YORK DEBATERS IN STATE TOURNAMENT AT HASTINGS, NEBR.

Are Represented by Two Men's Teams and Also in Oratorical Peace Contest

York college will be represented by two debate teams, both men's, and also in the Inter-collegiate Peace Oratorical contest which will be held in conjunction with the Nebraska Debate tournament at Hastings college on March 8, 9, 10.

The A team chosen is composed of Irvin Lewis, Aurora, and William Hice, York. The B team representatives are Russel Lewis, Aurora, and Levi Johnson, York. Alternates for the B team who will make the trip include Robert Hawley, and Marvin Hess.

Levi Johnson will be the York college entrant in the Inter-collegiate Peace Oratorical contest. Mr. Johnson won the right to compete at Hastings by virtue of his winning an elimination contest held by the local forensic association last week. His oration was entitled "Ghosts of a Valiant War". Ralph Sittler and Lawrence McClun competed with Johnson in the local contest.

The tournament, sponsored by the Nebraska College Forensic association, will occupy three days, and will include individual contests in oratory and extemporaneous speaking, and debate for both men's and women's teams.

The association includes all schools in both the Nebraska College Athletic Conference and the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic association. About seventy-five speakers are expected to participate.

Inaugurated this year will be a class B tournament for all the schools desiring to enter more than one team in the meet. LeRoy Laase, debate coach at Hastings college, is making the arrangements for the tourney.

HASTINGS RELAYS TO BE HELD ON APRIL 14

Colleges and High Schools Are Being Invited to Meet

Hastings college announces the running of the eighth annual Relay Carnival for April 14. The event is expected to bring several hundred athletes to the Hastings college athletic field. The Hastings meet has become one of the most popular meets of this section of the country. Invitations have been sent out to Nebraska high schools and to colleges in Nebraska and outstate.

C. C. Keel, Hastings college athletic director and director of the games, believes that the contests this year will draw a field capable of providing strong competition for the Pittsburgh, Kansas, Teachers, who during the past two years have made virtually a clean sweep of the meet.

Two strong southwestern teams, the Abilene Christian college, of Abilene, Texas, and Oklahoma Baptist University have indicated special interest in the Nebraska carnival. These two schools are credited with producing some of the strongest relay teams in midwestern college circles each year.

Students Secure Teaching Positions

Miss Vivian Klone, Waco, and Miss Dorothy Brooke, York, both York college students, have secured positions to teach in rural schools of York county next year. Miss Klone will teach near Waco while Miss Brooke will teach District 75 near York.

DAILY CHRISTIANITY SUBJECT OF Y. W. C. A.

Students Present Views in Series of Talks

"Christianity in the Everyday Things of Life" was the general theme for a series of five talks in Y. W. C. A. at the regular meeting on February 27.

"What should be the Christian's attitude toward gossip?" asked Ella Larsen. "There is no purpose to gossip. It is only destructive criticism," she said. "Courtesy in speech should be practiced in speaking of others."

The attitude which should be taken toward daily tasks was outlined by Neva Fellman. "To obey our conscience is a paramount duty," said Miss Fellman. She continued, "We should remember that we get out of our work what we put into it."

In discussing the Christian attitude toward social service and missionary work, Lucile Evans brought out the fact that there is work to be done at home and abroad in these lines. "If we do things out of the love of our hearts, the reward will be greater," she said.

"A Christian's conversation should be free from idle words," said Edith Lawson.

Marian Hill talked of the Christian's attitude toward recreation. "The difference between our lives and Christ's," she said, "is in the way in which we use our capacities."

Ruth Spore read the scripture from Proverbs concerning an ideal woman. Viola Wimmer led group singing.

PALS FEATURED BY AN NRA DISCUSSION

Freshman Quartette Renders Special Numbers

A panel discussion of the N. R. A. was the feature of the PALS program of March 6. Robert Oliver presented the farmer's viewpoint including ideas on the wheat, corn, and hog programs. The industrialist view was given by Lenora Norfleet who stated that the problem of price fixing and production control were the main ones confronting the administration. Raymond Wochner in stating the stand of the unemployed mentioned the problem of keeping the C. W. A. workers at work over a long period.

