

REV. A. L. DEEVER IS NEW PASTOR OF THE U. B. CHURCH IN YORK

Comes Here from Independence,
Kansas, to Succeed Rev.
P. B. Porter

The Rev. A. L. Deever from Independence, Kansas, has succeeded the Rev. Paul Porter as pastor of the United Brethren Church of York and has moved his family to this city. Mr. Porter has taken charge of the Aurora church.

The Rev. Mr. Deever was born in Lecompton, Kansas. As his father was a minister he attended grade schools in various Kansas towns. However, he graduated from both grade school and high school at Topeka.

After his graduation from high school, Mr. Deever attended Campbell College at Holton, Kansas, where he graduated in 1910. From here he went to Bonebrake Seminary in Dayton, Ohio, graduating in 1914. While in the seminary Mr. Deever served in several churches as assistant or supply pastor. His first charge after graduation was at the Telescope Memorial church in Kansas City, Missouri.

During the years following his stay in Kansas City, Mr. Deever served in several Kansas churches, including those at Hutchinson, Winfield, Wichita, Pittsburg, and Independence, his last charge before coming to York.

Mr. and Mrs. Deever have four children who are all attending school in York. Gladys is a junior in college; Lawrence, a senior in high school; Florence, a sophomore in high school; and Paul is in the first grade at East Ward.

College Has Float in Annual Festival

Classes and organizations of York College, as well as other schools of the county, cooperated with the York county commercial club in the annual fall festival held in York on September 28, by taking part in the educational parade.

As usual York College was represented by a float depicting some idea connected with the institution. This float showed the college panther climbing up an incline. The slogan, "The Panther is Climbing", expressed the theme of the float. This same mounted panther has been in the possession of York College for almost ten years, when a freshman class presented it to the college.

Cash awards were earned by the band and by classes in proportion to their numbers in line.

J. W. STUDEBAKER IS GIVEN IMPORTANT OFFICE

J. W. Studebaker (Leander Clark College, 1910), former superintendent of schools of Des Moines, Iowa, has been appointed United States Commissioner of Education according to The Balance Sheet, a magazine for commercial teachers.

"Mr. Studebaker," says the magazine, "is one of the nations most outstanding educators. He is a man of tremendous vitality. He has kept pace with the times and is open-minded on all problems. Because of Mr. Studebaker's sympathetic attitude toward commercial education, commercial educators are fortunate in having a man of this caliber at the head of the educational department of the federal government."

"How old are you, Mary?"
"Fifteen."
"A girl of fifteen should tell her mother everything."
"I know it; but mother is so innocent, really I haven't the heart."

GIRLS ON CAMPUS ARE HEALTHIER THAN BOYS

York college students underwent physical examinations at the gym on Oct. 9 and 10. Dr. Harry and Dr. King of this city were the examining physicians. The women of the school rated exceptionally high as a group. "This is probably the healthiest group of girls that I have ever examined", stated Dr. King. An interesting sidelight was thrown upon the examination when it was found that the blood pressure and the pulse of twin sisters were exactly the same.

It was the prevailing opinion that York college men would make good policemen because flat feet was the main defect. Lardosis was also prevalent. However, the men received a creditable rating although it was not as high as was the rating of the women.

REV. JAMES A. WEBER ADDRESSES STUDENTS IN COLLEGE CHAPEL

Rev. Weber Urges Students to Be More Courageous in Facing the Defeats of Life

"What is the breakdown in character that causes suicides?" The Rev. James A. Weber put this question before the assembled students in chapel October 4. Mr. Weber, one of the prominent young men of the United Brethren church, is pastor of a church in Rich Valley, Indiana.

"Suicide results from inability to face defeat properly," continued the speaker. "It should really be possible to learn something of value from every defeat. Take the case of Thomas A. Edison. On one occasion after Mr. Edison had attempted a certain experiment nearly 3000 times, a friend asked him why he hadn't stopped this useless procedure. Mr. Edison replied that he had lost nothing through these failures, but, on the contrary, he now knew 3000 ways not to do that particular thing." Mr. Weber also cited the case of Abraham Lincoln as a classic example of character rising above defeats. Lincoln's life, he declared, was a succession of failures, in so far as worldly success is judged.

"It takes more strength than we usually realize to face the glory of success, but, nevertheless, it will always be an axiom that the crucial test for strength of character comes in the bitterness of defeat. Ever since biblical times, continued the speaker, man has looked up to the eagle for a symbol of strength that can surpass the storms. "Like the eagle, we should have the moral strength to rise above the storms and defeats of life."

