

COLLEGE IS OFFERING SEVERAL NEW COURSES THE SECOND SEMESTER

New Classes in Art, Expression, Music, Education and English.

A number of new courses are being offered for the second semester, which opened Jan. 27 with a decided increase in the enrollment in the several departments of the college.

The education department offers the widest range of new subjects. Miss Slee has classes in school administration, a course for future high school teachers, school management, for elementary teachers, and educational psychology, which are favored, by a number of students.

In the art department, which is headed by Mrs. Giaouque, a new normal art class has been started. There are several new pupils in the fine arts department. They are working on oil paintings, fabric paintings and plaques. Dorothy Fravel is working on a large plaque of "The Lord's Supper", which deserves special mention. Others are working on china painting and basketry.

Mrs. Loreman is offering a course in story telling which is especially beneficial to teachers. They are taking up the technique of the use of the voice, a study of children's type of literature, and methods of telling stories.

In the Conservatory of Music, Miss Thomas is offering a course in normal music for prospective teachers, and also a course in conducting. The course in conducting will be divided into three periods, theory of conducting, practice in orchestra conducting, and chorus conducting. Miss Rankin has a new course in harmonic analysis, which has a good enrollment.

Miss Calender, of the English department, offers a new course in literary appreciation, and also a course in Browning. The latter has not been offered for several years and has an unusually large enrollment for an advanced class.

Trigonometry, ethics, and medieval Latin are other second semester subjects which have their place as do genetics and advanced botany.

REV. E. H. JACKSON ADDRESSES CHAPEL

States that We Leave Records that May Mave Effect f-r Long Time.

"Tracks" was the subject of a talk given in chapel on Wednesday, Feb. 5, by the Reverend E. H. Jackson pastor of the local Baptist church. Mr. Jackson stressed the point that it will be impossible for us to cover the "tracks" we make here in life. Geologists are finding tracks of animals made thousands of years ago, and even raindrops have left their imprint. Centuries may pass but still they tell their stories, and may tell much more than we might suppose.

The National Geographic Society has secured a fund to examine the beams used in ancient Indian pueblos in New Mexico. There, by the different characteristics of the trees and logs, they expect to learn of many things that occurred at the time. Weather conditions of that time are revealed by the formation of the rings in the trees, and general characteristics of the people may be inferred from these records. They tell interesting stories which can not be erased.

By scientific investigation in Palestine it has been found that what were considered to be hills are in reality mounds built up by the ruins of buried cities. After excavation, evidences of the state of the earlier civilization have been discovered.

Mr. Jackson concluded by stating that we as individuals are leaving tracks for the world to see. The significance of our records should be of primary importance in our lives, for "tracks are hard to cover and may amount to a great deal and be a means of joy or a means of great distress."

RECRUITS TO HEAR MEN OF VARIOUS OCCUPATIONS

The Life Work Recruits met at the reception room of the Conservatory on Monday evening, February 3, to discuss the last chapter of the book, "The Crowded Ways," by Sears. Plans for the semester were outlined.

The group has decided to invite speakers representing the various professions to address it. The Rev. Paul Porter is to speak at the next meeting, February 17. The committee to secure speakers, composed of Marie Anderson and Dean Charles Bisset, announced that in the succeeding meetings a missionary, a doctor, a lawyer, an educator, a business man and others would discuss some phase of the relation of Christianity to their work.

"Y" CLUB MEETS AND DISCUSSES REGIONAL BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Club Orders Athletic Letters and Makes Ruling About Athletic Passes.

The members of the Y Club met in their regular monthly meeting, Wednesday evening, Feb. 5, in the parlors of Hulitt conservatory.

After the evening meal, a business session was held, in which several matters of importance were discussed. Plans for the regional basketball tournament to be held March 7 and 8 were outlined. The chair appointed Rollie Wildman and Ira Colson to plan and arrange a Y Club booklet similar to those printed in former years. Willis Young will assist in this work and aid in the advertising.

