HALLOWEEN PARTY TENDERED JUNIORS BY SENIOR CLASS

Two Upper Classes Have Joint Game Party and Banquet

A Halloween party was tendered the junior class by the seniors on the evening of Oct. 31. The first part of the evening was spent at the gymnasium, after which the seniors served a banquet to the junior class in the reception room of the United Brethren Church.

Amidst the rain and cold weather the blindefolded juniors were led to the gymnasium and through a funnel. "The Story of a Dead Man" was told by Schuyler Phillips, and games were played. At the banquet at the United Brethren Church the following program of toasts was given, with Dan Poulson acting as toastmaster:

A senior who attended the event gives the following description:

"The seniors gave the halloween party in honor of the juniors. Each senior went to the house of a junior and brought him to the party blindfolded. On entering they were met by a ghost and made to go through all the spooky things which constitute a good halloween party. The juniors were then made to feed each other marshmallows, which had been blackened with charcoal, thus adding to the merriment of the party. Popcorn balls and apples were also served at the gym.

"The merrymakers then proceeded to the United Brethren Church where a delightful banquet was waiting for them. Everything was enjoyed except the cider which some freshmen had discovered first. A toast program was given which carried out the idea of "Spooks". At a late hour the glorious affair ended and for each junior and senior it remained a delightful memory."

PROMINENT MINISTERS ADDRESS STUDENT BODY

Rev. E. H. Jackson, Dr. C. J. Fox,
Dr. A. P. Vannice Speak

Within the past two weeks the students and faculty of York College have had the opportunity of listening to three prominent ministers during chapel periods. They are Prof. E. H. Jackson, Dr. C. J. Fox, and Dr. A. P. Vannice.

On Thursday, Nov. 1, Rev. Dr. E. H. Jackson, pastor of the York Baptist church, spoke on "Mastering Yourself." Rev. Mr. Jackson said, "There is no defeat save within. Unless you are defeated there, you are bound to win. You have to master yourself before you can conquer anyone else."

Giving examples of those who had won because they could control themselves, the speaker emphasized the mastery and right use of anger, appetite for pleasures, truth which binds together all the rest of the man, and the will power.

Dr. C. J. Fox, the evangelist who is holding meetings at the College church, spoke on Wednesday, Nov. 7. He chose as his subject, "Building a Life."

Dr. Fox said, "Building a life is the biggest job you will ever face. It is comparatively easy to build a great home, farm, industry, or church, but building a life is a much bigger proposition."

Stressing the wonderful mechanism of the human body, its sensitive-

SOPHOMORE CLASS HAS FIRST PARTY ON NOV. 2

Theatre and House Party Are Enjoyed by Members

The sophomore class of York College braved the cold and the snow on the evening of Nov. 2, and visited the York Theatre. About 20 members were present, and after seeing the program at the theatre they went to the home of Cozette Carter, where the remainder of the evening was spent playing games and presenting stunts.

At a late hour refreshments were served. Members of the class reported that they were in readiness for a visit from their upper and lower classmen but none was received, due probably to the weather. In spite of the disagreeable weather, the members present stated that they enjoyed the evening.

FRESHMAN CLASS GIVES PEPPY CHAPEL PROGRAM ON DAY OF "BIG" GAME

First Year Class Presents Their Program, a Take-Off on College People

A chapel program to rouse pep for the freshman-upper classman football game was given by members of the freshman class on Nov. 2.

The program was started by an imitative pep talk, given by Charles Kraft, with all due apologies to Prof. John K. Miller. Kraft rushed out on the stage, took off his coat and gave the students a pointed lecture on their school spirit. Following he gave his old favorite, the deaf and dumb yell. Next the freshmen presented a take-off on some of the prominent couples on the campus, with Jean Haner (as Schuyler Phillips) presenting them.

The curtain was then lowered for a moment, and raised on the representation of the scene at the freshman-upper classman football game. An orchestra consisting of Milan Lambert at the piano, Frances Edmondson on the violin, Lee Knolle also a violinist, and Harlie Allen, trombonist, assisted in the program.

