we ask that you do not "Say it with flowers" yet.

Hoping to be able to prove that we are on the map again, we remain,
Yours for study and progress,
YORK BUSINESS COLLEGE STUDENTS.

P. S. Say may we suggest a skip day some fine day in the very near future?

Miss Vera Russel from Aurora is taking the Commercial Course this year also Typewriting on the side. By the way she makes the typewriter talk, we expect her to run away with the world's record before long.

Miss Ardyth Calkins and Paul Lindenmeyer, from the college on the hill are spending their leisure hours in the forenoons under the guiding hands of Miss Vogel and Prof. Moore.

Miss Mable Meeker, a senior at the college on the Hill, is taking a little typewriting practice on the side.

Mr. Ted Apolius who was here last year is finishing his banking set this year and has also taken up typewriting.

Another of last year's students to return again this year is Mr. Green who is taking some work in the business department. He is finishing his work in the Banking Course.

Mr. Ted Neimouth has returned to the Business department to complete his work in Shorthand and Typewriting.

LOST—One day of bookkeeping, by 8 boys from the Commercial Department. Cause: Nice, bright, sunny afternoon. I wonder, if after we finish here and take a job, if as much time was lost as is thrown away here in school, what our pay checks would look like?

Miss Merle Oldfield has returned to the Business department after a ten-day leave of absence because of sickness.

August Leaman, who attended the Shorthand department a short time this year has taken up work with The Rystrom Implement Co.

Mr. Everett Towle, resident of this city has joined the Business department in an effort to master the terrible Shorthand.

This is what Mrs. Wray says under her breath if we don't write 100 words per minute in Shorthand.

"You talk like nothing, you write like nothing, nothing seems to be your aim. You don't know nothing and you can't learn nothing. I've forgotten more than you ever knew. The only way I can figure you out is nothing from nothing leaves YOU."

About a week ago Mr. Royal left town for the week end and came back all excited because some girl stole his heart or something and he at once stated that he was going back. The other morning shortly after waking Mr. Huettner came down stairs to find that Paul had already gotten up and was sitting looking rather gloomily out of the window.

Mr. Huettner: "Well, Paul are you still thinking about getting married?"

Mr. Royal: "Why I most certainly am."

Mr. H.: "Are you really in love with your girl?"

Mr. R.: "I sure am."

Mr. H.: "How do you know? I'll (Continued on Page Four.)

ROGER BACON
1214-1294

English philosopher and man of science. Studied at Oxford and the University of Paris. Wrote the Opus Majus, Opus Minus, Opus Tertium, and many other treatises.

For this he was sent to prison

Roger Bacon may not have invented gunpowder, as has been claimed by some biographers of the famous Franciscan friar, but he exploded some of the outstanding errors of thirteenth century thought. Because of his advanced teachings, Bacon spent many years of his life in prison.

In an age of abstract speculation he boldly asserted the mathematical basis of all the sciences. But even mathematical calculation, he showed, must be verified by experiment, which discovers truths that speculation could never reach.

In the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company, Bacon's principles are followed in every experimental investigation. The gas-filled electric lamp and the electron tube were worked out on paper, but it was experimental verification of the underlying mathematical theory that made electric illumination, radio broadcasting and X-rays what they are today.

More than a million dollars a year is devoted to research by the General Electric Company in order that the giant—electricity—may be made more and more useful to mankind.

Coasting! Candy! Fun!

On the evening of Jan. 11, the Sophomores adapted themselves to weather conditions and held a unique coasting party. The class members, bubbling over with pep, assembled on East Ninth street where they joined in some real coasting fun. A few bumps and scares came in with the sport but these only added to the excitement.

After a great many joyful rides the company retired to the Domestic Science room where the girls displayed their cooking ability by making chocolate fudge and taffy. The boys also were given a chance to show their skill when it came time to pull the taffy. They proved very efficient at the task and the Sophomore boys still have "quite a pull."

The candy was enjoyed by all and the doctors and dentists received no extra patients that night as many had anticipated.

The party was a howling success so watch the Sophs for clever ideas.

In the Chapel

Rev. Swisher of the First Congregational church of the city visited chapel on Monday morning, Jan. 21. He led the devotions and brought a brief but very interesting message to the student body. We are told that we have numberless opportunities and if we make the most of our preparations in life we will get returns for the effort. Life is too short to be spoiled by doing things that are not worth while. Students were invited to attend union meetings for a spiritual awakening now being held in York.

Leona Stafford sang a beautiful selection entitled "Thank God for a Garden." Pauline Hensley accompanied her at the piano. Everyone was delighted to hear Miss Stafford sing and each person hopes she will sing in chapel again before long.