The Y Club certificates were signed and approved and an order was placed for both football and cross-country letters, which will be given out in a special chapel service. The model for the official track letter was changed from a standard six inch block "Y" to one with attached wings.

On a motion by McCandless, the Club ruled that a member must present his "Y medallion" or life pass to York College athletics in order to gain admittance to future athletic contests. The pass is not to be transferred under penalty of revocation by the Club. The President was instructed to notify all Y Club members of this ruling.

The initiation of new members was postponed until after the March meeting.

Ray Ruppel, president of the Club, asked to be relieved of the duties of his office in compliance with the Student Council ruling on major offices, but his resignation was not accepted. On a vote of the members, the matter was laid on the table indefinitely.

After the usual "warming up" of delinquents, the meeting was adjourned.

MRS. MORGAN ADDRESSES

Y. W. C. A. ON TOPIC "CHARM"

"Charm," was the theme of the Y. W. C. A. meeting of January 28,

Following the prelude played by Evelyn Whitnall, Hortense Pointer led the group in singing. Wilhelmina Feemster led devotions after which she introduced Mrs. J. C. Morgan as the speaker of the hour.

Mrs. Morgan, whose topic was "Charm," urged each individual to carry a mental picture of her statue of ideals letting all of her activity contribute to its final perfection. She contended that charm is the result of an interior rather than an exterior influence.

Following the talk, Miss Callender led in the closing prayer.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONDUCTS SERVICES

Members Have Valentine Party and Share in Evening Church Service.

Members of the Senior and Intermediate Christian Endeavor societies met at the United Brethren church, Friday, Jan. 31, for a party as a part of the observance of Christian Endeavor Week, Jan. 26 to Feb. 2.

The decorations and games were suggestive of Valentine Day. Refreshments of ice cream with a red heart in the center and cup cakes were served at the end of the evening.

Annual Christian Endeavor Week began on January 26 when the young people read the scripture lesson, offered prayer and ushered for the evening church service. In addition, the pastor, the Rev. Paul Porter, used "Youth" as the theme for his sermon.

On the following Sunday evening, the Christian Endeavorers headed by the vice-president of the Senior society, Wilhelmina Feemster, had charge of the entire church service. The members of both the Intermediate and Senior societies occupied the choir section. The service consisted of the following program:

Instrumental prelude
Processional, "Come Thou Almighty King."

PRES. OVERMILLER SPEAKS

In a speech delivered to the student body on Friday morning, Jan. 31, during the chapel service. President Overmiller stated that great doors of opportunity are open to everyone and that the individual is the only one who can close them.

The point emphasized was the fact that the Holy Spirit is the great element essential to solving life's problems.

The speech was concluded by a short prayer.

GLEE CLUB PRESENTS OPERA "ROBIN HOOD" AT YORK THEATRE

Leads Sung by Marvin Hersey and Frances Edmondson; Amadon Directs.

The York College Glee Club under the supervision of Dean Charles Amadon very ably presented the three-act comic opera, "Robin Hood," by Reginald de Koven, to a large and appreciative audience, at the York Theatre, on Thursday evening, January 30.

The story of "Robin Hood" tells of the escapades of Little John and his outlaw band. Brighton Houston carried all parts of Little John well, but should be especially complimented upon his rendition of "Brown October Ale."

Marvin Hersey, in his usual pleasing manner, enacted the part of Robert of Huntington, who joined the band of outlaws as "Robin Hood," in order to foil plans to take the title of Earl of Huntington from him.

The Sheriff of Nottingham with his "eagle eye and massive brain" was seeking to secure the title "Earl of Huntington" for his ward, Sir Guy of Gisborne, and incidentally a sum of money for himself. Donald Fisher as Sheriff, and John Boren as his ward, furnished these comic parts of the opera.

Robin, and Lady Marian, whom the king has bid marry Robin, meet in the woods and agree to marry in spite of the Sheriff's plans. Frances Edmondson, as Lady Marion, presented the high notes of the score in a most pleasing manner.