"It's not unusual for students in scientific laboratories to repeat an experiment for hours or weeks, to exhaustively test the principle. Then why is it that you can be willing to give prayer a trial or two, and then give up that spiritual experiment?" Mr. Weber warned his audience that, while self-reliance is a splendid trait, there is a tendency for self-reliance to go too far. "It is fatal for even the most self-sufficient character to place no reliance on his God."

Mr. and Mrs. Weber have been in York a few days visiting relatives. Mrs. Weber was formerly Miss Thelma Manning, '28.

YORK BANNERS DISPLAYED

Large blue banners with a white block Y were distributed to the York merchants for display on home game days. The banners hanging from ten-foot standards made a sharp contrast to the white and grey of the town and give a festive appearance to the street. The townspeople will know that the Panthers will play at home when the banners are flown.

YORK COLLEGE PLANS FOR HOMECOMING DAY ON NOVEMBER THIRD

Parents of Students Will Be Invited; Game with Nebraska Wesleyan Is Feature

An unusual feature of the Homecoming Day, which is to be celebrated at York College this year on Saturday, November 3, will be the presence of the parents of the students on the campus. Invitations are being sent to alumni and former students. Friends will also be invited to visit the college on Friday.

According to the present plans, open house will be held on the campus Friday evening from 6:30 to 8:00 o'clock, following which there will be a program in the college chapel. An outstanding feature of the program will be a pep talk by Mr. Charles A. Bowers, '13, Lincoln, who is now Secretary of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association. Other numbers will consist of music and readings.

On Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock, the freshmen and upper classmen will play their annual football games. A luncheon for all will be served at the conservatory at 12:00 o'clock.

In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the main event of the Homecoming Day will be the football game between Wesleyan University and York College.

Students Hold Rally For Game with Broncs

For the purpose of creating a high spirit of enthusiasm, an all-evening rally was staged by the student body Thursday evening, October 11.

Beginning at 5:30 o'clock, the W. A. A. sponsored a waffle supper at the college dining hall, the proceeds from which they are planning to use in buying a sun-lamp for the athletic department.

Following the waffle supper, at 7:00 o'clock the group went to the Sun theater in a body for their first college night. The college band met them there and a short rally, consisting of songs and cheers, was held before the group went into the movie. Between pictures, Everett Green, president of the Panther club, thanked the management of the theater for their cooperation in the evening's plans. The cheer leaders then again took the stage and a few short cheers were given for the team.

Following the show the student body again congregated outside the theater and led by the band marched to the college athletic field. A large bonfire was burning there and another rally was held around it. Coach Ordway and Captain "Mitz" Maurer both spoke. The rally then ended with a rousing cheer for the team.

According to the Panther club and the good-will committee, the evening's rally is hoped to be the beginning of renewed enthusiasm in the student body and further cooperation with the community.

Among the "grads" who attended the Concordia football game were William Thompson, '26, "Ted" Thompson, '28, "Bud" Franz, '34, Wilbur Gard, '34, Neal Gallant, '32, Evelyn Dixon, '34, William Hice, '34, and Raymond Wochner, '34.

The Rev. Harold DeWolf, who attended York college 1920-'22, has recently been elected to the chair of philosophy in Boston University.

ZETAS ENTERTAIN AT ANNUAL RECEPTION

"What that Freshman cap has meant to me or will mean to me," was the subject of an interesting extemporaneous talk given by Willard Bish, a freshman, at the annual Zeta reception for new students on Monday, Sept. 24. The welcome was given by Howard Wright, president, and the response by William Curnutt, freshman.

During the early part of the evening a short program was presented which consisted of a song by the audience, devotions in charge of Vernie Buttermore, a piano solo by Beverley Hennings and two vocal duets by Jane Caldwell and Ormal Tack.

The rest of the evening was spent in various games and contests under the direction of Kenneth Nelson and Howard Caldwell, after which refreshments were served.

Musical Program Is Presented by YWCA

"Music" was the theme of the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting on Tuesday, October 9. The meeting began with a piano prelude by Melba Manning, followed by the devotions in charge of Gladys Deever. The program, which carried out the theme of the meeting, was composed entirely of musical numbers. It consisted of a vocal solo entitled "Mountains", by Rachsbach, presented by Jane Caldwell, who was accompanied at the piano by Jean Brown; a piano solo, "Coquetry", by Spencer, given by Beverley Hennings; and a cornet solo "The Flight of Ages", by Bevan, played by LaVelle Lease, who was accompanied at the piano by Dorothy Miracle. The program was concluded with a postlude played by Melba Manning.

