

Nation Offers Essay Prizes

Contest Open to Students Who Work in Industries During Summer

The Nation has offered a series of three prizes to the students of American colleges that will spend their summer as workers in one of the industries. Those who compete must spend their summer working in one of the industries. The essay will include an account of personal experiences and an interpretation of the industrial situation invaded.

The conditions are as follows:
1. The contest is open to graduate and undergraduate students, men and women, who are enrolled in the spring of 1925.

2. Contestants must have worked for at least two months in the Summer in some industrial or agricultural pursuit as regular laborers.

3. It is suggested that each manuscript be a record of the experiences of the contestant together with his personal interpretation of the industrial situation that confronted him.

4. Manuscript must be typewritten and not over 4,000 words in length. The Nation reserves the right to cut any manuscript printed. The manuscript winning first prize will be published in The National, which reserves the right to print the others if desired.

5. The name, class and college of the contestant must be written in the upper right hand corner of the manuscript together with the name and address of the concern or concerns in which the applicant worked and the time during which he or she was employed. There also should appear the name of a member of the faculty of the contestant's school who vouches for his or her eligibility.

6. Manuscripts must be submitted not later than October 15, 1925. Winners will be announced and prizes awarded in December, 1925.

7. Contestants need not be Nation subscribers.

The manuscripts will be judged by the following: Mr. Jerome Davis, of the Yale Divinity School, Yale University; Mr. William H. Johnston, President of the International Association of Machinists; Mrs. Florence Kelley, General Secretary of the National Consumers' League; Mr. Pierpont B. Noyes, President, The Oneida Community, Ltd.; Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard, Editor of The Nation.

The best essay will receive a prize of $125, the second will receive $75 and the last $25.

FORMER MEMBER OF GRADUATING CLASS DIES

Lela Bute Was Member of Class of '25
—Passes Away at Lincoln

Lela Bute whose obituary appears below was an ex-member of this year's graduating class. She entered York as a Freshman in the fall of 1921. She is the first member of this class to be called by death.

Obituary
The life of Miss Lela Bell Bute was begun on April 24th, 1901, on a farm three miles south of Waco.

She moved to York with her parents some few years later where she was baptised by Rev. Father Cullen, instructed by the Ursuline Sisters and confirmed by the Bishop of the diocese.

She was a graduate of York High school in the class of 1921.

She spent two years in the teacher's normal of York college, from which she received a first grade state teachers certificate.

She taught in the Lushton public school the term of 1923-24.

Lela Bell was united in marriage to N. H. Wellman of Waco the twenty-seventh of December 1923. At the close of the school year she joined her husband in Lincoln where she attended the teacher college at the University of Nebraska until the time of her death, April the thirteenth.

The body was accompanied to York for burial by her husband, mother and sister.

Services were held in St. Joseph Catholic church April 17th.

Interment was in the Waco cemetery.

Lela Bute Wellman is survived by her husband, N. H. Wellman, of Lincoln, her mother, Mrs. M. O. Bute, Andrew Bute, Mrs. C. L. Robinson of this city, B. E. Bute, of Highmore, S. D.; Mrs. W. W. Elgin and H. J. Bute, of Snyder, Colo., and a host of friends who mourn her death.

COMMENCEMENT PLANS BEING LAID

The plans for Commencement week are fast being completed. The graduation week festivities open on Sunday morning, May 24, when the Rev. Paul Porter '16, addresses the Christian Associations in their annual anniversary service.

The Senior class has invited Dr. Schaefer to address the class in the Commencement service to be held at the U. B. church on Wednesday morning. The alumni banquet will be served on Wednesday evening.

The alumni are planning a big "round-up" to be held during Commencement week. The present goal is to have 500 grads and ex-undergraduates on the campus.

The Captain: If anything moves, shoot."

Sentry: "Yessah, an' if anything shoots, Ah moves."

Kim: My physics prof has lost his job.

Stranger: No, really?

Kim: Yep, he isn't my physics prof any more.

Dr. Schaefer Ends Meetings

Gives Free Talks---Much Interest Shown By Student Body

Dr. Schaefer of Colorado Springs has just finished a series of fine meetings with the student body. Dr. Schaefer spoke at the chapel hour and again in the evening of each day. His meetings were largely attended by the student body and faculty.

