THE ZETA LITERARY SOCIETY

The annual reception of the Zeta Literary Society was held last Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the Zeta Hall. The meeting was well attended and every one seemed to enter into the spirit of the evening. A charming address of welcome was given by the president, Miss Marguerite Wilson. She hoped that the literary society might have one of its best years during this school year. Every student is heartily welcome to join and should at least consider membership. "Every Zeta a loyal Zeta and a friend to all," may this be our slogan for the year!

The short program for the evening was as follows:

PRESIDENT EMERY SAYS---

"Education is the preparation of an individual to meet and to master environment. It is true it will help an individual to make a living. However, its supreme purpose is to enable the individual to make a life. It is said that when someone asked Aristotle how the educated man differed from the uneducated, he replied, 'As the living differ from the dead.'"

"If one is never to be known outside his own community he ought to be educated for it is this educational training that opens him for a better life. Four years of college education is a preparation for a life of service to the community."

York College Has Interesting Visitor

York College had a very interesting visitor in Miss Margaret Streeter, formerly Supervisor of Music in the Los Angeles Public Schools, last week. Miss Streeter came to York under the auspices of the Music Department of the York Woman's Club.

Miss Cora Conaway introduced Miss Streeter to College folks, giving as the reason for her being there, "I want to be happy, but I can't be happy, until you're happy, too."

Miss Streeter began by telling us that her work was to teach people how to listen to music. "America has grown much in music in the last five years. America spends more on music than any other nation, and as a nation needs to know more about music."

"As Mark Twain says 'Classical music ain't as bad as it sounds.' 'Classical music is the kind you keep on hoping will turn out to be a tune' says Abe Martin.

"The other day I was at a Rotary Club", said Miss Streeter, "and a man said that he knew two tunes—One was Yankee Doodle and the other wasn't. I sure felt sorry for that man."

Miss Streeter then placed upon the phonograph a record by Marian Talley, the Kansas City Star.

"Music Appreciation is the thoughtful listening to music while attention is called to certain characteristics to be found in that music. Music must have a purpose."

"Life is an arrow—therefore you must know What mark to aim at, how to use the bow—Then draw it to the head and let it go."

—Van Dyke.

Each one of us should have a goal in life—some one thing toward which we are striving. A one-talent person who decides upon a definite object can and does accomplish more than a ten-talent person who never knows just what he will do. The weakest person, by concentrating all his powers upon one thing can accomplish that one thing and make something of his life.

We can have many goals, make many forms of clay, but these goals are too easily laid aside or forgotten as we drift to something else. Or we can have one goal only and one great form of everlasting rock.

"Why do you lead such a solitary life?" asked a friend of Michael.
 "Art is a jealous mistress," reported the artist. "She requires the

HAWKEYE GET-TOGETHER

Every year in every way we are growing bigger and better. Every year a few more from the old Hawkeye State join our ranks. We want you to know that we are alive and growing.

Last Saturday evening, if you remember, the air was just crisp enough to make a camp fire in the woods seem mighty attractive. As a result the Hawkeye Club changed its plans and took a hike out to the tourist camp instead of remaining at the "Con" for an oyster stew. Our hike was not really a hike since we all managed to pile into three cars, but we simply couldn't refuse a ride when it was offered. Who would? Our "hike" was made more interesting and inviting by the addition of large, red, juicy apples and marshmallows. After Harold Knight started in on the marshmallows we were glad we had plenty of them. "Pete" tried roasting her apple, but she ran out of patience before the apple was well-done. In a surprisingly short time all the marshmallows had disappeared and most of the apples. However, strange as it may seem, Irene had to do some coaxing before any of us, even Harold, could be induced to make every apple and marshmallow disappear. The "Pope" then tuned up his "uke" and we finished the evening by singing a few songs. You may not believe it but along with our own Iowa song we gave an enthusiastic rendering of the Song of Nebraska. All of our members were there with the exception of a few who hat-

ACADEMY HIKE

Monday, October 4, the entire Academy with their sponsors, Miss Riggs and Prof. Searle, hiked to a pretty nook west of town. Games were played till the supper hour when an inviting fire was built on the banks of the river, and wieners and marshmallows were roasted. After a big supper, college songs were sung around the fire. Prof. and Mrs. Morgan were the guests of the Academy.

and then drop the hands with fingers spread apart anyplace on the keyboard; then press gently but firmly on the keys. A dead silence will greet you. Smile indulgently as you realize you haven't pulled any stops out. The pulling of the stops is really the most difficult part of learning how to play. Look them over carefully and select a few good ones. Pax Vopiscus, Bonjour, Trembling, and Il Penseroso are good stops to start with. That sounds rather contradictory but in playing an organ you start with stops. After you've settled the matter of the starts and stops then you start playing. Place one hand on one keyboard. Twiddle the fingers and then comes the difficult part. You must be able to sit down and walk at the same time. Tramp lustily with both feet, sway from side to side and twiddle your fingers some more. Stop now and then so you can pull a stop and start again. Finish every thing you play with all the plugs out and all the keys down that you can reach. This gives you a fine grip on yourself before you finish.

