HISTRIONIC CLUB ENDS SEASON WITH FARCICAL COMEDY

"Her Temporary Husband" Is Presented at York Theatre To Large Crowd.

The Histrionic club under the direction of Miss Alma Tress Lundman presented "Her Temporary Marriage," a three act farcical comedy, by Edward A. Paulton, at the York Theatre on the evening of May 19 before a large crowd. This was the last play for this season.

The plot of the play was ridiculous yet entertaining. If Blanche Ingram marries Clarence Topping, she will, by the terms of her father's will, lose a fortune. She therefore plots to marry another man who, if possible, is weak and sickly, and then when she becomes a widow she will marry Topping. She goes to a sanatorium to pick out the proper man, and Tom Burton, a disappointingly healthy young fellow, make up as the sort of man Blanche is looking for. The scheme works so well that Tom marries Blanche, and and keeps her permanently.

The heroine, Blanche Ingram, was charmingly and convincingly played by Edith Calvert Gridley.

William Gambell played the part of the affable Tom Burton just as cleverly as it should be played.

The humorous character of the play, Judd, was portrayed by Milan Lambert, who kept the audience convulsed with laughter.

Dr. Gordon Spenceh, a friend of Tom Burton, was enacted by Raymond Wochner, who gave a splendid and accurate portrayal of that role.

The part of the demure little nurse, Kate Tanner, was taken by Evelyn Dixon, who played that part with great ease and poise.

The action of the play took place in Highcliff Sanatorium and in Blanche Ingram's summer cottage. The time was the present.

Between acts several interesting specialties were given. After the first act Eveline Sandall read, "The Bank Account," a one-act play, by Howard Brock, while between the second and third acts Lois Overmiller, soprano, sang two solos, "The Hills of Dawn" by Oley Speaks, and (Continued on page 3)

GROUP MEETS AT K.C. COMBINED SCHOOL TO BE LOCATED AT YORK

Present Territory of York College to Make Total Payment of Debt.

The College Commission appointed by the Board of Education of the United Brethren church to study conditions at York College and at Kansas City University and make recommendations as to the future activities of the schools held its final meeting at Kansas City on Tuesday, May 26th. This commission voted to concentrate the educational work of the Southwest Bishop's area at York, Nebraska.

The important condition upon which this arrangement is to become effective is that the present territory of York College raise the debt of that institution and make complete payment of the same. No plans are being made for the continuance of Kansas City University under the present management.

This action when consummated will more than double the present constituency of York College. The contributory territory of the school now comprises Nebraska, Iowa, and Colorado. The states to be added when this plan is consummated are Kansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma. This plan centers at York the educational work of what is known as the Southwest Bishop's area of the United Brethren church and offers a very unusual opportunity to York College for future development and service. It is the purpose of the supporting denomination to make of York College a much stronger institution.

The Commission was composed of the superintendents of all the conferences of this area. They are as follows: Dr. W. L. Duncan, Des Moines, Ia.; Dr. Maurice Nichols, Denver, Colo.; Dr. F. M. Testerman, Lawrence, Kans.; Dr. C. V. Priddle, Wichita, Kans.; Dr. E. E. McAferty, Lawrence, Kans.; Dr. R. C. Trent, Enid, Okla., and A. P. Vannice, York. Bishop A. B. Statton of Kansas City, Mo., served as chairman of the Commission.

YE ALUMNI!

Welcome Alumni! We are more than glad as students of York College to welcome those who have gone before us from these college halls. We only hope that we may do as much for our alma mater when we finish as you have done.

We know that a school is known by her alumni, and may we be a credit to her! We pay honor to you, and hope you feel as much at home on York College campus as you did when you were here some time during your college years.

DAN CUPID'S ATTACK

Dan Cupid has worked havoc with our senior class. His arrows have been well timed and poisoned with an essence that evidently "took"! Two of the male members of the class have definitely been struck, as have two of the girls, and commencement week will see the culmination of Dan's attack. Two of the "mightier" sex have been captured during previous years, and so are not susceptible now.

Recently a magazine contained an article on divorce. In the course of the article the writer stated that divorces were rare among those who married as the result of college romances. The statistics given showed that the divorce rate was 1 out of every 22. It is a great deal higher than this ordinarily, so we say—Let Dan Cupid do his best on our campus, and cut down the divorce rate!—A Student.

CONGRATULATIONS

We wish to congratulate all those college students who have obtained positions for the next year, not only the seniors but those lower classmen who have secured teaching positions for next winter.