Dr. Schaefer is always an interesting speaker. His addresses are short and directly to the point. He is a man who sees and understands the young man's problem and is keen to aid with his greater experience.

The student body in general have been much interested in Dr. Schaefer's meetings. Some of the faculty members state that more personal conferences have been held with Dr. Schaefer than with any man who has ever addressed the students. It is hoped that Dr. Schaefer will be on the campus at Commencement time.

SMITH AND YUST GO INTO FINALS

During the past week the tennis sharks have been staging an elimination tournament. At the present Chet Smith, '28, and Yust, '26 are still in the running. The tournament disclosed some good talent for the coming racquet season.

Chet Smith in particular surprised the fans by the easy fashion he disposed of his opponents. Chet is small but fast, covers the court well and never forgets to place.

- The results are as follows:
Smith-Tewell, 6-0, 6-3.
Bell-DeMoss, 7-5, 6-0.
Hanna-Conant, 6-4, 6-3.
Bell-Hale, 6-1, 6-3.
Deason-Hanna, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.
Smith-Deason, 6-2, 6-2.
Yust-Kalmbach, 6-4, 6-3.

HOME THOUGHTS

Oh, to be in England
Now that April's there,
And whoever wakes in England
Sees, some morning, unaware
That the lowest boughs and the bush-wood sheaf
Round the elm-tree bole are in tiny leaf,
While the chaffinch sings on the orchard
bough
In England—now!

And after April, when May follows,
And the whitethroat builds, and all the swallows!
Hark, where my blossomed pear-tree
in the hedge,
Leans to the field and scatters on the clover
Blossoms and dew-drops, at the bent spray edge—
That's the wise thrush; he sings each song twice over,
Lest you should think he never could recapture
The first fine careless rapture!
And though the fields look rough with hoary dew,
All will be gay when noontide wakes anew
The buttercups, the little children's dower
—Far brighter than this gaudy melon-flower!

—Robert Browning.

Did They Compare Notes?
He had been looking over the Christmas cards on the counter for some time when the saleswoman suggested:
"Here's a lovely sentiment:
'To the Only Girl I Ever Loved.'
"That's fine," he said, brightening,
"I'll take five—no, six of those, please."

"Y" MEN HAVE LUNCHEON

The men of the "Y" club met in their regular monthly meeting at the conservatory on last Wednesday noon. The men lunched together and discussed a few things of general interest. This will be the last regular meeting of the year.

The club has been planning a letter man picnic for the latter part of May but no definite action was taken.

There was almost perfect attendance at this last meeting with only one tardiness. The case was dealt with by the committee with thoroughness and dispatch.

SENIOR GIRLS ENTERTAIN— ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENTS

Mae Turner and Gladys Reynolds Are Hostesses at Delightful Dinner

Gladys Reynolds and Mae Turner entertained the Senior class at a six o'clock dinner on Friday evening, April 24. The affair was held in the Domestic Science rooms in the Administration Building.

The class was seated at small tables each having four classmen. Covers were laid for twenty-four. The tables were decorated with the class colors.

The occasion was taken to announce the engagements of Miss Reynolds and Miss Turner. Place cards consisting of life-like owls were at each place. Each of the "wise birds" carried a scroll under each wing.

These were found by the guests to contain the announcements of Miss Reynolds' engagement to Lloyd Gotchall, ex-'21 and Miss Turner's engagement to Harold Prentice who graduated last year.

The members of the class of '25 all join in offering their best wishes to these popular members of their group.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Y. W. C. A. held its meeting last week on Tuesday morning at the chapel hour. The girls responded well to this change in hour and a good attendance was shown. A very interesting program was presented.

Glenette Payne opened the meeting with a piano prelude. Miss Marguerite Wilson led the devotions after which Miss Myrtha Giauque gave a talk on campus problems and a definition of God. These two girls attended the Estes Park Training conference at Nebraska Central college and gave us a hint of some of the problems which will be considered at the joint conference to be held in August this next summer. Those present were not aware that the material presented was a report because of the original way in which it was given. Those present at the conference report a very instructive program with intense study in the discussion groups.