A number of freshmen boys, suited in football outfits, forced the game, the upper classmen of course being considerably overwhelmed by the score of 50-0.

Harry: "Mother won't you give me five cents for a poor man who is crying out in front!"

Mother: "Yes, my son, here it is, and you are a good boy to think of it. Poor man! What is he crying about?"

Harry: "He's crying, 'fresh roasted peanuts, five cents a bag!'" ness, alertness, durability, and wonderful powers, Dr. Fox closed his address by commending to the students "that fellowship finer than with any of the greatest of characters on earth—the fellowship with God."

The evangelist's singer, Rev. Mr. Cornelius, accompanied by Mrs. Cornelius, favored the audience with two vocal solos.

Dr. A. P. Vannice, superintendent of the Nebraska United Brethren Conference, addressed the chapel on Thursday, Nov. 8. He centered his remarks on the Golden Rule, emphasizing that it pays in reputation, happiness, and success to overcome the instinct of selfishness. He said:

"It is only as we are willing to yield to the consideration of others, and cooperate with others, that we will win. A carpenter might build a house without a square, but no one would want it when it was finished. A man might build a life without the Golden Rule, but no one would care for it when it was done. It is only when we are built around and centered in Christ that we will live a true life."

HOOVER RECEIVES 2 TO 1 MAJORITY OF COLLEGE VOTE

Students in Colleges and Universities Favor Hoover

The result of the first really thorough canvass ever taken of American colleges and universities on the presidential vote, gathered this year by College Humor, showed that Herbert Hoover, who was elected president of the United States at the polls Nov. 6, received a two to one vote. In York College the students gave Hoover a four to one advantage.

At the September registration this year there were 892,808 students in the 1,104 American colleges, of which 544,685 were men and 848,123 girls. This army of young voters (most of them never had any experience at the polls) have been termed by both Democrats and Republicans as the hope of America.

The straw vote was conducted on practically every college campus, the late return being wired to Chicago at the latest possible moment. Thousands of secret ballots were mailed by College Humor to fraternities and sororities in every college. In many schools, particularly in the southern states, the students did strenuous campaigning for their favorites.

Analysis of the vote showed that Herbert Hoover had the majority of student votes in thirty-eight states and the District of Columbia. Alfred E. Smith carried ten states: Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Will Rogers obtained one-half of one per cent of the total student vote. The following was received from St. John's Collegiate, Annapolis, Maryland: "Hoover 128, Smith 120, Texas Guinan 2, students dry and faculty all wet."

Hoover authorized the following exclusive statement to College Humor and the college world, preferring it to be put in the third person:

"Back in the late 'eighties when the Republican nominee for president was an office boy for a land company in Salem, Oregon, a mining engineer sauntered into the office and captured Bert Hoover's imagination with talk of that profession. He decided to go to college and became a mining engineer....."

"And so in the fall of 1891, Bert Hoover became a freshman in the first class at Stanford. He had one hundred dollars as his capital and he had a big task on his hands to find a means of supporting himself and to keep up with his studies.

"The first job that came to hand was in the office of the registrar handling the newly arrived students. Then he was local agent for San Francisco papers, which helped out the condition of the exchequer. Next he discovered that there was an opportunity for a laundry agency at the university and he entered into an arrangement for this with the Red Star Laundry at San Jose. This grew to goodly proportions and he eventually named sub-agents in the fraternity houses....."

COLLEGE GLEE CLUB GIVES FIRST CANTATA

Operetta Is Now Being Planned for Second Semester

The cantata, "The Man Without A Country", was given by the York College Glee Club at the United Brethren Church on the evening of Oct. 30. Dean Charles Amadon, who directed the cantata, stated that "The Red Mill" or "The Quaker Girl" will be presented during the second semester.

The soprano solos in the cantata presented on Oct. 30 were sung by Frances Edmondson, Ethel Dixon and Lois Overmiller. The alto solo was sung by Laurene Edmondson. Neva Brookhart and Miss Eda Rankin accompanied the singers on the piano and organ.

Due to the disagreeable weather the audience was rather small, but it was appreciative.