Ethel Dixon, as Annabel, daughter of Dame Durden and sweetheart of Allan a Dale, was being forced to marry the Sheriff, with Genevieve Rystrom as Dame Durden and Lois Overmiller in the role of Allan a Dale.

Friar Tuck and Will Scarlet, two outlaws who led to Robin's release, were portrayed by Kenneth Jenkins and Lee Knolle. "The Armorer's Song," by Scarlet, "Oh, Promise Me," by Allan a Dale, and "When a Maiden Weds," by Annabel were high points in the opera.

Under the leadership of Dean Amadon, Miss Muriel Thomas and Mr. George Wilson, the opera was, without doubt, the most successful production ever given by this organization.

Credit should also be given Miss Emma Fye, in charge of the costumes, Miss Margaret Yust, pianist, and the orchestra under the direction of Miss Muriel Thomas.

A PASSING TRIBUTE

We wish to propose a toast—a toast to our retiring editor, Willis Young, better known as "Babe" to young and old alike on the college campus and around town.

Young has served in the capacity of editor for a year and a half beginning with the opening of the fall semester in 1928 and continuing up to the present time. He leaves to work in the office of the Rystrom Motor Company here in York.

The Sandburr last year was taken in as a charter member of the National Scholastic Press Association and given a second class honor rating. The college paper has been worked up to the place where it has been considered the "best" paper the College has ever put out. Young has put in hours of hard work, writing copy, writing heads, making up the paper and reading proof—and those of you who think this is all fun, just try—we ask you—just try it once.

Such things do not happen. There must be a cause back of it all. Let us put the praise where it belongs. All right, folks, drink deeply—Here's to Babe!

 IN FEBRUARY

"The February sunshine steeps your boughs,
 "And tintB the buds and swells the leaves within."—Bryant.

"Lives of great men all remind us," that February is truly a month of inspiration. Meditate for a moment. The names of Washington, Lincoln, Edison, Greeley, Longfellow and others are fitting memories of famous February birthdays. Likewise, it is easy to recall famous February events, such as Valentine's Day, opening of the Suez Canal, 1876, last day of the Revolutionary War, 1783, and acquisition of Florida in 1819. Last But not least, the groundhog superstition still persists.

 STAFF SELECTIONS

The selection of a staff seems at first thought a rather simple problem, but many college staffs fail to gain maximum efficiency and results because of the poor selection of the staff. How is a staff selected?

None of us would want to admit that in our own institution anything except real journalistic ability enters into the selection of the staff. In most cases a college staff is selected on one of four bases: personal friendship, campus politics, past reputation or scholastic ability in journalism.

The matter of campus politics is not an important factor in York College. While it is not possible to eliminate entirely personal friendships, the editor and faculty adviser have attempted to select those who are interested in journalistic work, and wish experience along this line.

The President's Message

By Pres. J. R. Overmiller

As I sit in the seat of a shaking, jostling railway coach approaching St. Joseph, I am destined for Dayton, Ohio, to attend the meeting of the Board of Administration but the Sandburr is to go to press shortly and my message to The Sandburr family must be in. A lesson from men who have succeeded might be in order.

A short time ago one of York's most successful business men told me what his early experience in business cost him. As I left York today I visited one of York county's most successful farmers. He pointed to a well-improved farm about a mile from the railroad saying, "That's the old home place." As I became interested he told me the story of many years. Let me give you a little of these experiences.

This business man has a business institution scarcely equalled outside a large city. He said, "When I started in business here I had $250 with which to operate, and a very small room. I built a little lean-to room out of store boxes on the rear of the building. In this I lived. It was my living room, dining room and kitchen. My brother came in with me. Our sleeping cots were pushed under the counter by day and pulled out for use at night. I lived at this sacrifice, denying myself many things until my business began to develop."