SPRING SPORTS PROGRAM IS DISCUSSED

Tennis, Track, Spring Football and Baseball Considered

The spring sports program at York college was discussed in a meeting of the men called by Coach Guy Ordway on the morning of March 7. The athletic mentor outlined the possible alternatives for the various sports and then asked for an expression of the wishes of the group by ballot.

Tennis, Track, Spring Football, Gymnastics and Wrestling, and Baseball were all mentioned. Campus comment seems to center on baseball. Track is also being pushed to the front. Possibilities for at least an eight-game baseball schedule and a whirl in the conference track meet at Hastings has incited special interest in these two sports. Tennis has a lesser group of followers but is gaining in popularity.

York College Even in Pair of Debates With Nebr. Central

Negative Team Winner at Home While Affirmative Loses at Central City

The York college negative debate team won a 3-0 decision over the Nebraska Central affirmative team in a debate at the York college chapel on Monday evening, March 5. Irvin Lewis, Aurora, and William Hice, York, composed the membership of the York team. Marie Christensen and Gerald Grosvenor were the Nebraska Central participants.

Miss Alma Tress Lundman, head of the York College Expression department, acted as chairman. The judges were composed of Miss Lurline Lee, dramatics instructor at York High School; Dr. Oliver M. Keve, pastor of the York Methodist church, and John Dougherty, York attorney.

The question at controversy was "Resolved, that the powers of the President of the United States should be substantially increased as a settled policy."

A negative team composed of Russel Lewis, Aurora, and Levi Johnson, York, lost a decision to a Nebr. Central negative team in a contest at Central City on the evening of March 6.

A third debate to be held with Nebraska Central is to be held at Aurora some time next week.

TUITION SCHOLARSHIPS FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

Establishment of 17 tuition scholarships for graduate students at the University of Nebraska and a decision to remit all fees for graduate scholars, fellows and assistants were among the items of business recently approved, by the board of regents of the institution. The two moves are effective next September and will affect 106 or more graduate students.

In remitting fees for graduate scholars, fellows, and assistants, of which there are 89 this year, the board will return on September 1 to its former policy along this line. Prior to the current year such fees had been remitted. These persons also receive a certain stipend for services rendered.

In establishing graduate tuition scholarships, the university regents made it possible for graduates of Nebraska colleges and universities to continue their work with the least possible expense. Under the general plan, details of which have not been worked out, one tuition scholarship, good for one year, will be offered to a senior of high rank in each of the colleges and universities in Nebraska, the individual probably to be selected by the school, dependent upon certain definite requirements as to high scholarship, prerequisite courses, etc. The plan would affect 17 Nebraska colleges that offer a bachelor's degree.

In addition to these graduate scholarships, the University of Nebraska plans to continue next year its plan of scholarships established by friends of the institution, making available to graduate students a wide range of assistance and cooperation.

"Y" CLUB INITIATES SIX NEW MEMBERS

Tenderfeet Receive Official Recognition of Group

The York College "Y" club held its annual mid-year initiation on the evening of March 7 at the Y. C. gym. Six new men were ceremoniously taken into the organization. They included: Virgil Walker, Agra, Kansas; Melvin Tack, Harlan, Kansas; Howard May, York; Billy Thomas, Seward; Floyd Merchant, Bradshaw; and Everett Green, Polk. The first five received their first Y's in football during the last campaign while Green received his as student manager.

The initiation committee, composed of Lyndle Moore, Robert Graham, and Arthur Amadon, prepared a typical "Y" initiation program which was carried out to the Nth degree.

Following the program, a committee composed of Milton Maurer and Cecil Smith served refreshments consisting of coffee, rolls, and apples.

Orders were taken for medallions, life-passes for York college athletics, by Bud Franz, president. These entitle every man who has earned a "Y" to a free ticket to all York college athletic activities.