COLLEGE TO BROADCAST MUSICAL PROGRAMS EACH WEEK OVER STATION KGBZ

Dean Charles Amadon and Those Assisting Hope to Interest
College Friends

York College will be heard "on the air" once each week from radio station KGBZ, presenting a thirty minute musical program. The time for the programs has not been definitely set, due to the fact that the station will soon go on a new schedule, but the time will be announced in the near future.

The program will be directed by Dean Charles Amadon, of the Hullitt Conservatory of Music. It will be assisted by a committee working out plans at the present time. It is the opinion of those promoting the broadcasts that much interest will be created, especially among the former students and friends of the College who have moved away from York. It is expected that the first program will be announced some time very soon.

ZETA LITERARY SOCIETY GIVE VARIED PROGRAM

At the Zeta Literary society meeting on Nov. 6, the following program was presented:

Violin Solo.....Frances Edmondson
"Salut'd Amour"

Talk.....Marietta Cain
"Salut'd Armour"

Vocal Solo.....Lois Overmiller
"I Hear You Calling"

Talk.....John Boren
"A Look Into the Future"

Vocal Quartet.....Thelma Dierdorff
Wayne Jackson, Verne Dierdorff
and Hazel Bearss

In her talk Miss Cain stated that she believed a student council in York College would be a success. "I believe it would be a means of securing better cooperation between the faculty and the students of York College," she said. Boren gave a glimpse of the future in both our college and national life.

Wayne Jackson was installed as usher in the business meeting immediately following the program. The demerit system of the society was also altered slightly.

A lawyer says that a dangerous year in married life is the first. Then follows the second, third, fourth, fifth and so on.

CON PARTY

A Halloween party was enjoyed by the girls at the conservatory on the evening of Oct. 31. The girls were met at the door of the reception room by a tall white ghost, which assisted them to chairs in the darkened room. After all were seated Viola McBride told a ghost story. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games and at the close of the evening chocolate fudge and divinity were served.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR YORK COLLEGE GYMNASIUM NOV. 8

Pres. J. R. Overmiller Turns First Shovel of Earth

York College witnessed the ceremony of turning the first earth in the building of a new gymnasium in a celebration at 1:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon. President J. R. Overmiller broke the ground as the cameraman snapped the scene of the beginning of the most important forward step taken by York College for some years.

The ceremony opened with a college song followed by a few remarks and prayer by President Overmiller.

Coach R. B. McCandless spoke to the large group on the value that the new gymnasium would have for the present student body and for the many students to come. Stating that he loved to figure, Coach McCandless pointed out the financial returns that the new gymnasium would bring. He stated that in the next ten years, at a conservative estimate, the new students who would be attracted by the gymnasium would net the college $84,000, since at least 25 new students would be attracted annually.

The real value, McCandless stated, will be twice as much as the present equipment to the physical education department in more adequate facilities. The converting of the old gymnasium to a library will bring about another much needed and very beneficial change to York College.

In his remarks Coach McCandless pointed out the cooperation of the entire student body, and that, being the goal in the proposition, he was going to butt into the students for their help. He said that as only air cooled hammers and shovel handles would be used the process of rapidly erecting the building would be carried out in fine shape.

On behalf of the alumni and students of former years, Professor Warren Baller, who claims York College as his Alma Mater, in his brief remarks said that "those fellows who made records in the past for their own York College are looking right here to see what we are going to do and they are watching and hoping that the building and stock in York College will go up."

Representing the freshmen, Ual Hanshaw assured the audience that the freshmen would cooperate and do their part in the building. Louis Helzer, student manager and captain of the 1927 and 1928 basketball teams, spoke for the seniors and the rest of the students.

As president of the Booster club, Leo Anderson, who said, "If we put the gym over, we will put the college over," led several songs and yells.

President J. R. Overmiller, in the closing address, told of the plans for the building and its equipment.

The new building, which is located on the corner of the campus southeast of the administration building, will be a frame structure covered with stucco. It will face the west and have outside dimensions of 90 by 74 feet.

