

YORK IS BENEFITTED BY GOVERNMENT AID FOR NEW STUDENTS

Federal Recognition of Problem of Unemployed Youth Is Basis of Action

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration, having recognized a major problem in their seven to nine million unemployed youth of college age, appropriated $7,000,000 which is to be distributed among the various colleges of America in order to make it possible for a certain number of students to attend this semester who would otherwise have been unable to do so for lack of finance.

The appropriation, which went into effect Feb. 1, will make it possible for approximately 15 new students at York College to earn their tuition at the rate of an average of $15 per month by being employed on campus projects. These projects include clerical, statistical, and stenographic positions as well as repairing and reconditioning of rooms in the various buildings. Beautifying the campus will also be included.

The number of students to be benefitted was determined by taking 10% of the enrollment as it was on Oct. 1, 1933. Both men and women are included. Students who have not been in college previously this year and students who were enrolled the first semester but not employed at some assignment regularly made by the college will qualify for this help.

Student Critic Is Elected by Pals

The PALS voted to renew a former practice of having a student critic at their meeting of February 20. The faculty critic will be retained and will give his report after the student critic has reported.

The society also decided that its name should be hereafter spelled in its entirety with capital letters in order that the origin of the name might not be forgotten.

The theme carried out in the program of the evening was consistent with the birthdays occurring in the month of February. Marian Hill sang "A Birthday," the words by Christina Rossetti, and the music by J. Huntington Woodman. A talk entitled "Tales of Washington" was given by Marion Shambaugh. Maj related "Stories of Lincoln." Leta Yost responded to the impromptu.

BROOKHART—PAYNE

Maurice Brookhart, '33, Nelson, and Miss Margaret Payne, ex-'33, Lushton, were united in marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Towle in this city on the evening of Feb. 9. Mrs. Towle is a cousin of the bride. Professor Warren Baller of York College read the marriage lines.

Miss Payne is the daughter of E. F. Payne of Lushton and grew to womanhood in that vicinity. She is a graduate of Lushton high school and attended York College three years. She is active in musical circles and for the past two years has taught in the rural schools of York county.

Brookhart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brookhart of Nelson. He graduated from Nelson high school and from York College with the class of '33. In college, he was a four-year letterman in football and track. He was active in musical and expression fields and was business manager of the Sandburr for a time. He is teaching near Nelson.

The Sandburr takes this means of offering congratulations as well as wishing them success and happiness.

FRATERNITIES TO BE SUPERVISED BY BOARD

An inter-fraternity board of control of eleven members to have jurisdiction over all University of Nebraska fraternities was established here recently by the board of Regents. Delegated to have full power over fraternities and organizations of like nature, the board will have the right to make rules and regulations governing the chapters of their members. This includes the right to discipline, to suspend a chapter from rushing, pledging, initiating, and holding social functions, or to close the chapter house, as the board may deem best.

Each fraternity of recognized standing at the University will elect an alumnus at least 25 years of age to represent that group on a body called the inter-fraternity alumni council. From the membership of the alumni council, the University senate committee on student organizations and social functions will select seven alumni of at least 30 years of age to serve on the inter-fraternity board of control. Two more members will be selected from within the University senate committee itself; while two will be elected by the undergraduate inter-fraternity council.

Forced into action chiefly by the depression and the financial condition of many of the fraternities, regents of the University moved to clear up the situation existing on the campus. Both fraternity men and members of the University faculty believe the step is a wise one, in view of economic conditions.

"The new board expects to help weakened fraternities in every possible manner and to promote a firm and stable organization in each house through the practice of sound financial policies," Claude Wilson, chairman of the newly-created control board, said.

University of Nebraska administrative officials feel that since the new board will be composed of fraternity men, problems will be handled in the interest of the fraternities, leaving no cause for fear on the part of organized houses. Viewing the idea from a practical standpoint, prominent fraternity men believe that Greek societies on the campus are too numerous at present, and supervision will permit those that remain to choose more carefully the men who are to be pledged.