EE CLUB HIKE
 On the evening of the 28th, Tuesday, the members of the "Best Glee Club in Nebraska," with their director, Dean Amadon, hiked (those that didn't ride) to Beaver Creek for a picnic supper.

The most interesting part of the jaunt, namely, the supper, was piloted to its goal under the auspices of Reatha Feaster and Lloyd Nichols. For one moment everyone held their breath, (we noticed some doing the same to their stomachs) when the "grub car" went into the ditch, but was cleverly maneuvered out again.

One Overland coach reports carrying 15 passengers and Nestor Shlanta reports the top of the afore-mentioned as easy riding.

After a meal of Wieners, buns, pickles, marshmallows and apples, we wended our merry way homeward, everyone reporting the hike and all concerned as "sufficient, all sufficient, for me."

Y. W. HIKE

Did we have a jolly time? We'll say we did. It was an ideal evening. Promptly at five-thirty the big sisters with their little sisters left the Conservatory. Most of them hiking. A few of course, rode with the professors.

My, we were hungry when we arrived at our destination. Whom should we see but Irene, Elberta and Laurene gathering sticks for the fire. They quickly informed us that if we wanted anything to eat we had better get some pointed sticks. Needless to say there was one grand scramble. However in a few minutes every girl was supplied and merrily toasting wieners. After we had all the buns, wieners and pickles we could eat, a big slice of red juicy watermelon was served as desert. As we stood around the dying embers, a short devotional service was held.

Then as each girl walked home in the beautiful moonlight she felt that another pleasant event of her college days had passed into history.

YORK RECRUITS

meeting of the Life Work was held at the Conserva-Monday evening. After a was taken care of talks were en.

Manuel Martinas gave a very interesting talk on the work that is being carried on by missions in New Mexico. He said that it is hard for the Protestant missions to make any progress on account of the Catholic opposition. Many children are kept from the Protestant schools because the parents are prejudiced against Protestantism.

Priests fear they will lose money if they let children go to the mission schools. Children take to Protestantism very readily when once started.

We were glad to know that five of the six graduates from Vera Cruz (1926 class) are here in York College this fall.

Condido Melina followed with a short talk and he gave answers to the questions asked by the other recruits.

It was decided to take up the study of "The Psychology of Leadership." This book is especially good for study by those who expect to be leaders in religious work.

Dean Bisset has consented to lead us in our study.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, October the sixth.

It is hoped that all recruits will get in on the study of this important subject of leadership at the beginning.
Others, who are interested, will find a welcome.

The regular meeting of the Life Work Recruits was held Wednesday, Oct. 6 in Dean Bisset's room.

The first chapter of the book entitled, "The Psychology of Leadership," was commented upon by Dean Bisset. This book proves itself to be interesting from the start.

The leader said that a person is a leader because he is a success. Individuality is necessary for leadership. The leader must have both physical and mental energy. He must have the ability to stand for principles, ability to organize and the ability to see and understand conditions and men. If his leadership is to be lasting he must be democratic.

Tuesday, Oct. 19 at 7:30 is set for the next meeting. It is hoped this will permit all those interested to be present. The attendance was good but more people should come and join in the discussion. The second chapter of the book will be taken up at the next meeting.

Y. W. C. A.

A splendid Y. W. meeting was held at the Conservatory Reception room September twenty-eight.

The theme of the worship service was FAITH which was effectively and touchingly given. The audience sang Faith of Our Fathers, after which Camille Packner read several helpful passages of scripture, which gave us a clearer vision of Faith. After earnest prayers for a greater faith, El-berta Parker very beautifully pantomimed the song, My Faith Looks Up To Thee.

Vivian Johns, Alma Ludwick and Mabel Shelquist gave short, but forceful and inspiring talks on: What Y.
W. Means To Me.

Upon the resignation of Mrs. Morgan as Y. W. church adviser, Mrs. R.
E. Caldwell was chosen to fill the position. We certainly welcome Mrs.
Caldwell to our Y. W. C. A. family this year.

is called "Spiritual" because of its nobility of thought, and every phase of emotion is found in their melodies. It was Dvorak who said the negro sang his emotions. To illustrate Harmony "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," sung by 1100 male voices in the Associated Glee Clubs contest at New York City, was played.