The playing floor will measure 90 feet by 50 feet and will be of hard oak. Bleachers along both sides of the floor will have a seating capacity of 1,000 people. Underneath the bleacher seats will be the lockers with the shower rooms at the ends. There will also be two office rooms in the building.

Excavation began immediately after the ceremony was concluded by the picture of the group. The pouring of the concrete began Saturday and by the time this article is in your hands the concrete foundation will likely be entirely completed.

According to present plans the building will be ready for use by (Continued on page 4)

POLITICS AS A CAREER

"As crooked as a politician!" You've heard the phrase, and you've heard others, such as: "Don't get mixed up in politics," "Politics is a dirty game," and many other similar statements.

And the discouraging part of them is that they are often the words of college students, expressing a disdainful attitude toward politicians. Out of 400 Harvard seniors of a few years ago only two expressed a preference for politics. The number who eventually intended to take up business life amounted to 122. Manufacturing, which did not happen to be classified under the same head, was chosen by 16, and many others marked such occupations as banking, insurance, accounting, public-utilities management, advertisement, exporting and merchant marine, all of which are business. And of the 103 who preferred the law and the 40 who chose engineering, many will no doubt find their way into business positions.

The graduates educated youth is flocking into industry, commerce, and the more technical pursuits, such as law and engineering. However, unless the pursuit commonly called "politics" makes a stronger appeal to the coming generations the situation in the future looks bad. Somebody has fumbled the ball. With insignificant exceptions most students regard politics as the resort of bums.

We pray for the welfare of our country, and proudly point to its wealth and position in the world, but we laugh at most politicians and scorn the profession. Did you ever hear an older person advise a young man to prepare himself for a political career?

HATS OFF TO THE FRESHMEN

"With malice toward none" the freshmen accepted the tradition which was handed over to them. They purchased the required green caps and green ribbons and are wearing them.

Hats off to the freshmen!

It was, of course, expected that they would purchase the caps and ribbons, but for their willing cooperation in helping establish this tradition, they are to be complimented.

Hats off to the freshmen!

We don't mean to suggest that they were not expected to cooperate, but their good spirit throughout the whole matter is so noticeable that we feel they deserve a special congratulation.

Hats off to the freshmen!

A few freshmen at first thought that the upper classmen were putting something over on them, instead of handing something over to them, but even these are now cheerfully wearing the green.

Hats off to the freshmen!

Next year the upper classmen will not have to hand over anything to the freshmen. They will hand it down, for then it will be more of a tradition, which must be continued by the freshmen.

Hats off to the freshmen!

The seniors were missing a jug of cider at the party they gave the juniors on Oct. 31, and the freshmen displayed an empty jug at their chapel program the following Friday morning. We haven't completely solved the mystery yet, as it is somewhat complicated, but we have a reporter acting as detective who is working on the case, and we expect to have the matter cleared up soon.

A Princetown sophomore has a clock that closes his window, turns on the heat in season and cooks his breakfast egg—and another that wakes him when the egg is ready. The next step will probably be a radio to tune in on the professor's lectures, a reader to read all reading assignments, a dictaphone to dictate all papers, or what have you?

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM GIVEN AT PALS MEETING

An Armistice day program was presented at the meeting of the Pals' Literary society on the evening of Nov. 6, after which new members were initiated into the society.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "America the Beautiful." An extemporaneous talk on "My Memories of the First Armistice Day" was given by Homer Crosby, and then Margaret Hill directed group singing. Katherine Spore told an original war story, and Schuyler Phillips gave a short talk on the subject, "Peace." A trombone solo, "Jackson's March," was played by Forest Strickler, after which the Pals' War Edition, edited by Cozette Carter, was read. Ardith Kull acted as critic of the meeting.

Dean Amadon (calling library on telephone) "Is the sponsor of the freshman class there?"

Miss Cone: "The sponsor of the freshman class? Who do you mean?"

Dean Amadon: "Why Harold Jeffers, is he there?"

Miss Cone: "Oh, I didn't know who you meant. No, he's not here."

Dean Amadon: "Well, he's probably in conference somewhere."

"Are all the members of the hanging committee present?"

"Yes."