Speaks at College Chapel on Maintaining the Spiritual Part of Our Lives

Bishop Ira D. Warner of the Pacific Coast district of the United Brethren Church has conducted a series of Evangelistic services at the York United Brethren Church throughout the past week and will continue until March 1.

He addressed the student body at the regular chapel services on Feb. 19, 20, 22 and 23. The topics used by the Bishop at the church services included: "Christ and Him Crucified," "The Moral Crisis," "An NRA for the Churches," "When the Song of the Lord Began," "The Skull and the Crossbones," "A New Sphere of Living." Bishop Warner emphasizes the failure of our religion to progress side by side with science. He provides a most stimulating challenge to young folk in the establishment of religious ideals, in relations with God, in relations with society, and in the living of a useful and creative life.

"If you have failed to attend the meetings, you are missing a valuable opportunity to broaden your religious thinking, a vital part of every individual's life," stated one of the seniors.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS TO CONVENE AT MIDLAND

Students of Nebraska Colleges and Universities will gather at Midland College, in Fremont, February 23, 24, 25, for the annual Nebraska State Conference of the Student Christian Associations. The general problem of the group will be that of relating the technique for taking hold of the personal and community tasks that confront the young people of today.

Sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. of Nebraska, the conference will include alumni and present members of other Student Christian Associations such as Church Young People's Groups and members of the Student Volunteer Movement. Midland College will be hosts to the delegates this year.

The principle leader of the conference is to be Dr. Harold C. Case, of Topeka, Kansas, one of the outstanding ministers of the middle west and favorite among college students. He was perhaps the most popular leader at the Student Summer Conference at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

Another leader of note and immensely popular among students is Miss Stella Scurlock, National Secretary of the Rocky Mountain district of Y. W. C. A. whose headquarters are in Kansas City. Others include, C. D. Hayes, Nebraska University Y. M. C. A. secretary, and Bernice Miller, Y. W. C. A. secretary at the University of Nebraska.

"LET'S DO OUR PART"

We called attention in the last issue of the Sandburr to the unfortunate circumstance of students carelessly taking "short cuts" across the campus. Since that time our attention has been directed to the "cutting" being done in East Hill Park. Last year gravel walks were constructed across the park at the cost of a good deal of time and expense. It is realized that the walks are not perfect but they are an improvement and will continue to improve if they are adhered to more strictly. Hoping to have the old footpaths become a blue grass sod, the York City Park Board has appealed to us to cooperate with them by following the gravel in order to add to the beauty of the park by eliminating the paths at the edge of the walks. Let's each of us individually do our part in assisting the city board in this matter.

BISHOP WARNER

The coming of Bishop Ira D. Warner to our campus brings to us a very striking personality. Tall, muscular, middle-aged, he speaks in a commanding, dramatic fashion that penetrates the very depth of the individual. In spite of the fact that Mrs. Warner is seriously ill at their home in Portland, he has seen fit to bring the word of God to us at her request that he fulfill his intended stay here.

Do not miss any more of Bishop Warner's meetings than is necessary. Here is an opportunity to broaden your religious thinking. In this age of science, religion has been permitted to bring up the rear in many ways. When we realize that we spend so short a time on this earth, we should be eager to better acquaint ourselves with the teachings of Him who holds sway over our future destinies. We cannot allow our religious life to take a back seat. Make the most of this opportunity and learn more of the power of Christianity by attending the evangelistic services.

—Y. C.—

GETTING UP IN THE MORNING

"Oh, it's nice to get up in the morning,
But it's nicer to lie in bed."

Preachers and bards, great men and near great men have told us of the pleasure and profit to be gained by getting up early in the morning but still the vast majority of us find a singular delight in lying in bed. It seems strange that with all this good advice and our own experience on those occasions when we have had to get out early to corroborate it we still like to lie in bed.

Just why sleep at the last end of the night should be so much more desirable than is that at the first end is another mystery, for isn't it usually the people who stay up late at night, seemingly with not the least fondness for sleep, who are the ones who cling most tenaciously to those last few blissful moments after the alarm has screamed its unwelcome warning that it is time to arise.