The farmer said, "I bought that first eighty for $600 and the next for $850. We had a little two room house built of ordinary one inch lumber. I conducted a school in one room and my wife and I lived in the other. My salary was $30 per month for a three months' term.

"After two years an adjoining eighty was for sale. It was needed to complete my farm. Others were considering buying it. I said to my wife, 'What shall we do? I wanted to build you a house but we can not build the house and buy the eighty.' She said, 'buy the eighty. The farm will build the house, but the house will not buy the farm.' We bought the eighty and in two years we had it paid for. In 1920 we sold it for $60,000."

There may be an applicable moral in this for a person seeking an education, which if well applied might not only result in educational success but might also become an important element in after days.

Dear Sandburr Readers:

Like a great many persons in this world, I sometimes thought we were only playing make-believe when we used to sing, "The Best Ole School in the Best Ole Town, in the Best Ole Land, Every Time." But as I get into the current of the world again and bump shoulders with other fellows who are in quest of health, wealth and happiness—or perhaps the majesty a college degree is supposed to carry with it—then compare notes as to our findings, I feel proud of our old Y. C. I almost covet "Ray" Bryant's job. As you remember, York is the fourth college or university that I have attended, and I have been associated with countless students from various parts of the world, but as I meet with outstanding men like Dr. Victor Rule, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, and Professor Olney, president of the College of Allied Arts, and they ask my college affiliation, there is, as John Wesley said, "something strangely warm within me" when I say, "York College, sir."

Yesterday in an interview with a sales manager from San Francisco, the prospect was asked to tell about himself, to which he made reply, "That is the easiest thing for me to do."

York College is a part of you; for Lincoln, not Tennyson, said, "I am a part of all I have ever met." Now write home, go down town and tell folks about our school and see how good you feel. If you think it all wrong, then remember Y. C. is made up of people just like you.

It is truly a pleasure to greet York alumni on the Highway of Life.

It really is nice to go into the grape-fruit and orange groves and pick the ripe fruit from the trees, or stroll down street in the shade of these great palms. Yet, as Reuben Clark, of St. Louis, says, "After all, the kind of world one carries in one's self is the important thing, and the world outside takes all its grace, color, and form from that."

Someone said, "Write your name with love, mercy and kindness on the hearts of those about you and you will never be forgotten." President Overmiller must have done this well for he surely hasn't been forgotten at Santa Cruz and Albuquerque. As I visited with his friends at those places on my way down here, it was my happy privilege to hear their kind praises of our worthy president.

Just One of Us,
 J. RAY HINKLE.

Over the Horizon

HERE they come—the nucleus of an all-electric merchant marine. Yesterday, they were a dream. To-day, they are well over the horizon, linking the ports of the east and west coasts with fortnightly service. The goal of the Panama Pacific Line is to build three more turbine-electric ships, thus enabling weekly New York-Frisco sailings.

Even now, the three liners, California, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, constitute the largest fleet of turbine-electric commercial ships in the world.

Besides propelling these ships, electricity hoists freight, raises anchors, mans pumps, turns rudders, drives winches, and warps the vessels into their berths. It lights lamps, spins fans, operates elevators, cools and cooks food. Its magic touch is apparent on every deck.

The planning, production, and distribution of such equipment has been largely the responsibility of college-trained men who are working with General Electric and who have aided in bringing these ships over the horizon.

In The Library

By Miss Vera Herrick

These are busy and interesting days for the library. It seems especially popular to those who are taking new courses, such as that of story telling, literary appreciation, and Browning. The class in methods and observation will be glad to see in the near future the remaining volumes of the "Classroom Teacher" in the library.

On the magazine rack, too, will be found many articles enjoyable as well as useful.

For the busy reader the little magazine, called the "Reader's Digest," a collection of abridged articles from leading magazines, is valuable. Look in the February number and read, "Science in the Pursuit of Crime," "Sanctions of Peace," "Miracles at Malden," "Why Labor Fears Science," and "Big Changes Ahead."