When the time came to illustrate Form, Miss Streeter said "Now I want you to play that you are all in the sixth grade and not dignified college students. Classical or pure music represents Form. Fritz Kreisler was once looking for something new to play. He came across a bit of melody by Beethoven, but it was too tiny to use alone. So Kreisler took this tiny pattern and used it as a text and in this record which I am about to play you will hear this tiny bit of melody. Now I want you to speak to this small tune as you would to a friend when you hear it." We found the tiny tune six times and didn't mind being sixth graders one bit!

Then Miss Streeter asked us to imagine we were in the first grade.
"The March of the Little Lead Soldiers," another record, was now played to see if we could recognize the trumpet, drum and flute and count the little soldiers who hopped out of the box. We could and we did!
Twenty-seven little soldiers hopped out of the box and marched.

Finally—"How much do YOU know about Instruments" Miss Streeter put on a record made by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. "There are two instruments in this that I want to see if you recognize. One is a wood wind and the other is a string instrument. Well some of us know the English horn and some of us recognized the viola when we heard them. "Well, one time I heard this joke," said Miss Streeter, "When is a horn not a horn?" "The answer is,
'when it is an English Horn'."

In closing, Miss Streeter said, "This is what a German philosopher said, 'REMEMBER that music washes away from the soul the dust of every day life.'"

HAWKEYE GET-TOGETHER

Every year in every way we are growing bigger and better. Every year a few more from the old Hawkeye State join our ranks. We want you to know that we are alive and growing.

Last Saturday evening, if you remember, the air was just crisp enough to make a camp fire in the woods seem mighty attractive. As a result the Hawkeye Club changed its plans and took a hike out to the tourist camp instead of remaining at the "Con" for an oyster stew. Our hike was not really a hike since we all managed to pile into three cars, but we simply couldn't refuse a ride when it was offered. Who would? Our "hike" was made more interesting and inviting by the addition of large, red, juicy apples and marshmallows. After Harold Knight started in on the marshmallows we were glad we had plenty of them. "Pete" tried roasting her apple, but she ran out of patience before the apple was well-done. In a surprisingly short time all the marshmallows had disappeared and most of the apples. However, strange as it may seem, Irene had to do some coaxing before any of us, even Harold, could be induced to make every apple and marshmallow disappear. The "Pope" then tuned up his "uke" and we finished the evening by singing a few songs. You may not believe it but along with our own Iowa song we gave an enthusiastic rendering of the Song of Nebraska. All of our members were there with the exception of a few who hat-

ACADEMY HIKE

Monday, October 4, the entire Academy with their sponsors, Miss Riggs and Prof. Searle, hiked to a pretty nook west of town. Games were played till the supper hour when an inviting fire was built on the banks of the river, and wieners and marshmallows were roasted. After a big supper, college songs were sung around the fire. Prof. and Mrs. Morgan were the guests of the Academy.

ticular directions. As craftsmen you have reached the place where your selective mind is particularly exercised. You know that everything that enters into your plan from now on must be measured, squared and plumbbed with such accuracy as will be law of God, is fit into the particular line of work proportion to his diswhich you have chosen. This requires that the greatest possible accuracy must be adhered to in order that there may be no unfortunate detours nor unnecessary sidetracks from the course you have laid out for yourself as craftsmen. As craftsmen or builders you are at a place where every stone that enters the structure or your life must be measured perfectly.
 Speaking literally it is a well-known fact that in the mechanical world the most perfect builders, and the most remarkable bridges, have been built piece by piece and part by part to the minutest detail in the factories and quarries and have only been joined at the place where they were designed to function. The Craftsman must therefore be possessed of patience personified. He must burn the midnight oil, he must correct and re-correct, measure and re-measure in order that he may be absolutely confident that he has made no mistake in his dimensions.

With the hemispherical integrator the illuminating engineer measures light intensities and distribution. These laboratory findings are practically applied to improve our everyday illumination.

When the sun goes down

More than 350,000,000 incandescent lamps, with a combined light of nine billion candlepower, make city streets, stores, and homes brighter than ever before.

In bungalow or mansion, workshop or factory, dormitory or auditorium, there is no excuse for poor illumination. We have cheaper and better lighting in the electric lamp than ever before; for the dollar that bought 1,115 candlepower-hours of light with the carbon-filament lamps of 1886, now buys 16,200 candlepower-hours of light with the MAZDA lamps.

Not only more light, but correctly applied light, is the order of the day. The electric lamp, with its flameless yet highly concentrated light source, lends itself ideally to reflectors, shades, and screens.
 It is controlled light—safe light. And illumination becomes an exact science.

During college days and in after life, correct lighting must ever be of paramount importance to the college man and woman. Good lighting is the worthy handmaiden of culture and progress.

The General Electric Company is the world's largest manufacturer of incandescent lamps. And behind the G-E MAZDA lamps are vast research laboratories dedicated to cheaper and better electric illumination, and to the conservation of eyesight.

A series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for