The Y. W. girls met in Pal's Hall Tuesday morning, April 28. Miss Glenette Payne played the prelude after which Miss Marguerite Wilson led the devotions. Miss Myrtha Giauque talked to the girls on the plans of the Y. W. as they were outlined in the recent district meeting at Central City. Her talk was very inspiring and she analyzed the needs of the campus. She read two beautiful poems, "As I Pass Along the Way" and "The Builder."

"A man was telling his son a bedtime story about an alligator. It was creeping up behind a turtle, with its mouth wide open. Finally it was within reach, but just as its great jaws were snapping shut the turtle made a spring, ran up a tree and escaped."

"Why, father," said the boy, "how could a turtle climb a tree?"
"By gosh," replied the father, "he had to."—Wall Street Journal.

Panthers Win Over Central

Central Athletes Given Only
Two Firsts---Pickett
High Point Man

The Panther track squad more than doubled the score on Central in the dual meet at York last week. Pickett was the high point man placing first in six events. Hart and Sterner won two firsts each. Central won only two firsts, the 220 yard dash and the relay. Coach Russell substituted freely in the relay team. Heaton of Central took the 220. He was beaten to the tape in the low hurdles by Pickett by one-tenth of a second.

The times were as follows:
High Hurdles: Pickett (Y) first, time 16:9; Newton (Y) second; Ferguson, (C) third.

100 yard dash: Pickett, (Y) first, time 10:5; Heaton (C) second, W. Gard (Y) third.

Mile run: Hart (Y) first, time 4:54; Scoffield (C), second, L. Loreman (Y) third.

440 yard run: Sterner (Y) first, time 53:3; Ferguson (C) second; T. Gard (Y) third.

220 yard low hurdles: Pickett (Y) first, time 28:1; Heaton (C) second; F. Loreman (Y) third.

High Jump: Tewell and Newton (Y) tied for first, height five feet; Jones (C) third.

Javelin throw: Casiano (Y) first, distance 138 feet five inches; Johnston (C) second; Deason (Y) third.

220 yard run: Heaton (C) first, time 24:5; T. Gard (Y) second; F. Loreman (Y) third.

Half mile: Sterner (Y) first, time 2:07; Newton (Y) second; Scoffield (C) third.

Two mile run: Hart (Y) first, time 11:02; Ferguson (C) second, Scoffield (C) third.

Relay: Central, 1:37.2
Shot Put: Pickett (Y) first, distance 35 feet 9 inches; Richards (C) second; Skinner (Y) third.

Discus: Pickett (Y) first, distance 115 feet one inch; Samuelson (C) second; Benton (C) third.

Pole Vault: Skinner (Y) first, height 9 feet 6 inches; Ashmore (Y) second; Ferguson (C) third.

Broad Jump: Pickett (Y) first, distance 19 feet 2 3/4 inches; Newton (Y) second; Tewell (Y) third.

Final score was York 89, Central 42.

Among men of the business and professional world it is an axiom concerning school that, "By their Seniors shall you know them."

The Marathon for 1925 is out. A good book has been turned out by our hard working committee people. Probably no student in any college activity does as much hard work and gets as little credit as those who turn out the Marathon. We of the Sandburr staff know something of the work done. We commend the editors most highly on their work.

A few days after this issue and the Seniors will be no more. At least as active students. But simply because a student becomes a graduate is no indication of his becoming a member of the "great and silent majority." In fact the York Alumni have ever been active in the support of the school, and this year's graduating class is even now laying plans for further activity.

The latest issue of the Howard "Lampon" has been confiscated by the police force of Cambridge. The issue was a parody on a late issue of the Literary Digest. The cover carries a parody on the "painting Washington Crossing The Delaware. The Cambridge police insist that such a parody is a mis-use of the American flag.

It has been suggested to the editors that they might broadcast the next number from Montreal after the fashion of foreign Counts or that they change the name to College Confessions, Bizz Wang or something similar and the police will never touch it.

In a few days the present Sandburr staff will have finished their task. A new staff will be elected by the students. As our time is about over we can well afford to give a little advice on the way to treat your editor of next year.