'Tis said that getting up is merely a matter of habit and that if we make it a habit to jump right out of bed at the first sound of the alarm it will not be as hard as if we continue to lie there wishing it didn't have to be done. Personally, we are not sure that it could be made a habit. We've never tried it to see.

A great many of us are given to making good resolutions to the effect that we are going to get up early every morning and get our work out of the way before noon. A certain coed made such a resolution not long ago after having heard one of her professors say that he was often up and at work at his desk by five o'clock in the morning. The coed, having a sincere admiration for the professor, determined to do likewise. That night she set the alarm for five o'clock, honestly intending to get up when it rang. But five o'clock came and the alarm jangled raucously but with no very promising effect. The girl opened one eye, turned on the light and seeing that it was five o'clock decided that was too early to get up. The professor must have retired earlier than she did to be able to get up at such an unearthly hour, she thought. Besides, the house would be cold and the rest of the family wouldn't be up for another hour and a half, so why should she get up. Fifty-three would be a much more suitable hour, she determined, and promptly went back to sleep, awakening again at ten minutes past seven, just in time to get a hasty bite of breakfast and dash to a seven-thirty class. Similar experiences on ensuing mornings weakened the good resolution and it was soon forgotten. Cold rooms, icy floors, and late hours have a tendency to play havoc with good resolutions.

It is said that some great men claim that their success has been due to their habits of getting up and getting an early start at their work in the mornings. Probably they are right, and possibly that accounts for the fact that we have so few really great men in the world.

GOOD TASTE

The mention of an expression suggests different things to different people. To a girl, good taste may mean a knowledge of the spectrum and its use in choosing a wardrobe. To a woman with social ambitions, good taste may suggest a table set according to the rules and regulations of Emily Post. To a college boy, it may mean a battered hat or autographed jacket that is just in bad enough taste to be in good taste. However, the term, good taste, has far greater significance than these examples might cause a person to believe.

The word, taste, in its true meaning refers to the tongue. Our sense of taste is intended to aid us in the choice of food to consume. By its use, we are able to select the foods which are best for us and which consequently will do us the most good. The colloquial expression, good taste, has a similar function.

Good taste, if we carefully consider it, really means the choice of good things and the rejection of the bad. Like the tongue, it selects the things which will do our minds, our ideals and our personalities the most good. Although a man in poor circumstances may have little choice in regard to food, the benefits derived from the use of good taste in his religion and philosophy of life may be far greater than those of a prejudiced and biased millionaire. It may help him also in a material way, for people judge others by their choice of things to have about them.

In one respect, the sense of taste of the tongue is abler than that of the mind. If a person consumes food which will do him harm, he usually finds that nature reverses the process of consumption and rectifies the error. On the other hand, good taste is far from being automatic. Indeed, a person has a natural tendency to absorb things which are poor and mediocre. The effects of poor choice of friends and literature are difficult to erase. Good taste must be exercised and cultivated if it is to become efficient. It is this development that education is intended to bring about.

Good taste chooses food for our minds that will keep them sound and active. If a person neglects good taste, he allows his mind to become lazy and to drift along in the sluggish streams of public opinion and self satisfaction. Life is so short that no one can afford to choose anything but the best in literature, friends and an outlook on life. It is good taste that determines the culture and personality of the individual, the civilization of a race, and the value of life, itself.

WHY "CON" LIFE AND ITS MEALS ARE INTERESTING

Oh Dear! Is that the 6:30 bell? Oh shut that alarm off, won't you? Boo! Wonder why the heat doesn't come on.

You usually hear such things as these if you are in the "Con" on any school morning. Then the rush begins; you hear squealing, giggling, groaning, and sometimes a sad attempt at singing.

When you go in to breakfast, all look so downcast as if they had never heard of a rule of being in bed by 10:30. If we were all on time to breakfast, perhaps everything would taste fine; but since we go in about five minutes late, the toast is cold. But oh, how good it tastes!