MAURER, YORK SENIOR, CAPTAINS PANTHERS

Captain Milton Maurer, better known as "Mitz," is back at his old position of fullback for the York college Panthers. So far Captain Maurer has led his men to overwhelming victories over the Hebron "Knights" and the Concordia Teachers.

Maurer is playing his fourth year of football for York college and has won a well known reputation as a sure blocker and a hard tackling fullback.

The team and the student body are back of Captain Maurer to the last inch.

WALK IS REBUILT

The long brick walk leading to the Administration Building has been rebuilt by students working under the FERA plan and its condition has been greatly improved. The bed has been leveled and it is now safe to walk on without watching for holes and wide cracks.

PANTHERS OPEN HOME SCHEDULE WITH WIN OVER SEWARD TEAM

Concordia Loses Three Yards on Ground Plays Through Panther Line

The Panthers opened their home schedule by beating the Concordia Teachers of Seward 34 to 0 on the new football field in East Hill park. With this win Coach Ordway's squad had counted up 60 points to their opponents' nothing in two games.

With a "powerhouse" line stopping the line plunges of the Teachers and a string of speedy backs carrying the ball for York, the game never turned in favor of Concordia. Seward's line plunging netted them a three yard loss for the game. The three first downs for Concordia were earned by an aerial attack that bogged down when they got within scoring distance.

Maurer, Graham, Headlee, Feaster, and W. Moore added color to the game with their fast stepping and line plunging. Stephenson, Bish, and Freet stood out in stopping Concordia's line plunges while L. Moore's placekicking was a feature of the game. Pierson, a freshman from Osceola, is giving the veteran ends something to do to keep him out of the starting lineup.

Diers, Ebel, and Rathe stood out for the Teachers.

Starting lineup:

PROF. KEIM TAKES OVER PANTHER "B" SQUAD

There are a few in every school and college who give much of their time and energy freely and with little reward because of that one thing known as "school spirit". Prof. Keim and his "B" squad men are of this group.

Last year Prof. Keim gave us a band to lead the cheering section at the games and pep meetings. This year he is helping Coach Ordway by taking over that group of football aspirants who because of their lack of experience are not able to make the first string squad. Let's keep him busy all season with a good bunch of men to work with.

STUDENTS HEAR SERIES

The Y. M. C. A. reading room became the general headquarters for boys during the world series and standing room was often at a premium. A radio, loaned by David Ender, was the drawing card and baseball fans were able to keep well posted on the actions of their favorite teams. No great turnover of cash has been reported as a result of the games.

York College—York College!

—Y. C.—

These physical exams! One wonders how such a group of human derelicts ever congregated together. Three plus feet! Two plus tonsils! A parabola for a spine and one shoulder sagging from going down too deep for the last dime! No wonder our hearts are irregular. The fellow ahead of us comes out with his card full of crosses and a look of reproachfulness on his face—to think that his heart had murmurs all the time and he didn't know it. But as some other poet has said—"When has there been so dark a night, that the sun didn't rise to make it bright?" We got out of classes, and then there is a certain awe in your classmates' eyes when you nonchalantly state that you have an extra vertebra and palpitations of the heart.

CAMPUS COURTESY

Even dogs won't pass each other without certain formalities, and yet it isn't uncommon to see college students pass each other with that vacant expression of pain and woe used in thinking, and not speak to each other. The reference to the high culture of the canine breed is not a statement of their superiority to college students but a gentle reminder that if one dog is gentleman enough to inquire into the health of another, surely college students can observe common sociality to that extent.

Some campuses are noted for their friendliness and geniality. A student of a southern school is considered morbid and unsociable if he doesn't exchange, "How are you all?" with his fellow students. A smile, a cheerful word, or a friendly gesture takes but a moment's time and the dividends are great. Wouldn't we all feel better if the first fellow we passed in the morning would give a big cheerful grin and a wave of his hand, or the first girl would be singing or smiling with pure happiness of living?