First every organization in school ought to have a reporter. Organizations continually "kick" because they do not get their proper amount of space, yet they make no attempt to get it. This reporter should be one with some natural ability as a writer. Nothing slows up the editors' job so much as to be compelled to scan and re-write every item. Last and by no means least, always get your copy in on time and if your organization is doing anything out of the ordinary let your editor know well in advance. He can then make arrangements to give your story a good place on the front page and make arrangements to have a member of his staff cover the event.

Essay

Fifteen men on a dead man's chest,
Yo- Ho! and a bottle of rum;
Drink and the devil has done for the rest,

Yo! Ho! and a bottle of rum.
Savage, destructive, desperate, proud.
The buccaneers of yesterday. Drake and Morgan and Kidd. The pirates of the Spanish Main. The motley crew of the old galleons. The treasure seekers of the West Indies. And the American youth of today.

Thrills and adventures, money and power, reputation and command. These were sought by sea-faring men last night. They are won by land lubbers this morning. The scenes and rendezvous of the old outlaws have past. Their spirit of revelry remains. It hovers like a phantom about our schools and cities. The youth beholds the illusions and answers its mocking call. The leash of duty is broken and a million pirates infest our land.

Perhaps it is only human nature. It might be the effect of the Jazz Age. Maybe it is the decline of our civilization. No doubt it is all or more of these. The reason is only a question. The result is an issue. When will these weird cappers cease? Recreation is essential to youth, but law-breaking is a poor recreation and liquor a poor beverage. Therefore an education toward recreation is needed. The educators may realize this some day. They will be sure of it when they find—

Fifteen men on a dead man's chest,
Yo! Ho! and a bottle of rum.

But the youths of our land must also realize a few things. They must be taught that the constitution is in reality a rule book. They may think that the referee is lenient, but he is not the only one to reckon with. The referee has nothing to do with you fouling yourself. The youth is the one who boards the ship. He is the one who buckles on the broadsword. He is the one who leaves his secure home of preparation and trusts in the start-board-watch of chance.

It is a great life, that voyage on a forbidden ship. It is a hard ship to desert, and lucky and few are the ones that do. It is always on the look-out for recruits. You can either refuse or join it. You can even, like the buccaneers of old either drink or refuse it. Yes you can drink but—

Drink and the devil will do for the rest,
Yo! Ho! and a bottle of rum.

BUSINESS COLLEGE STUDENTS DOING GOOD WORK

Writing is a substitute for speech. Its function is to express, record, and convey thought.

The highest service writing can perform is to materialize thought in unmistakable form and terms.

From the standpoint of form, writing has not undergone many changes in the last three decades, but it has probably undergone more changes during the time than it did for a century before. The old system, the Spencerian, is still today the great encyclopedia of form, beauty, and grace in the penmanship world.

The most that has been done has been to adjust the Spencerian system to the needs of the day. In order to keep pace with the times, changes have necessarily been made. Unnecessary lines have been eliminated in so far as they do not help in the execution of character. Forearm movement has superseded finger movement, for it was found more rapid and not so laborious. The method of execution is probably the most important thing we have to contend with in writing and rhythmic time is one of the great essentials of the arm movement method.

As a mechanical or universal art, penmanship ranks in importance with reading and arithmetic, and should be studied as intelligently and efficiently. Many poor writers enter school each year with the expectation of transforming a scrawl into a good legible hand in two months.

This, however, is impossible. Short cuts to skill are numerous and alluring, but are alike disappointing and disastrous.

"The secret of success is constancy of purpose."

Penmanship certificate winners of York Business College for the year 1923-'24 numbered seventy-six for Business and Advanced certificates, and seven Teachers' certificates.

For the year 1924-'25 to the present date:

Commercial Item

Mrs. Smith stepped into a little store at the corner to purchase seven-eighths of a yard of oilcloth. Mrs. Cohen, the storekeeper's better half, waited upon Mrs. Smith. Poor Mrs. Cohen, after puzzling a bit over the seven-eighths, stepped to the back of the store and called: "Papa, vat is seven-eighths? Mrs. Smith vants dat much by the oilcloth." The answer came back promptly: "Mamma, tell her we hain't got dat; she bedder take a yard unt a quarter."