The Y. M. C. A. have their regular meeting in the chapel on Tuesday since the opening of the second semester. This arrangement has been made in order that the girls may have their Y. W. meeting at that hour in the Pal Literary hall which is their accustomed meeting place.

Pres. Jones led the chapel devotions Thursday morning, Jan. 24. This was the second day of the semester exams. He read the following selection from Proverbs, "A good man is rather to be chosen than great riches," which reminded the students that a poor grade earned honestly is for better than a high one earned dishonestly.

Dean Ashcraft announced that "examinations strengtheners" would be served in the hall by the Y. W. C. A. He stated that if any student felt "shaky" about his exams, he'd advise that individual to call at the doughnut and coffee booth.

Rev. Umberger, pastor of the First Baptist church gave a short talk in chapel Monday morning, Jan. 28. He urged the students to attend the revival meetings which are being held in the city under the direction of the four largest churches.

On Tuesday, Jan. 29, the Christian associations held their regular meetings in their respective halls.

Rev. Ritzman, who has spent the past twenty years of his life in China was a guest at chapel Wednesday. He brought a very interesting message and told of some changes that had taken place since he has been working there. During the last twenty years China has changed from a Monarchy to a Republican form of government. But even now China is not a Republic like the United States for China is in the hands of Militarists. Anarchy exists and many times foreigners, missionaries and even Chinese are not safe.

Another change is that of the Educational system. The old Chinese system which has been established for over two thousand years has been overthrown and the Western System established. However, the schools are not well equipped and a very small percent of young people are enrolled in the higher schools. But the students who are in school are very keen and alert in mind and body.

The third change observed by Rev. Ritzman is the open door of all the provinces of China. The missionaries are allowed to come in and preach the gospel without feeling that their lives are in danger.

The speaker stated very clearly some of the conditions which exist among the Chinese and their priests. There are 400,000 people in the Protestant churches of China. This shows that the need for missionaries is very great and that much more ought to be done for the schools of China.

After the lecture there was a short rally to assure the boys of the students' confidence in the team's ability to beat Grand Island in the big basket ball game Wednesday evening. The students of the Academy displayed their usual amount of pep in this rally.

On Thursday morning in chapel Winifred Wimmer gave a report upon "Racial Conditions of the Present Day," as she had heard them discussed at the Indianapolis convention.

Prof.: "When was Adam born?"
Stude: "In the afternoon."
Prof.: "How do you know?"
Stude: "It is generally considered that he was born a little before Eve."

Seniors!

Have you noticed anything new in school besides the new students? Well there is. The Senior class pins and rings arrived Monday and in the afternoon there was a rush down town to get them. Tuesday morning all wore either their pins or rings and were proudly showing them to their friends. If anyone hasn't seen them just look up the Seniors and they will show you the classiest pin that has ever been made. They were ordered from "Davis" who said that they were the finest piece of jewelry ever put out for any class. The pin is a scroll of blue enamel set with pearls at the top and bottom. The college insignia of gold with "York College 1924" engraved around it, is in the center of the scroll. A "Y" and guard chain are attached making a very unique pin.

You will hear more of the Seniors during the semester. They are busy now locating caps and gowns in preparation for Recognition Day, Feb. 6. Just keep notice of the class of '24.

Y. W. C. A.

At the chapel hour on January 22d, the girls had a very interesting meeting. Ethel Spore played a violin solo and Loraine Thompson favored us with a vocal solo. The topic, "Playing Square With Tomorrow," was developed in a very interesting way by Lois Cushman. A number of other girls took part also in discussing the topic. One very good thought was, "Never put off until tomorrow, what you can do today." The preparation for the semester examinations may be taken as a good example. Do you get your lessons or do you burn the midnight oil the night before the examinations trying to learn in a few hours what should have been learned several weeks before. Girls let's be prepared all the time and play square with Tomorrow.

On January 29th at the chapel hour the girls held their weekly Y. W. C. A. meeting. The leader, Marguerite Marks gave us some good thoughts on Mathew 9:37. She discussed the needs of college girls. "Do we depend on others," she said, "or do we have the courage and strength to stand alone." She com-

A GRAMMATICAL NIGHTMARE

You see a beautiful girl walking down the street. She's singular, you are nominative. You walk across to her, changing to verbal. It becomes dative. She is not objective. You become plural. You walk home together. Her mother is accusative. You become imperative. You talk of the future. She changes to objective. Her father becomes present. Things are tense. You become a past participle. — Exchange.