(For a more vivid account of the ceremonies of the initiation, see the inside of this paper).

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Bishop Warner Is the Speaker at Ceremony

The new officers of the Y. M. C. A. were officially installed at the meeting of February 27. Bishop Ira Warner delivered the principal address which was directed especially for the ceremony. Russel Lewis, retiring president, presided at the meeting and conducted the installation.

The new officers who were inducted were: James Speece, York, president; Lyndle Moore, Aurora, vice-president; Howard Caldwell, Ponce, Porto Rico, secretary; Dave Ender, York, treasurer; and Professor Chris Keim, faculty sponsor.

The newly appointed cabinet members who were officially recognized included: Irvin Lewis, Aurora, publicity chairman; Jack Graham, York, social chairman; Russel Smith, Van Nuys, California, devotional chairman; Milton Maurer, York, May Day fete chairman; and Ormal Tack, Harlan, Kansas, program chairman.

The first meeting with the new executives in power was featured by a talk by Dr. R. E. Harry concerning our health habits.

SOPHS ELECT TWO NEW OFFICERS FOR VACANCIES

The Sophomore class elected two new officers recently to fill vacancies caused by the resignation of Chris Gjerloff who has discontinued his studies at York college, and of Lucile Evans.

Ella Larsen, Stickney, South Dakota, was elected vice-president succeeding Gjerloff. Melba Manning, York, filled Miss Evans' place as secretary-treasurer.

—Y. C.—

ELECTED OFFICERS

NEW OFFICERS AND CABINET INSTALLED AT Y.W.C.A. BANQUET

Program Featured by Toast List Built Around Keyword of "Eastertide"

The Y. W. C. A. held its annual banquet in the United Brethren church parlors on Friday evening, March 2, with a goodly number of college women in attendance. The event was sponsored in honor of the newly elected officers and cabinet members who were formally installed in their new offices.

The program of the evening was featured by a toast list built about the keyword "Eastertide." Marian Hill, retiring president, acted as toastmistress for the occasion. The program was as follows: E-ulogy, toast by Ruth Spore; A-spiration, toast by Miss Anna Thompson, sponsor; S-pring, solo by Irene Hofgard accompanied by Lila Elam; T-riumph, toast by Lucile Evans; E-aster, reading by Jean Hanna; R-ing, toast by Evelyn Dixon; T-rills vocal trio composed of Evelyn McKain, Jane Caldwell, and Irene Hofgard; I-t, toast by Alice Rodd; D-evotion, toast by Mrs. Frances Kimball; and E-njoyment, featuring group singing led by Jane Caldwell with Marian Hill as accompanist.

The following new officers were installed: Ruth Spore, York, president; Irene Thompson, York, vice-president; Beverly Hennings, Stromsburg, secretary; Lucile Evans, Aurora, treasurer; Miss Anna Thompson, sponsor; Mrs. J. R. Overmiller, church sponsor. The new cabinet which was also installed at this time included: Lucille Westwood, York, social chairman; Geraldine Johnson, Colorado, program chairman; Neva Fellman, Pipestone, Minn., student council representative; Roberta James, York, publicity chairman; Mrs. Frances Kimball, York, Estes Park chairman; Melba Manning, York, social service chairman; Veryl Burch, Merna, World Fellowship chairman.

The committee who prepared for the banquet were as follows: Program, Irene Thompson, chairman; Lenora Norfleet; Fern Carson; and Miss Alma Tress Lundman. Decorations, Valda Martin, chairman; Ose Neff; Dorothy Miracle; Wilm a Karre; Alice Huenefeld; and Miss Edith Callender. Food, Edith Lawson, chairman; Viola Wimmer; Frances Kimball; and Miss Mary Alice Slee. Advertising and Tickets, Marion Shambaugh, chairman; Lucille Westwood; Alice Rodd; and Miss Zelda Wakelin.