When noon rolls around, you would eat anything set before you, even beans and spinach. When the meal is over, all feel as if they have time to recuperate, so they rush out into the sunshine and rest from the morning's trying experiences. Some Freshmen even sail forth with out the dearly beloved trade mark, the cap.

Finally when supper time comes, you are again hungry because you have toiled and slaved away a whole afternoon, so you again set down thinking you would and could eat beans and spinach again.

The Reception room is the popular place after supper. There are the chairs, davenport, and the piano to hold the attention of everyone. If you happen to look out in the hall, you might see some young swain ringing a girl's ring or else a girl trying to persuade Miss Fye that a late bone would really be the best thing that could happen. Perhaps she will get it and maybe she won't. Probably not.

So goes the life of a "Con" girl.

EULOGY ON THE DOG

The late Senator George G. Vest of Missouri, in a court action to recover damages for the wanton killing of a neighbor's dog, made the following speech to the jury. The suit was for $200 damages but following this appeal, the jury, after two minutes' deliberation, found for the plaintiff and assessed the damages at $500.

"Gentlemen of the Jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son and daughter that he has reared with loving care may become ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him when he may need it most. Man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees and do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The absolutely unselfish friend a man may have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him; the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog."

A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince.

When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches takes wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast into the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes, and death takes his master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws and his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death."

WORRY? OR PRAY?

"Worry? Why Worry? What can worry do?"

It never keeps a trouble from overtaking you.

It gives you indigestion and wakeful hours at night,

And fills with gloom the days, however fair and bright.

It puts a frown upon the face and sharpness in the tone,

We're unfit to live with others and unfit to live alone.

Worry? Why worry? What can worry do?

It never keeps a trouble from overtaking you.

Pray? Why Pray? What can praying do?

Praying really changes things, arranges life anew,

It's good for your digestion, gives peaceful sleep at night,

And fills the grayest, gloomiest day with rays of glowing light.

It puts a smile upon your face, the love-note in your tone,

Makes you fit to live with others and fit to live alone.

Pray? Why Pray? What can praying do?

It brings God down from Heaven to live and work with you."

Yankton College men have expressed their disapproval of a new faculty ruling that dates were to be allowed only on Wednesday evenings and on week-ends and that the girl's dormitory be picketed to prevent any dates. The faculty's reason for the rule was that it was a preventative directed against a measles epidemic which had swept the boys' dormitory recently. The question that was aroused in the minds of the students was "What becomes of the measles bacteria on Wednesdays and week-ends?"

Dana College recently formed a pep club known as "The Norsemen." In purpose it corresponds to the York College Panther Club.

Norman Goodbrod, who is at the head of the piano and theory department of Midland college at Fremont, Nebr., has departed for Chicago and Evanston, Illinois. Mr. Goodbrod has been granted a leave of absence and will devote this semester and summer to doing graduate study at Northwestern university.

The recently appointed editor-in-chief of The Midland, student newspaper at Midland college, Glandine Johnson, Fremont, senior, has gained the honor of holding this position at two colleges. Miss Johnson was editor-in-chief of The Owl, student newspaper, at Doane college, Crete, in 1931-32. She has been managing editor of the Midland paper for the last three semesters and now replaces Fred Davis, Fremont; resigned Gretchen Roberts, Valley, will take Miss Johnson's place as associate editor. Miss Johnson is only the second coed in Midland's history to be editor of the school newspaper.

The Etude, nationally circulated music magazine, published in its February issue an article by Rupert M. Goodbrod, piano instructor at Midland college, which depicts his efforts toward maintaining classical music in preference to jazz. Goodbrod is a graduate of York High School. The article reads thus:

"One of the most serious problems which confronts the average piano teacher of today is carrying his or her pupils safely through the so-called 'jazz-craze,' and converting them to classical music."

"The very first warning I had that jazz was beginning to take hold of some of my best students was one day when one of them said to me, 'How long do you think it will be before I have technique enough to play jazz music?' I said to her, 'Surely that is not your reason for studying music, is it?' She then assured me that she was tired of classical music and that it was now her sole ambition to become a good jazz player."