Among those in the three lower classes who intend to teach are: Marie Davis, Murray; Raymond Ronne, Lushton; Edna Friesen, Henderson; Viola Marble, York County; Bessie Beattie, York County; and Thelma Wells, Dry Valley.

We hope you have enjoyed your work here in York College and will find it possible for you to return in the near future to finish your college course.

Miss Emma Fye

THE GIRLS' FRIEND

I can't see that the modern girl has changed any from the girl of ten years ago, unless I have changed with the times. This statement was made by Miss Emma Fye, the dean of women at York college.

Miss Fye has worked with the college students and the young people of York for the past twelve years. She has had about five hundred different girls, including the summer school students, under her supervision at the dormitory during this time. She also comes in contact with the other students, both the girls and boys. She has had as many as forty-four girls at one time living at the dormitory. This semester there are twenty-eight young ladies. They are praised very highly by their Dean. She says, "I love the girls; there isn't anything that I wouldn't do for them, and I believe that they feel that way toward me."

She went on to explain that they had to have certain rules to govern the house. Some girls feel that these rules work a hardship on them, but most of them come to see that they are necessary. Recently she had received a letter from a graduate who mentioned the good times she had at York college, and incidentally, she remarked, I don't see how you ever managed all of us; I see now why we needed those rules.

As Dean of Women, she comes in the closest relationship with the lives of the girls while they are in college. Their problems are her problems. When they are ill she gives them sympathy and tender care and makes it as homelike for them as possible. The large family have their social hours together, a special feature being the Christmas party.

When the students come into the dining room, and smell the savory food that has been prepared for them, little do they think of how this was made ready for them. Miss Fye in her business-like way has charge of the cafeteria. Working under her supervision are the cook and a number of girls. Everything is done in a systematic way; each girl knows just what her part is, and is sure that it is done. Miss Fye says the girls do not shirk, each one does her share and then very soon the tasks are accomplished.

Miss Fye attends the general college functions, making a special effort to go to the games. Here again she is brought in contact with the social life of the young people.

Outside of her college duties, she takes a great interest in church work. She has not only worked with the college youth but she has been superintendent of the primary department of the college church for ten years. Because of her heavy schedule, she has given up the superintendency, but is still a member of the choir and music board.

In answer to the question, Do you hear from these girls after they leave, and how widely is your correspondence scattered? she gives the following account. During the Christmas holidays, I received over one hundred cards and letters from former "Con" girls. There were seventeen states represented. They were pretty well scattered in different parts of the United States. Some states she mentioned were California, Washington, Idaho, Colorado, New Mexico, New Hampshire, New York, Washington, D. C., Iowa, and others. She also received a card from Mexico.

Miss Fye remarked that the girls had always been considerate, but the last several years have been exceptional for the problems she has had to meet have been less trying. Her decision is the result of years of work with the girls. Some people necessarily base their opinion of youth upon mere hearsay, but a Dean of Women can certainly speak from experience. ### HAIL! HAIL! YORK!

Several weeks ago Miss Carol Rickard, of Kansas, who was visiting on the York College campus, did a kind deed for the college when she composed and presented a college song, "All Hail York." The song became very popular with the college students and has been learned as the official school song.

The words are as follows:
"On the hill of the rising sun
Is the college we hold so dear,
Rooted deep is our loyalty;
Grounded firm is our faith sincere.

Chorus:
"In our hearts will ever, ever be
Blue and white, a blessed memory.
Through the years our voices rise in praise to thee
So all hail York.

"Looking down on the busy town
Stands this college with aims so high
For the best in our work and sport
We are glad we can sound the cry.

Chorus:

ESTES PARK STUDENT CONFERENCE

Students from seven states in the Rocky Mountain area will meet at Estes Park, Colorado, for a conference on social, economic, and religious problems for ten days beginning June 8.

The program for this conference, which annually attracts approximately 400 students, will provide discussion on the most perplexing and interesting problems of American life. International cooperation and understanding, national political entanglements, prohibition, the interpretation of the world brought to us by modern physical science and psychology, and some of the aspects of our economic system will receive attention. For these discussions and addresses, men and women of wide experience and fame will be brought to the student conference.

In addition to the considerations of specific situations and problems of a very practical nature, it is planned to carry through the entire conference a series of addresses dealing with the meaning of religion in the world today.