—Y. C.—

Ruth Spore, the new president of the Y. W. C. A., outlined briefly the work for the coming weeks at the meeting of March 6. The Y. W. will base their plans on the general topic "Life Principles of a College Woman." Among the program topics will be "Reading Materials", "Home Life", "Development of Aesthetic Sense", "Devotional Life", "Social Standards", "Choice of a Profession", "Use of Leisure Time", "Choice of Friends."

Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM IS OUTLINED AT MEETING

"Eternal things are not those which can be seen or felt. They must come from within. That which you are is the real, vital thing," said Fern Carson in speaking to the Y. W. following the president's remarks. Miss Carson continued, "Industry, self-control, and culture are the eternal things that you should get from college."

INFLUENCING CHILDREN

Did you ever stop to think of the possibility that you may be the idol of some child of your neighborhood—an idol in that your actions, your speech, and your general habits are exerting a powerful influence upon the ideals, habits, and attitudes being built up in some child's philosophy.

But a moment's consideration is necessary to recall some individual who you idolized in your childhood days. You recall using his slang, combing your hair as he did, attempting to walk in the same manner as he, etc. Is there not a challenge here in our conduct toward younger folk and in the presence of younger folk?

We recognize the ease with which a child can be directed in his line of thought. This is all the more reason why we should give this problem no little attention. You may be the hero of a small boy or a small girl. As he meets you on the street, he may be praying for a slight token of recognition from you. A kind word, a smile may work wonders upon that child's particular conduct within the next half hour.

It is impossible to grasp but very little of what a child is thinking. It is equally impossible to distinguish how he may associate some act of yours with something entirely different in his own life. An editorial in a recent issue of the York Daily News-Times emphasizes how irregular an apparently well-balanced youngster may conduct himself. The editorial reads thus:

"The $800,000 fire which destroyed the Illinois state arsenal at Springfield, the state capital, a few weeks ago, was all the work of a 10-year old boy who liked to see the flames.

"It was the governor of Illinois himself who verified this amazing fact. The youngster readily confessed everything. He told how he had set the blaze, had scampered home to read a school textbook entitled—of all things—"Good Citizenship," and then had returned to watch the disastrous conflagration he had caused.

"As soon as he had made this bizarre confession, the lad was lodged in a detention home to await the arrival of learned psychiatrists, who were to question him in an effort to find what on earth possessed him.

"In a case like this, we bump against one of the most tragic and puzzling riddles that life can offer. An old-time theologian probably would explain it on the basis of original sin or demoniac possession, and a modern psychiatrist probably will have something equally pat to say about complexes, inhibitions, and whatnot.

"But in either case, we face one of those queer, incomprehensible quirks that crop out every now and then to bewilder and dismay us.

"Such things remind us that we do not know nearly as much about the mainsprings of human behavior as we think we do. Why should an intelligent, pleasant-faced child give away to an insane pulse like this, anyway? How could adults who have charge of his training have foreseen such a thing?

"What can be done, now that the catastrophe has taken place, to keep the lad's life from being wrecked, and make it possible for him to develop into a happy and useful member of society?

"We know the answers to none of those questions. But out of the general bewilderment we can, perhaps, draw a new understanding of the obligation that lies upon all adults in respect to children; the obligation to try to understand, to sympathize, to be as wise and helpful as our limitations permit.

"The world of childhood is a strange place, and it can be peopled by queer, grisly shadows. We cannot know all that goes on in it, nor can we understand all that we do know. But we at least can be forever alert to help, to advise, to comfort, and to warn."

NOW I'M IN THE "Y" CLUB

(This is a meager attempt to describe some of the experiences of one of those men who was formally initiated into the "Y" club last Wednesday night. Imagining that I was one of those initiated, I write in the first person. Having assisted in the ceremonies, I am thus qualified to somewhat describe the trials of the new men as they were encountered).