"When I questioned others of my students—some even of outstanding talent—and they informed me they were taking lessons in order to play jazz music, I decided I must take immediate action. In all cases the pupils were either sophomores or juniors in high school. At this age young people are very notional and like to make their own decisions; so I set about to devise a plan whereby they would choose to select classical music for themselves rather than jazz music. At this age they are quite plastic and I knew that if I could convert them to classical music now, that love would dominate throughout the rest of their lives."

"I decided to select pieces for my pupils that had rather suggestive dance rhythms and content, such as light jazz novelties. I gave them such pieces as 'Nola', 'Puba Dance', 'Doll Dance,' and 'Flapperette'. They eagerly responded to these pieces. I thought that by giving them a taste of this type of music they would soon see the comparison between jazz and classical music. And I knew if I refused to give them jazz they would probably discontinue lessons with me and go to some 'jazz teacher.' Then my purpose would be defeated."

"I now started to devote half of the music period to lecture and still kept them working on light jazz pieces, hoping so to dose them with jazz music that a dislike would be created for it. In my lecture I stressed and illustrated how jazz rhythms were not new to music but that they had actually been taken from classical music. I also illustrated how many motives and themes of popular pieces lasted for only a few months while classical music had remained supreme throughout all ages."

"I still continued to keep them on the light works, and soon two of my pupils complained that they were getting tired of the same old rhythms; but I still made them keep on; in fact, I overdosed them until they were tired of jazz."

"When I thought their desire for jazz music was completely fed, I brought them back to the classical things again. They seemed content now to work on classical music and started with renewed vigor. I did not lose one of these pupils and I felt that I had accomplished a real service for classical music and for the pupils themselves."

A list of pieces that bridge the gap between jazz and classical music is here given: Spring in Spain, Hipsher; Confetti, Media; Dance of the Rosebuds, Keats; Garden of Roses, Ritter; In a Rose Garden, Ewing; Fete Rustique, Martin; Strutting Out, Ritter; Patter without Chatter, Blanco; Jazz Scherzo, Kuion; Whitemania, Cadman; Red Leaves, Aucliffe; Mio Carita, Groton; La Cascada de Perlas, Parks; Sleepy Hollow Tune, Kountz-Felton; A Garden Party, Benson; Moonlight Revels, Andre; A Breath of Lavender, Preston; Wing Foo, Burleigh; Salute to the Colors, Anthony; Mirror Dance, Felton; Haunting Memories, Peery; Springtime in Chinatown, Renton; Moonlight in the Patio, Sawyer."

J. Speece Cops the High Scoring Honors; Seconds Win by 20-12 Score

York College grabbed a pair of victories at the expense of Nebraska Central on the Quakers' court on the evening of Feb. 12. The outfit representing the varsity won 22-17 while the reserves copped a 20-12 win.

With Hebron to be dealt with on the following night, Coach Ordway left his starting five, Moline, Thomas, Graham, Franz, and Adams, at home and played a reserve outfit against the Centralites. In the second team game, York had little trouble winning, holding a 10-0 lead at the half.

The main event was close all the way. The score read 8-8 at the half. Jim Speece copped high scoring honors with 7 markers. H. Riggs, Walt Speece, and Vipperman each copped 5.

Those who made the trip for the two games included: J. Speece, W. Speece, Green, H. Riggs, M. Riggs, Walters, Schoenthal, Liedtke, L. Thompson, Sittler.

Hebron Outclasses York to 35-25 Tune

Hebron College outplayed and outought the York cage team in a game at the York gym on Feb. 13. The boys from down south grabbed an early lead and then proceeded to maneuver themselves in a manner with which the Panther outfit drably attempted to cope. "Flat-footeditis" in the York ranks cost heavily as they failed to follow-in their shots. Hebron held a 19-8 advantage at the half.

Jack Graham proved the one shining star of the Panthers, garnering 10 points to capture high honors for the game. The Hebronites presented an evenly scoring outfit. Paysen with 7 counters led their attack.