Sometimes whole days are spoiled by a poor start. Students who sleep too long and rush off to classes without breakfast don't feel like smiling, perhaps; but it is uncommon to find even a hungry person who won't respond to a cheerful greeting and a happy smile. This isn't such a bad world. The sun still shines every morning; the birds still sing even if they are blackbirds; and there seems to be enough money in the country to buy gas for the flivver and juice for the radio.

College is a place for happiness and alive young spirits. College years should be joyful years—years filled with events that will all too soon be pleasant memories. Let's not be too busy or too modern to forget the genuine, old-fashioned geniality that the Mid-West is noted for. Nicknames are never out of style, and the close fellowship and lasting friendships that a small college fosters are often the most valuable part of college.

Even our professors are human to a remarkable extent. We recommend the proverbial, "Hy'ya, Butch," and a back-slap among the male students; but, while we wouldn't urge that procedure with our learned elders, we do claim that if some morning every student would walk smiling into class on time and bring forth a heartfelt, "Good morning, Professor," the startled educator would very likely dismiss class and blow himself to a new tie.

What do you say, York College? Let's produce those nicknames, those happy smiles and cheerful grins, and let's make our campus a center of friendliness and fellowship.

A PEDESTRIAN'S VIEWPOINT

Odes and sonnets galore have immortalized the blithe lark, the mournful dove, and the exquisite song of the nightingale, but had I the gift of expression in proportion to the intensity of my feelings, the epic I would write on that black sheep of the bird family, the blackbird, would bury the aforesaid odes and sonnets in obscurity. Oh, for a Piedpiper of York! What a fortune he could make if he would blow his piccolo and lure those quacking, gregarious, tree-sitting canaries of Hades out of town. No longer would tourists bulge their eyes at a normally sane man standing out in his yard hitting two boards together over his head. Job had his boils, Soloman had 500 wives, and York has 27 million fed blackbirds.

STUDENTS NAMED FOR 1933-34 HONOR ROLL

The York College committee on scholastic awards recently named the honor students of the 1933-34 term. This recognition is given annually to both graduates and undergraduates.

The freshmen group, comprising the upper ten per cent of the class, was made up of the following students: Howard Wright, York, 92.5; Lawrence Casebeer, York, 92.1; Wendell Johnson, York, 91.1; Leola Craig, Panama, 90.4; Ralph Jordan, Beloit, Kansas, 90.3; and Virginia Torrell, Stromsburg, 89.8.

The sophomores were represented by Irene Thompson, York and Alice Fox, Aurora, both of who had an average of 90.2; James Speece, York, was the only junior whose average reached 90. His was 90.2.

The honor students of the graduating class were divided into two groups; Magna cum laude and cum laude ratings. Two York students, William Hice and Mildred Thompson, won magna cum laude honors with the respective averages of 91.3 and 90.2. Cum laude ratings went to Marian Hill, Dennis, Kansas, 89.5; Marian Shambaugh, Bradshaw, 89; Evelyn McCain, Pickrel, 88; Margaret Johnson, York, 87.7; Raymond Wochner, York, 87.4; Edith Lawson, Ames, Iowa, 87.2; and Roger Ehlers, York 87.

Seyler and Sam Somerhalder, Plainsmen backfield aces, paced the Wesleyan team to a victory over Coach Hill's Kearney Teachers. Bosley and Johnson booted the extra points.

Midland 41, Hebron 0
With Enebak scoring two counters and Nelson, Carmody, Lierk, and Ellison each making a touchdown, the Midland college team defeated the Hebron "Knights" 41-0. Ellison set a perfect kick record by scoring five out of five extra point attempts. Lyman, plunging Midland back, averaged 8.7 yards on each attempt.

Hastings 13, St. Benedict 38—Atchison, Kans.

Hastings college went down before a powerful St. Benedict team when they were hopelessly outclassed. St. Benedict is coached by "Moon" Mullins, former All-American full-back at Notre Dame. The famous Notre Dame shift proved to be too much for the "Broncos" who probably were playing against it for the first time.

Tarkio 13, Doane 6
Tarkio clinched the victory over Doane in the final quarter when halfback Boyle ran fifty yards for a touchdown after catching a pass from Wolfe. Tarkio quarter, Keill, Doane quarter, scored for the "Tigers" on a fifteen yard run.

Out of state games have proven rather costly for N. C. A. C. teams. Last week Wesleyan lost to the Marysville, (Mo.) Teachers 7 to 3 and Midland lost to Buena Vista, an Iowa team, by a score of 20 to 0. Hastings was able to pull their out of state game out of the fire when they beat Kansas Wesleyan 20 to 7.