The time was all too rapidly approaching when I must don a coat and hasten to the college gym to be initiated into that organization known as the York College "Y" club, a group on the campus composed of men who have earned an athletic "Y". It had been plenty tough earning that "Y" last fall in football but, taking into consideration all the information that I could gather, this night was going to be a more trying ordeal than a dozen football campaigns. I wasn't exactly afraid for I was acquainted with all of the "Y" men on the campus, but I just couldn't overcome an occasional quiver that chilled my backbone.

However, I resigned myself to the inevitable and made my way to the gym, the designated meeting place. Only three or four men were present when I entered. One of these most graciously informed me that the south dressing room was the place for me. In the dressing room I was tossed a pair of sweat pants that were said to have been accidentally dropped in a shower a few minutes before. I was further advised that it would be wise to replace my street clothes with this new regalia. Without questioning the advisability of not carrying out said instructions, I immediately adorned myself in the said garment, which dampened by spirits considerably, and awaited the worst.

Meanwhile several of my fellow sufferers had arrived and had received the same instructions as I. Strangely, their provided garments had likewise encountered a shower from which they had failed to entirely recuperate. From without my so-called reception room, various little things informed me that a group was assembling with some very definite end in mind. I didn't have to think twice to imagine myself as one of these ends.

"All set, men!" 'Twas the voice of Bob Graham, a notable of the initiation committee. "We'll start out tonight by testing the swimming ability of you men. Who wants to be first?" I offered myself for the initial test but a comrade nearer the door got the call. He was blindfolded and led out into the gym amidst a deafening roar of approval from without my quarters. I sat frozen in my still-far-from-dry apparel. That outburst had very much resembled the cries of a mob at a lynching that I had once witnessed. Immovable, my fellow sufferers and I listened for the splash of our associate as he began his swim. We heard counted—one—two—three—then another vocal disturbance that stood our hair on end. Most perplexing was the absence of anything resembling a fellow swimming. However, above all, a very impressive noise reached our ears that seemed similar to a hysterical rooting section hand-clapping their approval at a basketball game.

"Next!" 'Twas the said Mr. Graham speaking. I rushed madly into the blindfold. My only instructions were to swim straight ahead with no side strokes and to retain my scanty attire if possible. I was soon to realize how much more comfortable it would have been had I been able to carry out the latter part of these instructions for before I had transgressed the series of interlocked knees of two rows of men who sat facing each other I was very much aware of what I had misinterpreted as hand-clapping.

Then a race of us six men on our hands and knees from one end of the gym and back resulted in skinned knees and toes. This was a minor detail as compared to the agony to follow.

Again we were sent to our reception room and led away one at a time. As I left I was informed of my very poor health and of the necessity of an immediate operation. Upon reaching the operating table, I noticed Walt Speece with a pair of dull-edged scissors, Lyndle Moore holding something in the furnace, Bob Moline with a bottle of meurochrome, and Coach Ordway with a blindfold. As I relaxed my aching body on the table, I seemed to grow dizzy. I'm not sure yet as to exactly what happened but when I recovered consciousness, I seemed to be nearly all there. However, if all I imagined was true, I'm still sadly lacking.

I had feared that we would get something to eat or drink that would not leave the best memories in my mouth and my fears were not in vain. When we had all received due medical attention, we were confronted with a soap suds race in which we had to carry soap suds in our mouths from a dishpan in the center of the gym floor to a tin cup located at the top of the bleachers. By the time that I'd filled that tincup I was almost a soap bubble myself.

For a third time we were taken to our so-called reception room. This time, I was first to be led away, blindfolded again. By this time I was nearing exhaustion. I was taken, I knew not where at the time, and told to sit down and sit still and to swallow everything fed me in the shortest possible time. Furthermore, if I moved, I would be given a nerve tonic to steady my nervousness. About this time the odor of limberger cheese made itself outstanding. No sooner had I accepted the first contribution into my soap infected mouth, than I realized that I faced the task of swallowing a raw oyster rolled in sugar. I called into action more will-power than I ever hope to assemble at one time again and stowed away the oyster. Not all of my associates fared so well.