This will involve open discussion on the sources of religion, the significance of Jesus, the place of the

Society

The Senior class was entertained at the home of Dean and Mrs. Chas. Bisset on the evening of May 20. The evening was spent in "playing school." Lessons in arithmetic, grammar, and alphabet study made the seniors think. At the close of the evening diplomas containing paper hat favors were presented to the diligent group of students in "Maple Grove" school. After the serving of refreshments the guests spent some time in singing songs before leaving for their homes.

Lois Overmiller and Neva Brookhart were honored by a miscellaneous shower and five o'clock tea given for them by Julia Wilson and Genevieve Rystrom at the home of the latter on May 16. The tables were decorated to represent May day with center pieces composed of a May pole. A miniature bride and groom were posed under the dainty May pole ribbons. Following the three-course luncheon the guests retired to another room. Vonda Mae Overmiller came to the door carrying two immense May baskets prettily trimmed in pink and white paper and filled with presents for the two brides-to-be.

The Junior class motored to Aurora on the evening of May 15 where they had a picnic. After the outdoor supper the group went to the park in the suburbs of Aurora where they spent the evening roller skating.

Hortense Pointer was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given by a group of college girls in the Conservatory parlors on the evening of May 25. Hortense is to be a fall bride. She is marrying Ual Hanshaw, a college senior. They will make their home in Valdes, Alaska, where Hanshaw is to teach in the government high school. Many useful gifts were received by the bride-to-be. The evening was spent in sewing tea towels.

Prof and Mrs. H. C. Feemster and Wilhelmina Feemster, editor-in-chief of the 1931 Marathon, gave a three-course dinner recently in honor of the Marathon board. The guests were seated at small tables decorated in an orchid and pink color scheme. Following the dinner the evening was spent in autographing the annual and playing games.

MEMBERS OF SENIOR CLASS GIVE PROGRAM

Trio Introduces New College Song by Rickard.

The Senior class gave a farewell program in chapel on the morning of May 20.

Homer Crosby presented the sermonette of the morning. He took as a text, "And Abraham went out, not knowing whither he was going." He stated:

"We are exceedingly happy because we are this near through college but mingled with this happiness is a streak of regret. Among our thoughts as we make this farewell appearance is the one that we are here for the last time as a part of the student body. If we ever speak or sing on this platform in the days to come Dean Bisset will introduce us as 'a friend I dare not say too much about, of the class of '31.'"

"Has college been worthwhile and to what extent? The answer to this must be found in the size of the margin between two words: Must and May. Must is the standard of the college. We must make 70 per cent. in grades. We must take certain courses. In the May division we find the averages 70 per cent. to 100 per cent. Work in this society, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., opportunities to be class officers, etc. are also in this margin."

Crosby closed his talk with a poem very fitting to the occasion.

Wilhelmina Feemster presented a reading, "Twelve Presents for a Colored Woman" which was followed by a trio consisting of Margaret Yust, Lois Overmiller and Ted Peterson, who sang, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and introduced the new college song, "All Hail York."

CHAPEL DEDICATION MADE TO GRADUATES

The members of the Junior class presented a chapel program on the morning of May 15 in the form of a farewell to the seniors to whom it was dedicated.

Leo Anderson in the deepest of announcer's tones gave a short talk on the power of wisdom. He quoted a line from one of Victor Hugo's novels in which he says, "The paradise of the rich is made out of the misery of the poor." Anderson made the statement that this was true in a lesser degree today due to education of intelligence which has brought about the power of wisdom.

Hortense Pointer spoke of the personalities one finds in a senior class, and asserted that many of the traits which accompanied these personalities should be left to remain in the halls of York College. Various members of the junior class were in-

Plan to Tour Three States for Students.

Ted Peterson, of York, Milan Lambert, of Bellaire, Kans., and Vicente Colon, of Porto Rico, are to make up the college trio which will do field work this summer in Iowa, Nebraska, and Colorado for York College.

This trio will give musical programs in many churches this summer in the cause of interesting young people in York College and bringing its contribution before the college constituency.

The group plans to leave on June 4 to attend the Colorado Sunday School and Christian Endeavor convention to be held during the second week of June in the Colorado mountains.

STUDENT RECITAL

An unusually large and appreciative audience attended the recital given by Lee Knolle, bass-baritone, and Robert Campbell, pianist, at the U. B. Church, Thursday evening, May 14th. The charm of Lee's beautiful voice was enhanced by excellent interpretation of his various numbers. He has poise and dramatic quality unusual in a student. The group of Sea Songs was especially well received by the audience.

Mr. Campbell's interesting groups were played with confidence and power. His tone is very good and his playing has dash and brilliance. The MacFayden "Octave Etude" was his most outstanding number.