Hamilton's Claim to Fame

The title "Father of His Country" is generally reserved for George Washington. Alexander Hamilton, however, undoubtedly rendered enormous economic and financial assistance to the country at the time. During his term of office as first secretary of the treasury his services, according to some authorities, were scarcely less valuable than those of Washington himself.

And he has lived to see it

Back in 1885, Thomas A. Edison succeeded in transmitting electricity at 220 volts for one mile—an achievement and a promise.

The promise was fulfilled a few months ago, when electricity at 220,000 volts was transmitted two hundred and forty miles to supply Los Angeles with light and power.

Now five billion dollars are invested in electric power plants. A stupendous figure that testifies to the alertness of thousands of college-trained men who have been leaders in the production and use of electric power.

The electrical era has only dawned. Each year some new machine or discovery makes it possible to apply electricity in unexpected ways. The graduate of today will find electricity directly or indirectly a means for even greater accomplishments, no matter what his calling in life may be.

In 1881 Edison shipped to the Paris Exposition his "Jumbo" dynamo—eighth wonder of the world. It could light 1000 lamps. Now there are G-E generators large enough to supply current for over a million lamps, each with four times the candle-power of the lamp of 1881.

The General Electric Company produces other electrical apparatus which makes it possible to transmit power over great distances. It has put electricity in seven-league boots. In its laboratories, scientists are now experimenting with voltages ten times as great as the highest now in use.

If you are interested in learning more about what electricity is doing, write for Reprint No. AR391 containing a complete set of these advertisements.

ALUMNI AND FORMER STUDENTS

The death of Elizabeth Hall, '13, came as a shock to her friends. She had been teaching in the Baptist college at Grand Island since she left York.

The General Conference of the U. B. church meets in Buffalo, N. Y., next week. W. O. Jones, '10, and A. P. Vannice, '15, are delegates from the ministers of Nebraska. Mrs. C. E. Ashcraft and Mrs. J. C. Morgan, wives of our college professors, are the lay-delegates. They expect to stop in Dayton where they will meet some of the alumni of Y. C.—Andrew Sweet, '19, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Riggs of the class of 1923.

Lee Fletcher, '20, and wife, Faith Baber, were on the college campus during the past week.

The flu is a great disturber of plans. Among those affected by it is Edith Callender, '15, who had to give up her work in Nebraska University.

Y. C. alumni were well represented on the program of the W. M. A. branch meeting which convened in Seward, May 1-3. Mrs. Minnie Buswell Spore, '94, Mrs. Nina Francis Porter, '15, and John Rollings, '15, took part. Seth Jacobsen, '17, led the singing.

Elwin Conner, '22, was on the campus again last week. Does it seem strange that he is here so much more this year than formerly?

Raymond Wolf, a former student whose brother Arthur is represented by a gold star on our Service Flag, is finishing in the law school at the University. His wife has secured a school in the town where he is to hang out his shingle. Another of his brothers, Dean, graduated from Y. C. Academy.

Miss Jennie Muir, '13, will spend her summer vacation touring Europe.

Nina Caldwell Graham, '18, is in York in her official capacity as nurse at the R. E. Townsend home where a son has recently arrived. Mr. Townsend was formerly a teacher in Y. C.

How many of your class plan to be in York for commencement? Lynn Dankle, '23, has sent word to reserve a place for him at the banquet. We presume he means two plates.

SPORT SALAD

The Panthers amply redeemed themselves by handing the Centralites a severe trouncing. Central grabbed off only two firsts, the 220 and the relay.

Pickett was the biggest noise for York although Hart and Sterner were not exactly silent.

Hart stepped of a fine mile in 4:50. He easily out distanced the best Central miler. He almost "lapped" his adversaries in the two mile.

Sterner won the 440 and easily won the half. Newton of York was second in the man-killer event.

York placed one, two, three in the broad jump. Pickett, Newton and Tewell placing in the order given.

All told it was a great day for the Panther athletes. And queerest of all there wasn't a half dozen students out to see the Blue and White men perform.