Hastings Next
Some of the York Panthers went to Hastings to see the Hastings-St. Benedict game and get an idea of just how tough the McCrady men are going to be. The report seems to be that in spite of their rather bad defeat at the hands of the Kansas team they will be hard to beat. With such backs as Holm, Goodale, and Stevenson, and the Logan brothers and Bosserman in the line, York will have to play better football than they have for a long time to win.

W. Moore Out
A last week's scrimmage proved rather a costly affair for Coach Ordway when W. Moore had the ligaments in his right arm torn loose. Moore, who has been a regular in the backfield, will be out for at least three weeks, according to the doctor's report.

Panthers Defeated by Hastings 12-0

York Drops First Conference Game to Broncs.

The York Panthers, unable to stop the rough-riding Hastings Broncs Friday afternoon lost by a score of 12 to 0. Except for the second quarter it looked as if the Panthers might win. It was during this second period that Hastings made their two touchdowns, one after a pass, Holm to Brown, and the second when Chase plunged over the goal-line after a drive down the field which York failed to stop.

York started the game when L. Moore kicked off to Hastings against a light breeze that failed to bother either team during the afternoon. York was able to stop Hastings when Bish and Moore broke through and threw the Broncs for a seven yard loss on two plays. The rest of the quarter was a battle between the two teams to get within scoring distance but neither was able to make the grade. York seemed to have a slight edge.

Shortly after the beginning of the second quarter Hastings made their first touchdown when the Panthers failed to ground a pass by Holm to Brown. Chase's attempt to kick the extra point failed when the ball went wide. The rest of the period each team tried to score by passes but gained little until Hastings recovered a York fumble on the Panther 37 yard line. Again the York team was unable to stop the Hastings drive and Chase went over for the second counter but failed to convert the extra point. Hastings kicked off to York but the half ended before advantage could be taken of Pierson's recovery of a Hastings pass. The score was 12 to 0, Hastings.

During the second half both sides were unable to find openings and the game ended without any more scoring. The York fans were on their feet once during the second half screaming their loudest when Graham intercepted a Hastings pass and ran for a touchdown only to have it called back when a York man was off-side.

York's play was considerably brightened by the line playing of Smith, Stevenson and Bish. These linemen consistently broke through to throw Hastings for big losses. Again the playing of Pierson at end for L. Moore, after Moore's knee injury which took him out of the game, was a pleasure to watch. The back-field playing of Graham, Maurer, Headlee and Feaster stood out with end runs by Feaster and Graham and the plunging and blocking by Maurer and Headlee.

BOOK REVIEW

"Forgive Us Our Trespasses," by Lloyd C. Douglass is a vividly written, thrilling novel which appeals especially to college students. The book is not, as might be supposed from the title, a religious book, but the underlying theme might be termed as a search for the truth of life.

The story plunges immediately into action in the first chapter and introduces us to the mother of the main character. The author vividly portrays her cynical attitude and her antagonistic views toward life. Later in the book we recognize these traits of the mother in her son, and it is his fight to overcome them which constitutes the story.

We follow the life of "Dinny Brumm" through his childhood, his youth and into mature manhood. His mother dies at his birth leaving him to the care of an ignorant aunt. At the age of fifteen we find "Dinny" going his way alone, his attitude toward everything one of cynicism and scorn. The description of his life while attending Magnolia College is especially interesting.

As "Dinny" grows older he becomes famous through his column writing for newspapers. In all his writing he ridicules, scoffs and scorns the religion of the people and the social order of things.

After breaking all ties with relatives, becoming involved in a love affair, and nearly ruining himself by the acceptance of the editorship of a fanatical magazine, Dinny is brought to his senses by the discovery of an old letter written by his mother before her death. This letter which he finds concealed in a secret drawer in his mother's desk, brings Dinny to the realization that he is cheating himself of true living. Gradually he forces himself to counteract his cynicism, and overcomes his antagonistic views. As he changes he feels himself developing a new power, and a new vigor. As a final triumph he humbles himself to ask the pardon of those he has grieved by his radicalism and finds great joy in the discovery of new friends in old, in reconciliation of his relatives and the return of the love of the girl he adores.

It is impossible to describe Mr. Douglas' stirring manner of weaving mystery, romance, and vivid description into the story. It is a book well worth reading and will surely prove interesting to any type of reader.