Current History discusses some of the latest history of the world in the "Mexican Immigration Peril," "Spanish Political Turmoil," "A Month's History of Fifty Nations."

Read "Ten Years of Attempted Prohibition" in the "World's Work" and "Why Prisoners Revolt" in the February "Review of Reviews." This magazine also gives briefly, "Ten Leading Articles of the Month."

For the student of nature, there are two splendid magazines in "Nature Magazine" and "Nature and Science Review." Those who are looking forward to teaching will find, "The Nation's Schools," of interest. Read in the January number, "Combating the Problem of Too Many Teachers."

Let me emphasize the value of magazines with a clipping from a recent copy of the "Wilson Bulletin."

"Save, the magazines—let the books burn!"

Magazines have become so essential in all branches of research that the librarian of today might well give this order in case of fire.

The jealousy with which libraries are coming to guard their magazine files is shown by their reluctance to lend them to one another. Though a system of inter-library loans a library can usually borrow a needed book from some other city, but requests for magazine files are not encouraged. Stocks, bonds, and precious jewels may be entrusted to the mails, but not a bound magazine.

Libraries are also beginning to limit the use of magazine files within their own buildings. When it is discovered that entire classes are required to read a certain article that article is photographed or typewritten to save wear on the volume. Library assistants are being urged to look first in books and to use the magazines as a last resort. All of this is, of course to the end that these files may be preserved for future generations.

Nebraska Central Five Defeated in Slow Game By Score of 31 to 12

Gallant, Panther Captain, Tops Score Column; Reserves Hold Quakers.

The Panther basketball five won an uneven victory from the Nebraska Central aggregation on the evening of Feb. 6 by a score of 31 to 12.

Gallant, Panther captain, playing only a few minutes, was high point man with nine markers. For the visitors Wilson led with six points. Coach R. B. McCandless used two teams in the tilt with the Centralites and some new men first tasted college competition. The Quakers started the scoring when Wilson found the hoop. York's offense soon began to function and led the attack until the final whistle. Frequent substitutions were made by both teams and the game ended with the Panthers first five in the showers.

Midland Cops Scoring Spree From York Team By Last Minute Rally

Warriors Score 41 Points to Win; Krebs, Midland Ace, Is High Point Man.

A spirited Midland team retaliated after dragging behind York by 12 points early in the game on the home floor Saturday night and won the contest with the long end of a 41 to 31 score.

The Panthers got away to an early lead and apparently a successful start but the Midland cagers began a rally just before the half, which ended in York's favor 22 to 16. The game was fast and the basket was bombarded frequently. Hersey, York guard, was called from the floor early in the game with four personal fouls. Knolle, York forward, was forced to leave the game on account of injuries. Krebs, Midland forward, was high point man with sixteen counters, while Creech, of York, followed closely with fifteen. Nordstrom, Midland ace, was held to nine points, by the Panther guards, who presented a fine defense. Midland's offense consisted mainly of long shots and few set-ups were allowed.

PLAYLET IS PRESENTED

AT Y. W. C. A. MEETING

"Health" was the topic presented in the Y. W. C. A. meeting of February 4.

After the prelude by Helen Oliver and the scripture reading and prayer by Elma Van Housen, the play, "Tell It To Venus," was given under the direction of Alice Gilbert.

Ardith Hull, as Venus, descended from Mount Olympus to find new material for planning a health program for her goddesses. She was surprised and a little shocked at the modern ideas and ways. Under the direction of Wilhelmina Feemster and Alice Gilbert the Bathtub Twins, the Hobbies, Three Square Meals, the Exercise Twins, a Pleasant Job, a Business Man and His Secretary, and Eight Hours of Sleep, all demonstrated the health rules of a girl of 1930.

Venus finally departed for Mount Olympus with a variety of good ideas to put into practice in the clouds.

The little playlet was well given to an appreciative audience, after which Miss Callender closed the meeting with a prayer.