No Mystery at All

"And I seemed to hear strange sounds," said the depressed man, "a rattle of chains—then a scratching like a trapped and almost spent wild creature—then came a gurgling, gulping noise—then all was quiet as the tomb." "I know," explained the cheery friend, "the people next door had been washing the dog."

Dog Best Protection

The dog is the best protection against thieves and the stairs of the house are the best place to keep him, said Col. E. H. Richardson, noted dog trainer of England, recently, during London's reign of second-story robberies.

Seeking seclusion: The bishop was frankly surprised as he faced his pretty young caller.

"Do you wish to spend the rest of your life in a convent?" he asked. "Heavens no!" replied the girl. "Only until my bob grows out again." —American Legion Weekly.

The Added Burden: Nelson: "The poor we have with us always." Riley: "Yes, and aren't their flivers a nuisance?"—Kansas City Star.

Or Perhaps Forty Years Hence: It is a solemn thought that you, gentle reader, may be reading this paragraph twenty years hence in a dentist's waiting-room.—Passing Show (London).

Charity Worker: "I'm collecting clothes for the needy. What do you do with your old clothes?"

College Man: "I hang them up very carefully at night and in the morning I put them on."

Father: "I don't see how your studies at college could have cost so much?"

Doc Bell: "But the account is correct father. What would it have been if I studied as much as the other fellows?"

He: "The more I read the less I know."

Her: "You seem to be well read."

Him: "Does DeMoss belong to the 400?"

Her: "Yes, He's one of the ciphers."

Yust: "I want a couple of pillow cases."

Clerk: "What size?"

Yust: "I'm not certain but I wear a number 7 hat."

Freshman (in cafe): "Hey! there!"

Waitress: "Yes sir. How will you have it?"

Room 1: "Wanna ride home with me?"

Room 2: "Sure."

Room 1: "Where's your car?"

She: I adore the lowly grape. In fact I'm crazy about them?"

He: "Oh I see. A sort of grape nut."

He: "This harp sings that you love me."

She: "That's not a harp. That's a lyre."

Umberger: "Pardon me, but are you the barber who cut my hair last?"

Barber: "No I guess not. I've only been here a year."

Little Willie: Mother, may I talk like a college boy?

Mother: Yes, dear, if you like.

Willie: Then shoot the zip over here and make it snappy.

Stude: "Do you know Bill?"

Second Ditto: "Yeah, I used to sleep with him."

First Stude: "Roommates?"

Second Ditto: "No, classmates."

Said the frugal young artist named Flub,

"It is Saturday night, I must tub. I'll take out my pencil,

A handy utensil,

And with it draw water to scrub."

"Are you the man who saved my son from drowning when he fell through the ice?"

"Yes sir."

"Well, where's his mittens?"

Frosh: "What is a mixer?"

Soph: "A mixer my boy is a party where the women without dates may meet the men without money."

"They're a nice looking couple."

"They don't agree."

"Why not?"

"She's a cat and he puts on the dog."

"The number of divorcees convinces me that America is fast becoming the land of the free."

"Yes, but the marriage lists tell us that we are still the home of the brave."

GATHERED UP

It is dance music that always reaches the sole.

No man ever attempts to flatter the woman he truly loves.

Make not my ear a stranger to thy thoughts.—Addison.

Wind puffs up empty bladders; opinion fools.—Socrates.

Be sure of the foundation before attempting to put up a bluff.

He scatters enjoyment who can enjoy much.—Lavater.

A smile is not always taken at its face value.

Governments are too much organized to "prevent" things.

Death, thou art infinite; it is life is little.—Bailey.

Opportunity may pass by your door, but if you chase him, he'll stop.

People do not say any more than they did three centuries ago, but a million times more gets printed.

Perpetual smiling is as difficult as perpetually looking as if you were having a good time.

If we all got exact justice all the time, how carefully we should have to behave!

Golden Rule is the most admirable of all the rules and the hardest to put completely in practice.

Beauty may be only skin deep, out it invariably gets a seat in a crowded car.

An old bachelor says the average wait of women is until they are asked to marry.

He is truly great that is little in himself, and that makes no account of any height of honors.

A man may shine in the second rank who would be eclipsed in the first.