"Very well, gentlemen, let us make a start. What's wrong with this picture?"

THE MONOTONY OF BEING GOOD

It is terrible to have to be good continually. It grows so monotonous that after a few days of pleasing everybody, one feels ready to burst from the exertion. For a whole week I have been good in the library. I have barely smiled, and those sitting near me have been oppressed by my brooding, melancholy silence. They know it is not natural.

All the time I have been aching to laugh at something, or to whisper something foolish to those about me, but no—it cannot be done. The librarian persists in requiring silence. This soon grows monotonous. Also it is monotonous to be good in the hall when one feels like tearing from one end of it to the other and emitting a series of cowboy yelps at each jump. All in all, it is monotonous to be good all the time.—A Freshman Girl.

Lights that Fill the Skies with Commerce

THE air map of America is now in the making—on the ground.

Ten years ago, there were 218 miles of air mail routes with two station stops; to-day, a network of sky roads bridges the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Can you imagine this growth without electricity—without illuminated airports—without trunk lines studded with electric beacons?

Men of vision are building for increasing traffic of the air. Soon, the skies will be filled with commerce.

Just as electricity is helping to conquer the air, the land, and the sea to-day, so to-morrow it will lead to greater accomplishments in aviation and in every human activity.

Friends of Mrs. Reka Blanc Mathews will be interested in reading parts of a letter which was written to Miss Emma Fye, dean of women, recently. Mrs. Mathews, with her husband, has been doing missionary work at some of the mission schools for several years. In the letter to Miss Fye she writes the following:
 Ramon Falcon 4100,
 Buenos Aires, Arg.

My dear Miss Fye:
 It has been so long since I have heard from you that I hardly know which of us wrote last. But so often I think of you, always with love and appreciation for what you meant to me in the past. Those beautiful school days, full of pleasant happenings, are now in the past, but the memory of those happy associations will ever be with me, I hope. May your influence multiply in the lives of many girls is my prayer . . .

So many things have happened since we last met that it would be difficult to share everything. After staying one year in Buenos Aires, studying the language, we moved into the interior. We stayed one year but the mission called us back to Buenos Aires, since the boys' school was in need of a missionary couple . . .

Now we have been asked to move again, this time to the seminary building to take charge there. The climate is ideal, although the winter is somewhat damp. The houses are built to keep out the heat—not the cold. . .

We are still studying the language, for it takes time to speak it well, and we want to be able to speak fluently with the people.

Give my love to all I know.

SOME FRESHMEN RAID JUNIOR-SENIOR PARTY

Some freshmen made a friendly raid on the junior-senior Halloween party and it is believed that they escaped with a jug of cider.

A freshman makes this statement: "The boys procured the spoils and the girls acted as scouts. A raid was made on the basement of the church and two jugs were seized. But one of the boys ran into some interference, in the form of a table, and fumbled his jug. No recovery was made. The one jug was served at an impromptu freshman party. We intend to keep the jug."

Ermina Hoyle was called home because of the illness of her mother.

Y. W. C. A. MEETING

"Service" was the topic discussed at the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Nov. 6, which was led by Leona Robertson. Devotions were led by Mrs. June Crosby, and Ethel Dixon contributed a vocal solo. A poem, "Tired of Serving", read by Margaret Hill, and a piano duet by Neva Brookhart and Thelma Dierdorff were the other numbers of the program. Following the musical numbers Altha McClatchey gave a short talk on "How Can We Be of Service to Our Church?"

Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Election problems were discussed at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Nov. 6, the discussion being led by Harlon Moore, president of the organization.

Problems such as, voting a straight ticket, voting for the party or the man, how to vote when neither candidate is properly qualified for the office, how to prevent such cases, and other similar conditions were discussed freely.

 other things. Returning for his junior year after a second summer with a geological survey, of Arkansas, he brought forth a plan for control of student activities by a student body. This was put through and he became treasurer of the student board without salary. He also managed a lecture and concert course.

"Between his junior and senior years he spent another summer with the survey. It was while he was a senior that he met Miss Lou Henry, who later married. Receiving his diploma in May, 1895, he worked as a mine laborer for a brief time and then set out for San Francisco to link his fortunes with those of Louis Janin, leading mining engineer of the West, from which point his career began."