All of the accompaniments were beautifully played by Milan Lambert.

SENIOR GIRLS GIVE FAREMELL PROGRAM

The annual program of the Y. W. C. A. was presented on Tuesday morning, May 12. An unusual feature was a beautiful pantomime, "The Holy City."

The prelude was played by Margaret Yust. Devotional exercises were led by Minnie Gebbers who gave an interesting talk on life foundations. She stated, "A spider in building her beautiful silky web first constructs a foundation for an effective creation. Christ is the true foundation of life. Y. W. C. A. brings to us a fuller knowledge and wider experience in Christ."

Wilhelmina Feemster gave a very interesting reading. Following this six young women, Margaret Yust, Bertha Lawson, Minnie Gebbers, Erma Thomas, Cordelia Aire, and Marie Anderson grouped to form a cross presented the pantomime while Lois Overmiller sang, "The Holy City."

NEAL GALLANT WINS N. C. A. C. GOLF CROWN

Moore and Gallant Defeat Hastings College for Team Honors.

The stellar golfers of York College, Neal Gallant and Orville Moore, carried the 1931 N. C. A. C. golf championship back to the Panther campus after defeating the Hastings team in the finals. All honors in this division went to York when Gallant won the individual cup from McMillan, of Hastings, playing the course in an 80 and a sizzling 78.

The Panthers won the 1929 cup and were runners-up in the 1930 tourney.

ASSOCIATIONS JOIN IN CLOSING MEETING

"Patriotism" Is Topic for Discussion.

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. held a joint meeting on the morning of May 26 as the last meeting of the year William Hice was the chairman of the morning. The topic for discussion was "Patriotism". Lee Knolle opened the program with two vocal solos, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and "Phosphorescence."

Russell Lewis, in presenting "A Man's Viewpoint on Peace," asserted that some form of education should be worked out which would lead the minds of the people of the world away from the thoughts of war. Such a plan of education would doubtless take a generation or more to become effective, he believes. Russell showed by quoting statistics that a greater part of the tax payer's dollar is used for the support of our army and navy, paying pensions to disabled soldiers, and paying post war debts. If this money which is now used for war purposes could be used for education, it would educate the people away from war and promote peace instead of the spirit of war which is promoted by the maintenance of an army and navy.

Jean Haner discussed "Peace

From a Woman's Standpoint." It is natural for women to be the enemies of war, she stated. "Women," she continued, "have responded to the challenge of prohibition, suffrage, and other important issues and now comes the subject of peace for them to consider." She, too, expressed her opinion that peace can be brought about by education, saying that "If hatred can be instilled into children, why can not love also be given them?" Patriotism, she believes, should be international in character rather than national. She closed with the challenging statement that "We owe it to the soldiers who have fought for our country to show our patriotism by taking up this problem of world peace and solving it so the future generations will not have to go to war."

The meeting was dismissed with prayer by President Overmiller.

FROSH BASKETBALL

The York College freshmen were victorious in the interclass tournament. The tournament followed the regular playing season and was held in the York College gymnasium.

In the first round of play the juniors defeated the sophomores 39 to 22 while the freshmen nipped the seniors 30 to 15. The end of the first half found the score 17 to 12 in favor of the freshmen but the seniors wined before the freshmen onslaught in the final chapter.

The final game pitted the frosh against the juniors whose cast contained three regulars; Captain Marvin Creech, Neal Gallant, and Lee Knolle. The game was hard fought all the way, the freshies emerging with the long end of a 27 to 15 verdict. The first year team had Orville Moore and Oren Jose at the forwards, and Robert Moline and Henry Franz took care of the guards' positions, with Harlan Muth at center.

During the regular playing season the freshmen did their part towards a successful basketball campaign. Three freshmen played enough time to win a letter, Muth playing at center, Jose at forward, and Moline at center. Muth scored 90 points, Jose had 26 counters, and Moline registered 20 points. Henry Franz played in a number of games and always displayed a good brand of floor play. Other promising freshman basketball players were: Orville Moore, Bernabe Herrera, Elacio Jarimillo, and Melvin Thompson.

The church-school lesson was, "Jonah the Narrow Religionist." After the lesson had been recited, the school assembled for dismissal, and the superintendent, desirous of finding how much the pupils had learned, asked the school, "Will someone tell us one disadvantage of Jonah's narrowness?"

There was a brief pause. Then a ten-year-old lad arose and stated confidently: "If Jonah hadn't been so narrow, he wouldn't have been swallowed by the whale."