CO-EDS CARES

by Auntie Ima Fool

Dear Auntie:

I'm just a new little freshman girl and I want to make a good impression in college. Here is my problem. You know those horrid, old caps we have to wear? Well, I just look terrible in them, Auntie, green is so unbecoming to me, and I'm afraid my boy friend sees me wearing mine, he won't like me any more? What shall I do?

BOO-BOO.

Dear Boo-Boo:

Since it is a rule that freshmen wear these caps, I would advice you to buy a large scarf of a very becoming color and then wear it over your cap, tying it under your chin. I'm sure this will be very becoming to you.

Dear Auntie:

Something must be the matter with me, and I am desperate, dear Auntie, for some help. I am an upper classman but am constantly being mistaken for a frosh? What can I do?

"Honey."

My dear "Honey,"

If you will make an effort to always be in a hurry, always look important, never "grin," (simply smile) I'm sure you will overcome your difficulty.

Dear Auntie:

D'ya wanna buy a duck?

"Ordie".

Dear Ordie:

I would like it very much but I have no money.

Dear Auntie:

Sold.

"Ordie."

Heard in Chapel

Oct. 1. Miss Edith Callender, head of the English department, spoke on the value of old things. By way of illustration she referred to the age of crude oil as shown by the Sinclair exhibit at the world's fair.

"There is also a definite value in a stable character", said Miss Callender. Fashions in character do not change with the times as does the style of hats. Consider the value of old and proven friends and old character standards. Do not follow the advice of the crowd. Stand firm on your own convictions. Gain courage by doing so.

Oct. 5. "You are not getting ready to go somewhere when you take up studies in college. You are already on the way," said President J. R. Overmiller in a chapel address. He went on to say that in the paths of life there are very few square corners. The roads are usually forked. It is easy to lean a little bit to one side and follow the wrong road. Conserve your time. Do not practice such time-killers as card playing and dancing. "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin debases it." Why can that not also be applied to students?

Sept. 27. Prof. Doty gave some general suggestions for the good of all. "Watch that 80% requirement for graduation, and for certificates," was his advice. "Furthermore," he added, "it's up to you to watch your health. You are usually entirely to blame if you become ill. A very desirable habit for you to start is that of avoiding tardies and cuts. Your Chapel attendance has one very practical purpose, — it's excellent practice in public behavior. We must learn how to last through a public assemblage in good grace."

Sept. 28. Prof. Doty spoke again, with more good fatherly advice. "An exposure to college for four years should result in a college education" was his startling proposition. "When this isn't the result, it's a mighty sad business proposition."

The professor deplored the sad state of some freshmen, who, he said, "consider themselves prepared for college when they have purchased a raccoon coat and a ukelele."

RED CROSS FIELD FOR COLLEGE MEN, WOMEN

Among the many calls upon college-trained men and women is that of volunteer service in the ranks of the American Red Cross. The qualities of temperament, as well as of mind, which make students and graduates so much in demand in business and in civic organizations, fit them ideally for the emergency and regular activities of local Red Cross Chapters, of which there are more than 3,700.

Last year, for instance, there were 78 disasters in the United States in which the Red Cross gave relief to sufferers. Although each had the benefit of the experience and general direction of trained Red Cross disaster workers, the bulk of the work was performed by local chapters. The kind of teamwork found in football, basketball and other college sports was necessary to make effective the giving of shelter, food, medical attention, hospitalization and transportation to victims of flood, fire and storm. Disasters are "extra-curricular" so far as communities are concerned. Quick thinking, organization ability, versatility and enthusiasm are important assets of Red Cross workers and volunteers at such times. Chapter officers and committeemen recognize this and everywhere enlist the services of young men and women.

Depression years have seen the utilization of many young women volunteers schooled in home economics. Many chapters invite them to supervise food and nutrition projects and in many instances to conduct classes in these subjects. Students and graduates with a knowledge of social work have found their talents much needed where there is "case work" to do. Many who found it difficult to obtain immediate employment at the end of the college year have entered wholeheartedly into production, braille, office, civilian home service, disaster, Roll Call and other activities of their home Chapters. Thousands of these college men and women were once, as pupils in grade or common schools, members of the Junior Red Cross and have never entirely lost contact with the National relief agency.

This fall a great many college students will join with zest in extending by the door-to-door invitation the Red Cross membership privilege to millions of homes. The Roll Call is from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, November 11 to 29, and supports work of Red Cross chapters in communities and the broad helpful program of the national organization.