The Hat

One evening, in the parlor of Apt. 13 Primrose Terrace, a little man wearing a grey felt hat and a red necktie stood admiring himself in the looking-glass. The little man was Benjamin Quelch who was about to carry out a desperate resolution. He had always yearned to wear a soft felt hat and to make a trip to Chicago, but for years Mrs. Quelch had stood in the way. Quelch was small of stature and in accordance with the law of opposites attracting opposites had chosen the largest lady in his acquaintance for a life partner.

They were opposites in many other characteristics besides stature. He was meek and retiring while she was stern and had strong views. She ruled him with a rod of iron and because he was so small insisted that he wear the tallest hat that could be found. The desire to see Chicago she had fought with an iron will.

All comes to him who waits and that brings us back to Mr. Quelch before the mirror for his chance had come at last. Mrs. Quelch had gone to spend a week with her sister and the manager of the firm for which Quelch was a clerk, saw fit to give him the week-end off, suggesting that he spend it with Mrs. Quelch at her sister's. The vacation was accepted but spending it with his wife was farthest from Quelch's intentions for he saw in this an opportunity to make the long-desired trip to Chicago.

He purchased for himself the soft felt hat he had so long looked at with envy and, desiring a little color bought a red necktie. He then placed some necessary articles in a bag and was ready for his journey. It was thus we see him before the mirror and if he had any inclination to turn back all left him as he passed the tall hat hanging in the hall.

When he reached the city a "red cap" wishing to help him with his bag reached for it but as this was Quelch's first visit to the city he misunderstood the boy's actions for those of a thief and engaged in a combat with him. A large crowd soon gathered and the two fought until an officer stepped between them and with a hand on either's shoulder led them to court where they were fined $25 each and cost. As Quelch had bought a return ticket and intended to spend but one day and night in the city, he had not enough money to pay his fine.

Meanwhile Mrs. Quelch had returned earlier than she had planned and was surprised not to find her husband quietly at home watching the fire. She was even more surprised when on answering a knock at the door a messenger handed her a telegram. With trembling hands she read:

"Mr. Quelch held in custody for disturbing the peace. Fine $25 Send money."

"Oh, that man," she cried in anger, "I'll go myself and get him out of jail."

That same night an irate feminine passenger boarded the fast express for Chicago and somehow Mrs. Quelch obtained her husband's release.

Twenty-four hours later a taxi stopped in front of the Quelch's door and from it stepped first a stately woman and then a woe-begone little man wearing a soft felt hat and a red necktie. "Is there a fire in the kitchen?" asked Mrs. Quelch as she stepped into the house. Being informed that there was, she led the way to the kitchen and Quelch meekly followed. She opened the stove and in a very few minutes the air of the house was permeated by an odor that was caused by the burning of a red necktie and a felt hat.

Now Benjamin's hats are taller than ever.

DOINGS OF THE DOWN TOWN COLLEGE

Mr. R.: "Well I can't tell you exactly, do you know what it is?"

Mr. H.: "I say. Love is a feeling that you feel when you feel you are going to feel a feeling that you have never felt before."

It has been stated that Mr. Houghton will be out of school for some time, because of his eyes. We wonder what he was looking at, surely it wasn't possible for him to weep enough over the happening of the other night to injure his sight. It is hoped that he won't stay out very long, at least One person does.

February 1, 1924:

Howard Wells fighting around for his Gregg Speed Study. Just can't find my book this morning. Howard leaves the room and finds it, perhaps under the door mat in the hall, well he will never tell. At any rate we notice that he is all dolled up this morning, must be for a worthy cause.

Mr. Fusby spent last week-end at Lincoln, said he witnessed one of the best games he had ever seen, (basket ball). From general appearances he looked as though he had been lost in the basket and found it quite a difficult task to fight his way out.

Referee—Andy Gump admits that is was some game.

A cat visited the Business College and made a personal call to the students of the Shorthand class. Some how the cat became very interested in the study and began to ask questions which were beyond Mrs. Wray to translate the dumb animal's language. Well, anyway, this is what happened, the cat began talking (dictating at a terrible speed) and the first opportunity Mrs. Wray had a chance to get in a word she said:

Mr. Henzlick: Will you please put that cat out.

Long Hesitation.

Mr. Henzlick, Yes Mam, ouch, spit, spat, neow, bang, if I can catch him, her, it.

Wanted: By Christie Nine. "A preparation that will keep the hair from getting mussed."

Alyce Voss: How strange, wear a hat.

Mrs. Funk has secured an apartment within 1/2 block of the school. We understand that she is wild about studying.