YANNIGANS BATTLE HOOLIGANS VAINLY TO 6-6 TIE NOV. 2

Freshmen and Upperclassmen Brave Snow and Weather To Play Game

One of the undecisive battles of the world was waged on the Panthers' gridiron when the Yannigans battled the Hooligans to a 6-6 tie on Nov. 2. The Yannigans were the freshmen and the Hooligans were the upperclassmen the game being one of a series of three contests between the freshmen and the upperclassmen to decide whether or not the freshmen will have to wear the green until Christmas vacation, or whether they may discard it on Thanksgiving day.

The game took place in a snowy field which might be likened in many respects to Valley Forge. The officials appeared in the garb customary for officials, and it was sometimes hard to distinguish them from the rest of the landscape.

The whistle blew and the Yannigans received. Their men came plowing down the field, the snow flying on all sides of them. They gained perhaps a yard. The battle raged fiercely. The men soon took on the appearance of animated snow men. The ball became wet and unmanageable. Fumbles were frequent. Before the first quarter had ended Mann recovered a Yannigan fumble and plowed over for a touchdown. His kick failed to count, and the score was 6-0.

During the second the Yannigans blocked a punt and succeeded in fumbling and falling on the ball to get it over for their touchdown. They attempted to pass for the extra point, but it was incomplete. The half ended with the score tied 6-6.

In the second half the rains that both sides made were measured in half inches. "Horse" Mann would plow into the line for two inches. Then a pass would be incomplete and Ruppel would have to punt. "Big" Hanshew would take the ball and smash off-tackle for an inch and a half. Then the other Hanshew would try the end and reel off a run of three inches. And so they punted. The only big gains were made when one side recovered the ball from a fumble of their opponent.

In the third quarter the Yannigans carried the ball to the Hooligans' half-yard line. "Big" Hanshew hit the line twice for no gain. Then he plunged off-tackle and succeeded in carrying the ball over. However, the Yannigans started before the ball did, and the touchdown was lost, the score remaining a tie to the end of the game. Little remains to be said. Nothing had been decided. Neither could claim the victory, and everyone was cold and wet.

Ruppel is to be praised for one long run, and L. Hanshew made one good line plunge. Otherwise there were no stars. (The game was played in the afternoon.)

SPORTITORIAL

It was a great game while it lasted, but how soon it was over. A week of class spirit and loyalty, sixty minutes of tumbling in the snow and it was all over. At least some thought so. But it's not. The chief aim of the Yannigan-Hooligan game was to awaken an interest in athletics.

Students were loyal to their class but since the class issue is over they feel it doesn't matter. We had a good number out in preparation for that contest, but many of those who played in that game have not been turning out since, and we are preparing for two stiffer and more important games. Is that loyalty to the College? Think it over.

That phantom of our dreams, that illusive something which we dimly heard and which we more dimly saw is fast becoming a reality. As we write we see the coach busily wielding a spade, and we know that when Coach McCandless starts he never stops. Hurrah for the new gym! The two big games are just ahead. As this goes to press York is at Midland. Dope says that they will take a severe drubbing, but dope has been known to fail. On Friday, the Hastings team, who are virtually conceded the championship, will come here. Again dope predicts a lop-sided affair, but maybe we will kick the dope bucket over. It's worth trying.

Y. W. C. A. MEETING

How Prayers Can Help in the Coming Election" was the topic of the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Oct. 3, which was led by Leona Robertson.

Devotions were led by Ardith Kull, and a solo was sung by Carolee Fogo. Following the solo Hazel Bears gave a talk on the subject, after which short sentence prayers were offered for the outcome of the election.

Ground Is Broken for York College Gymnasium Nov. 8 (Continued from page 1) January 1, 1929. Several of the season's basketball games will be played in the new gymnasium. Two big basketball tournaments this season will initiate the new gymnasium. One of the district high school basketball tournaments will be held here, and the regular invitation tournament which has been held annually for the past several years will be repeated this year by York College.