WHAT I HOPE TO GAIN FROM COLLEGE

Colleges are wonderful institutions for students who want to make a mark in life. In our generation it seems as one is left out if he doesn't have an education. Hence, more young people than ever before are attending college.

After graduating from high school, I was eager to continue my education in college. For a time I was in doubt as to whether I would go to school or not. Just a few weeks ago I made hurried preparations to come to York College, and here I am.

Through former school years I have been much interested in the various subjects which I have taken. I've tried to make good grades and keep up with my lessons at all times. I do not think the time and effort I have put on school work was wasted.

In continuing my education in college, I want to acquire a more adequate and more broadened education to help me through life. I think college will give me a foundation of culture and preparedness so that I will be able to teach or to support myself in other ways.

Besides acquiring knowledge, I want to be able to enjoy the social life and contacts. I think college will enable me to mix with the crowd and understand different personalities or characters. Young people who do not attend college miss the splendid opportunities for gaining new friends and making social contacts.

Last, but not least, in York College I want to realize the importance of religion. I want to gain more knowledge of the Bible and its teachings. Through that I will be able to know how to make my life worthwhile. A personality may have many good qualities, but without religion it cannot be its best. In all walks or professions in life a person can succeed if he takes the Creator for his guide.

In summing up my past statements — I want to acquire a cultural education, I want to gain many friends through college social contacts, and I want to acquire a more adequate knowledge of religion. I'm hoping to gain all these from college.

COURSE INAUGURATED FOR THEOLOGY STUDENTS

Professor Chas. Bisset To Teach the New Class

Realizing the need of a closer contact with young men of the church who are looking toward the ministry and wishing to be of greater service in encouraging a better prepared ministry, York College has introduced a course leading to the A. B. degree which more fully covers the reading course as outlined by the General Conference of the United Brethren church and required before one becomes a candidate for ordination. All the conferences of the co-operating territory have agreed to recognize this course as equivalent to that required by the General Conference and will grant credit for the same when recommended by the college.

This plan ought to stimulate attendance especially of the United Brethren young people looking toward a life program of definite religious work. A better prepared ministry is a growing demand in the United Brethren church. The knowledge of books of the required reading course when studied in the classroom under a competent teacher will be far superior to that gained by reading the books "in absentia." The new course will be given by Dr. Charles Bisset.

WHAT I HOPE TO GAIN FROM COLLEGE

Students are flocking around the college steps laughing and chatting easily in groups. Many of them are old friends but there are many others who are entire strangers. It is interesting to notice the numerous types of students to be found here and the various expressions one may read in their candid faces. Those who have old acquaintances there are at ease and carefree while the strangers are more reserved and seem to be rather bewildered. Here is a place where one can meet all sorts of people and learn to adopt oneself to them. Viewing this scene as I come up the walk, I realize that my problem for the next few years is to find my place among these people.

At present I have quite a few reasons for wanting to attend college. I may change some of them when I become more accustomed to college life, for just now I know very little about it.

My first reason is for self-improvement. Progress is a natural instinct, and when it comes to progressing within ourselves, the persons in whom we are most vitally interested, that instinct is very strong. This leads to and explains my second reason: the desire to accomplish worthwhile things.

The third reason is to develop my personality. I want to get away from my narrow-mindedness and learn to understand both sides of questions that arise. I hope to develop the ability to see things through to the end.

Another important reason is to gain more knowledge in order to prepare for my chosen vocation. This can be obtained only in college.

Fifth is my longing to learn to enjoy life to the fullest. This idea is still hazy in my mind. It is something I have felt but have not yet tried to explain, even to myself.

My last reason is to learn to adopt myself to society and find my place in the world.

These six things I hope to gain from college. If, by the time I leave school, I have accomplished all of them, I shall be satisfied that college has done its part in bettering my life.

COACH ORDWAY HAS NINE VETERANS BACK

Coach Guy O. Ordway is rapidly getting his 1934 York college Panthers into shape for the N. C. A. C. race. Coach Ordway has been carefully picking the new candidates for the positions for which they are best fitted. With nine lettermen and a large aggregation of new men who are putting up a good scrappy fight for regular berths, the Panthers of 1934 should be well represented.

CAN YOU IMAGINE?

The Seniors sitting in the Freshman section? Chapel without any announcements? Bob Hawley losing his voice? The weather ever being good for tennis? Being able to tell the "twins" apart?