WESLEYAN DEFEATS PANTHERS 45 TO 30

Reserves Down York All-Stars in Preliminary Game

The York College Basketeers displayed a much improved outfit in their game with Nebraska Wesleyan on the evening of February 9 but were unable to cope with the Plainsmen who were literally "burning up" in their ability to hit the hoop, and lost by a score of 45-30 in a game played at the York gym.

The accuracy of the Wesleyan sharpshooters is in evidence when it is pointed out that they dropped their first nine attempts at the basket through the netting. York exhibited a marked increase of speed and floor play over their Doane fray. However, the Shuman twins, Bailey, and Barrett, seldom missed when they fired the ball in the general direction of the basket and it was just too bad for the Panthers.

Barrett, Plainsman forward, copped high scoring honors for the evening with 10 points. Thomas, York, was but a step behind with 9. Ron Shuman and Bailey, Wesleyan, each garnered 8.

Franz' play at guard featured the York defense. This game found a new shake-up in the line-up of the Panthers. Moline was shifted from guard to center. Adams was placed at guard, and Jack Graham occupied the other forward position. The Panthers played with but one substitution while the Plainsmen alternated line-ups.

Billy Thomas, by virtue of his collecting 9 points, now rests at the top of the scorers in the N. C. A. C.

RESERVES VICTORIOUS
The York College Reserves defeated the Benedict town team by a score of 41 to 31 in a fast game played at the college gym on the evening of Feb. 19. York grabbed the lead in the middle of the first half and never relinquished it, leading 17-11 at the intermission.

Midway in the second half, Benedict drew up to within 2 points of the reserve outfit who immediately spurred to salt away the ball game. Frickey of Benedict led the scorers with 16 points. Jim Speece led the York attack with 12 counters. Riggs scored 10.

Games This Week
Conference: Midland at Wesleyan, Tuesday; Friday, Wesleyan at Doane, York at Hastings.

Midland is breathing somewhat easier at present but their highly rated cage team all but suffered a nervous collapse as they barely nosed out the Doane Tigers in a sensational finish by a 25-23 count last Friday night at Crete. Doane seemed destined for an almost certain victory until in the closing moments of the game when the Warriors spurred and eked out a victory as Kounovsky sank a field goal in the last 10 seconds of play.

The only other conference tilt of the week ended as dramatically as did the above-mentioned fray. In this contest the Hastings Bronchos bumped Wesleyan thus definitely placing the Midland array at the top of the heap in what has been a mad scramble during the past two weeks. As in the other game, this one was won in the last few seconds as Martin sank the winning basket to down the Plainsmen 35-33.

The N. C. A. C. dropped three out of four contests in non-conference play. Omaha Uni drubbed Wesleyan 55-26. York sent their reserves to Nebraska Central and copped a 22-17 victory. Hebron bumped the York varsity 35-25 and Dana grabbed a 50-41 win from the Panthers.

PANTHERS DROP FAST TILT TO DANA VIKINGS

The York College Panthers exhibited a much improved combination when they dropped a 50-41 decision to the Vikings of Dana College on the Panther court on the evening of Feb. 16. Swinging into the final period in a burst of speed and basket-accuracy, Moline, Thomas, Schoenthal, and Adams seemed destined to close the gap opened by their opponents in the first few minutes of play.

Despite the best efforts of the Panthers, two Vikings in the persons of Pederson and J. Hancock, kept their team out in front by gathering 34 points between them.

Dana got away to a 9-point lead before York tallied. The Panthers then began to find the basket and were trailing only 5 points at the half which read 21-16. Shortly before the half York drew up to within 3 points of their opponents.

Moline played his best game of the year, copping 14 points and exhibiting a lot more speed than in previous games. Thomas led the York scorers with 15 markers. Schoenthal grabbed a couple of baskets in the midst of York's rally and Adams did some good work at guard in addition to making 8 points.

J. Hancock of Dana grabbed the scoring laurels for the evening with 19 points. Pederson of Dana tied with Thomas of York for second place with 15. Moline was but a jump behind in third place with 14.