Whales Don't Spout Water From Lungs

In telling over the story heard down in Buenos Aires from a man who is trying to sail around the world in a 80-foot boat, Captain Penric of the S. S. Voltaire quotes the lonely voyager as saying that when whales came close to him, as they did off the Cape of Good Hope, their spoutings fell over him "like a shower bath."

There appears again the ancient and apparently deathless myth that the spouting of whales is a spouting of water. We all have seen numberless pictures of whales sending streams of water high in air, to fall over in a graceful curve. Yet nothing of the sort ever happened. What whistles spout is the air from their lungs, preparatory to taking in a new supply.

No more than any other mammal does the whale take water into the lungs or pump it out therefrom. The breath mist does rise, but it does not fall, and therefore all the pictures are wrong and the imitation of a fountain is not nearly so close as most of the people who have seen it insist on believing.

Literally: Old Lady: Visiting State Prison: "I suppose my poor man, it was poverty that brought you to this."

Counterfeiter: "On the contrary, mum, I was just coining money."—New Haven Registrar.

GLEE CLUBS TO PRESENT "THE ROSE MAIDEN"

Famous Cantata to be Sung During Commencement Week

The two Glee Clubs are now hard at work on Cowen's cantata, "The Rose Maiden." The cantata will be sung during Commencement Week. It is planned to set the stage out of doors.

The entire cast has not been picked. But Mrs. Amadon and Mrs. Brown will sing solo parts.

Old Adage Disproved

Modern science has disproved the old saying that a silk purse cannot be made from a sow's ear, for a Boston chemist has recently fashioned a beautifully colored bag from pigs' ears obtained at a slaughter house.

Freak Sculpture

A sculptor, using old newspapers soaked in liquid paste for his clay, molded a large ornamental urn. Almost all the work was done without the aid of tools.

Green Replaces Orange

One of the first acts of the Irish Free State government, was to substitute green for the familiar orange envelopes in which telegrams are delivered.

Mine of Ivory

Ivory can be mined in the islands off the coast of Siberia, as the ground is filled with tusks of mammoths and the bones of other prehistoric animals.

School for Public Health

A school for the teaching of public health is to be established by the London School of Tropical Medicine, at a cost of $2,000,000.

Alligators' Diet

The food of all alligators usually consist of raw, meat and raw fish. They consume more food in summer than in winter.

Imitators Get Nowhere

An ounce of wit that is bought is worth a pound that is taught.—Benjamin Franklin.

Fashionable

The photographer who can make unnatural pictures may get the most patronage.

Thrifty Plea

De saveil penny is de daddy of de dollar.—Atlanta Constitution.

True Eloquence: "He made an unusual good after-dinner speech."

"What did he say?" "He said: "Waiter, give me the check."—Jester.

An Improvement

Cross section of flapper's speech before advent of cross-word puzzle craze: "My dear, you should have been with us! We had the most fantastic ride and nearly knocked a fantastic old policeman for a row of potted palms. I'll declare it was the gorilla's garters!"

Much Coffee Imported

Although the United States is not known as a great coffee-drinking country, as for instance England is known for its tea drinking, it is a fact that enormous quantities of coffee are imported into the United States annually. An average year's importations are 1,352,312,000 pounds, though of course some fair portion of this is exported again after having been blended and put up under brand names in fancy packages.

Button Production

The Department of Commerce has announced figures of the button-making industry showing that the United States has most buttons. The annual button production of the nation is valued at $33,000,000 for 1923, the year of the last census of manufacturers—an increase of 23 per cent over the 1921 figures. Button-making factories in the country with outputs of more than $5,000 worth a year number 336.

American Fur Farmers

It is estimated that approximately 12,000 fur farmers are engaged in the production of one or more species of fur-bearing animals in the United States and Alaska. The majority of them, however, are raising silver and blue foxes. The total investment in the business is somewhere between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Very Little Room

"Who was the smallest man in history?" "Give up." "The Roman soldier who slept on his watch."

Black Sheep Bequeathed

Rupert Gwynne, former member of parliament of England, in his will left his flock of black sheep to such of his family as shall succeed to the Folkington estate.

A Difference

Benson—Women are just like babies—they want everything they see. Dennis—Yes; the only difference being that they usually get what they want.