Much as I tried I could not sit still after I had mastered that oyster. Later, I learned that a dynamo properly attached had been the cause of my distress. Of course I received my dose of nerve tonic which was the most "oily" tasting stuff that I ever tasted.

My nerve tonic was followed by exclamations of my possessing too much dandruff and I was therefore immediately treated to a shampoo consisting of a preliminary mixture of molasses and sawdust which was followed by the breaking and mixing of a fresh egg in my hair.

My spirits were reaching a very low ebb by this time and I was prescribed a couple of pain relief pills. They may have been pain relief pills but the following day developments led me to believe that I had somewhere obtained some emerald aqua pura. I still doubt the pain relief possibilities of those little pills.

"To the showers" was a heartily welcomed exclamation from our superiors. But, all was not over yet. After having had lunch, I almost passed out when it was announced that the acid test was near at hand. We six were instructed to grab our angles and line up side by side at intervals of about six feet. A seemingly endless line of paddle-wielders formed and began their march behind our weak forms that were now hardly more than instinctively controlled mechanisms. Before that line had completed its trek in which none of us were overlooked nor favored, we all exhibited an unbelievable supply of stored-up energy.

And thus it was that I was initiated into the York College "Y" club. I wouldn't have missed it now for anything but as to repeating the process—not for a day or two at least.

SATIS EST

I write no poem men's hearts to thrill,
 No song I sing to lift men's souls,
 To battle's front no soldiers lead,
 In hall of state I boast no skill,
 I just teach school.

I just teach school; but poet's thrill,
 And singer's joy and soldier's fire
 And statesman's power, all, all are mine!
 For in this little group where still
 I just teach school.

Are poets, soldiers, statesmen, all!
 I see then in the speaking eye,
 In face aglow with purpose strong,
 In straightened bodies, tense and tall
 While I teach school.

On cherished heights they soon shall reach,
 And mine the hand that led them on!
 And I inspired! Therefore, content,
 I still teach school.

Society

Mrs. Warren Baller entertained a small group of friends at her home on Thursday evening, March 1, in honor of Margaret Payne Brookhart, a recent bride. The hours were spent in conversation and in playing games. Mrs. Brookhart received a number of pretty gifts for her new home. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess near the close of the social period.

The following article from the York Daily News-Times is of interest to the friends of the former Miss Dorothy Lloyd, ex-'36:

"A very lovely wedding took place at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Lloyd, when their daughter, Dorothy Jean became the bride of Stanley Diehl, on Thursday evening, February 22, at 8:15 o'clock. The ceremony was preceded with two piano numbers played by Miss Edith Reed. Miss Lucile Newcomer sang "Beloved, It Is Morn" by Hickey-Aylward, accompanied by Miss Reed, who also played Lohengrin's bridal chorus, to whose strains the bridal party descended the stairs, taking their places before the improvised altar which was banked with palms, ferns, and large baskets of cala lilies, carnations, and snapdragons. These were flanked on either side with tall candelabra, each bearing seven candles, the only light shed upon the impressive ring ceremony whose lines were read by the Rev. Maude V. Mann. Miss Reed played softly, "Romance" by La Forge during the service. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played while the congratulations of the fifty invited guests were received.

"Following the ceremony and the inspection of the many beautiful and useful gifts, a delightful dainty lunch was served, which carried out the color scheme of blue and pink which was used throughout. The gifts and the bride's book were in charge of Miss Jean Gaskill and Miss Jeanette Johns.

"Mrs. Diehl has grown to womanhood in the Shiloh community, was graduated from the York high school with the class of 1930, and attended York college one year. Mr. Diehl has also spent most of his life in this vicinity and he too, graduated from the York high school with the class of '27. This genial young couple are the recipients of the good wishes of a large circle of admiring friends who bespeak for them a long and happy voyage together.

"Mr. and Mrs. Diehl left soon after the ceremony on a short wedding trip and after March 1 will be at home to their many friends in their home community on a farm northwest of York."

We must practice our religion without adulterating and bringing it to naught.

We've been afraid to stack up with the supreme issue of our life.

Some people are cynical about religion because they see individuals in the church who are not better off in it than out.

We love our own selfish purposes more than we do the purpose of Christ.

Regardless of the price, we must get into contact with God and His divine principles of life.

In Exchange

Dr. A. T. Seashore, 62, president of Luther College at Wahoo, Nebraska, died at his home in Wahoo on February 26 from a heart ailment. Ordained in the Lutheran ministry in 1903, Doctor Seashore served pastorates in Minnesota, Iowa, and Swedburg, Nebraska, before assuming a place at Luther college.

Nine Dartmouth college students perished in a Theta Chi fraternity house on February 25, victims of fumes of deadly carbon monoxide spread when a furnace pipe in the cellar became disconnected, presumably due to an explosion of coal gas. The victims: William S. Fullerton, 20, Cleveland Heights, Ohio; Edward F. Moldenke, 21, New York City; William M. Smith, Jr., 21, Manhasset, New York; Edward M. Wentworth, Jr., 21, Mount Dora, Florida; Americo S. De Masi, 21, Little Neck, New York; Harold B. Watson, 21, Wilton, Maine; Wilmot H. Schooley, 21, Middletown, New York; John J. Griffin, 19, Wallingford, Connecticut; and Alfred H. Moldenke, 20, New York City.

From the Hastings Collegian we take the following entitled "An Egregious Monstrosity" which one of their debaters was said to be memorizing: "In promulgating your esoteric cogitations or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable, philopohical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversational communications possess a clarified conciseness, a compact comprehensibility, a coalescent consistency, and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flatulent garrulity, pepune babblement and asinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous descantings and unmediated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without rhomontade or throsocial bombast. In other words, talk plainly, briefly, and don't use big words."

Belief that college students today are more earnest in their quest after knowledge than were students of the pre-1929 era is expressed by Dr. William F. Zimmerman, Midland college dean.

To prove his contention, Dr. Zimmerman points to Midland's scholastic records. In 1928-29, only 12 students gained honor ratings, while 34 were placed on probation for low grades. Honor students have increased steadily in number since that time, while probationers have decreased. For the semester just closed, 29 students gained honor roll standing, while only eight were placed on probation. Moreover, four students gained perfect grades in all of their subjects for the first semester. There were no "perfect students" back in 1928-29.

Students of the pre-1929 era, Dr. Zimmerman believes, had college attendance made too easy for them. Most of them had sizeable allowances which enabled them to spend quite a bit of time on parties, theaters and other amusements. As a result their studies suffered and they lost sight of the sacrifices being made to give them their education.

Students today, the Midland dean says, have little or no allowances and as a result they are brought closer to their parents' sacrifices and are made more appreciative of their opportunities. —York News-Times.

ABE LINCOLN, THE POET

Few think of Abe Lincoln as a poet but the following stanzas which inspired Lincoln upon his return to his childhood scenes are deserving of merit:

My childhood's home I see again,
And sadden with the view;
And still, as memory crowds my brain,
There's pleasure in it too.

Near twenty years have passed away
Since here I bid farewell
To woods and fields, and scenes of play,
And playmates loved so well.

Where many were, but few remain
Of old familiar things;
But seeing them, to mind again
The lost and absent brings.

The friends I left that parting day,
How changed, as time has sped!
Young childhood grown, strong manhood gray,
And half of all are dead.

O memory! thou mid-way world
'Twixt earth and paradise,
Where things decayed and loved ones lost
In dreamy shadows rise.

And, freed from all that's earthly vile,
Seen hallowed, pure, and bright,
Like scenes in some enchanted isle
All bathed in liquid light.

HASTINGS DEFEATS PANTHERS 49 TO 24

The Hastings College Bronchos annexed their second conference win of the season over the York College Panthers by a score of 49 to 24 in a game played on the Hastings court on the evening of February 23.

The Bronchs assumed the leadership early in the game and maintained it throughout. They led 24 to 11 at the half. A total of 34 personal fouls were called, five men leaving the game because of too many violations. Hastings used twelve men in the contest.

YORK LOSES 41-21 TO CONFERENCE CHAMPS

Davis, Wilson, Graham, Lead Teams in Scoring

York College suffered a 41-21 reversal at the hands of the Midlanders, conference champions for the past three years, on the York court Feb. 27. The first 12 minutes of the game took on an aspect of developing into a game in which the winner would be uncertain until the final whistle had blown. However, the Warriors assumed command shortly before the half in a fashion that found them holding a 22-11 advantage at the intermission. The Panthers seemed to back-slide miserably in the final minutes of this first period and did very little of note in the second half as the Warriors coasted to victory with frequent substitutions.

Garnie Davis, Midland center, enjoyed his customary "hot" streak on the Panther court by sinking 6 field goals and 3 free throws for a total of 15 points which placed him in first place in the individual conference scoring race as well as making him high-point man of the game. Wilson tied for second honors with Graham with 9 counters. Nelson, half-pint Midland guard, turned in some spectacular play from an offensive standpoint.

Midland won its fourth consecutive N. C. A. C. basketball championship by defeating Nebraska Wesleyan last Friday night by a score of 41-23. Midland's fast-breaking offense proved to be too much for the Plainsmen. The score at the half stood 18-12 in Midland's favor. Garnie Davis wound up his conference career by scoring 18 points for the Warriors.

The Midland Warriors will enter the National A. A. U. tournament as a result of winning the conference crown.

Doane bumped Hastings on the Bronchos' court by a 28-24 decision last Friday and York by a 47-20 score on Saturday night to finish but a jump behind Midland in second place.

Hastings finished in third place while Wesleyan had to be satisfied with fourth. York maintained its early season pace to finish in undivided possession of the cellar.

Now that the basketball season has come to a close I will try to pick an All-Conference team. Hoping not to make any enemies by this selection, I will pick those who have in

PANTHERS SUCCUMB TO DOANE 47 TO 20

Bob Moline and Henry Franz in Last Games for Y. C.

York was humbled by a 47-20 score by the Doane College cage team in the last N. C. A. C. game of the season played at Crete on March 3. The Tigers led 25-13 at the half. Kobes, Doane center, alone accounted for enough points to have bagged a victory for his mates. He accounted for 9 field goals and 3 free throws. Thomas accounted for 8 points to lead the York scoring.

This game marked the end of the York College Basketball careers of two men, both seniors. Captain Robert Moline, alternating at guard and center, completed four consecutive years as a first stringer. Henry Franz, the Henderson blond with a job for next year, completed his

W. Emerson Reck, conference statistician, has released the following interesting facts concerning the season just closed.

Individual high-scoring honors, for the third straight year, went to Garnie Davis, Midland center, who grabbed 86 points. Davis was also first in field goals and free throws with 32 of the former and 22 of the latter. Frank Kobes, Doane center, finished second to Davis with 73 tallies when he collected 21 points against York in his last game to set the 1934 scoring record for individual scoring in a single contest.

Midland's 112 field goals also gave it first place in this department. York weakest of the conference clubs in field goal scoring, was strongest from the foul line with 53 points. Wesleyan was second in field goals with 104 and Midland was runner-up in free throws with 49. Midland was also first in total scoring with 273 points and Wesleyan was second with 253.

Midland's defense was the best in the league, the Warrior barricaders giving up only 167 points, 39 of which were made on free throws. Doane's defense was next strongest, allowing 212 points.

Play in the league this year, comparative records show, was the cleanest in half a dozen seasons. Doane committed fewest fouls, 62, while York had 64 and Midland 67. Hastings and Wesleyan with 85 each made only two more than the cleanest playing N. C. A. C. team committed during the 1933 campaign. Moline, York; Fitzgibbon, Doane; and Bailey, Wesleyan, had fewest fouls among the circuit's regulars, each making eight.
