JUNIORS GIVE PROGRAM AT U. B. CHURCH FOR TWENTY-TWO SENIORS

"Unscaled Heights" was the subject of the address given by the Rev. Paul Porter of Aurora, for the Senior Recognition Day services at the United Brethren church last Thursday morning. The Rev. Mr. Porter, a York college graduate of the class of 1915, and pastor of the college church from 1929 to 1934, discussed the challenge to scale the heights presented by the problems of present day life.

Twenty-two students were recognized as seniors by the faculty and the student body in the service arranged by the Junior class. The program was as follows: Processional

William Curnutt Address — Rev. Paul Porter Vocal solo — Robert Gale Benediction — Dean W. E. Bachman Recessional — Hazel Emma Morgan

Following the program, the seniors separated, to meet again at the Williams Hotel for a 1:00 o'clock dinner, after which all attended the afternoon show at the Sun theater.

President Addresses Life Work Recruits

"Jesus' Triumphant Entry" was the topic of President J. R. Overmiller, guest speaker of the Life Work Recruits, February 7. He presented a chalk talk on the teachings of the cross, naming the fundamental teachings as, "Wages of sin are death", "The gift of God is eternal life", "I am come that ye might have life", "All have sinned", "God so loved the world that he gave His only Son", and "I go to prepare a place for you."

"Jesus is still triumphant today through His teachings", stated the president. "We can afford to follow Him and keep close by His side and the problems of life will be solved."

Stressing the idea of "Fundamentalism, modernism, tradition, evolution, or certain theories of creation tends to oppose the teachings of the cross; I want to keep close to God and I want Him to have His way in my life", concluded Pres. Overmiller.

Spring Fancy Finds Substitute in McCloud Gift to Library

Now that warmer weather and budding branches presage the not far distant approach of spring, a young man's fancy lightly turns from thoughts of books. "The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra la," and their consorts, the trees and grasses, hold far more appeal for him than any classroom activities. But, alas, in this arid climate, where the last decent shower is quite beyond the scope of the oldest student's memory, the beauties of the spring are quite often difficult to find. So, in lieu of spring time flowers, The Sandburr staff suggests a substitute. And, paradoxically, it is found in books.

"The Sugar Prune, or How a Tree Was Changed to Fit the Weather," "The Petunia With the Tobacco Habit," "How the Cactus Got Its Spines—And How It Lost Them," "Twenty-Three Potato Seeds and What They Taught." These sound like titles from Mother Goose's stories, with the added zest of May petunias and June potatoes. But, indeed,

Debate Squad Travels to Doane for Dual Meet

Two York College debate teams, Erwin Branson and Lawrence Deever, Russell Dunlop and Dan Wright, with their Coach, Miss Alma Tress Lundman, made a trip to Crete Wednesday afternoon, February 9, to engage in practice debates with the Doane teams.

The two-round, non-decision debates were on the question: "Resolved, That the National Labor Relations Board Should be Empowered to Enforce Arbitration of all Industrial Disputes."

In the evening the York debaters were dinner guests of the Doane debaters, after which a round-table discussion of the question was held.

Y Club Entertains Local Business Men

SECURE COOPERATION IN CAMPAIGN FOR INCREASED ENROLLMENT

To encourage business men of York to cooperate in finding part time jobs for prospective students and to promote a general feeling of good will between the athletic department and the merchants, the Y Club sponsored a program in connection with its regular dinner meeting on Monday, February 7. Business men of the city, present by special invitation of the Y Club, constituted about half the group of over fifty men.

The meeting was opened by Barney Rees, president of the Y Club. The program consisted of a musical selection by the college quartet composed of Gerald Dierdorff, Alden Marvel, Glenn Graham, and Owen, and talks by Lawrence Deever, Coach Neal Gallant, Dean W. E. Bachman, Russ Williams, Robert Graham, John Riddell, and Prof. Charles Bisset.

The plan and immediate purpose of the Y Club was presented at the meeting. The plan includes the proposal to promote the growth of York College to a student enrollment of 300. The club expects a percentage of the increase to be athletes to bolster the reserve strength of the teams. Evidence was presented that there are athletes who may attend college here if given assurance of part time work for tuition or other expenses.

John Riddell as president of the York Chamber of Commerce expressed his purpose to present the plan to the Chamber and to appoint a special committee to carry it out.

Following the dinner, the Y Club adjourned to the college gymnasium to initiate ten candidates for membership in the organization.

Mother Goose had nothing to do with them whatever, for they are, in actuality, chapter headings from an interesting set of nature volumes about the works of Luther Burbank that rests on a certain shelf in the York college library.

These valuable books, richly bound, and illustrated with over a thousand direct color photographs, all of postcard size and perfected by a special process for use in the set, are a gift of Mrs. C. A. McCloud, in memory of her late husband, who before his death in 1937, was an old friend of York college, and chairman of the College Board of Trustees. Mr. McCloud was an honorary member of the Luther Burbank society, and the first of the twelve volumes in the set contain a dedication to him, with the signature of Robert John, secretary of the organization in 1914, when the edition was published.

"Y" Club Suggests that Increased Enrollment Will Win Football and Basketball Games

Disgusted, the spectator at the game pulls his hat down over his eyes, sighs, and resigns himself to the fate of his team which at the moment resembles something that is becoming flattened in the face of an advancing steam roller. The time is midway in the second half and until a moment ago he still had some wind in his sails. He happens to be an ordinary layman, not acquainted with the rules of the game, but he has a right to ask, "What's wrong with the team?"

It was not only one particular spectator who did this, nor did it happen at a particular basketball game, nor did it happen only at a basketball game. Mr. York College Fan has now reached the point where he is no longer surprised to find himself supporting the cellar team. Yet he continues to hope against hope. Again and again he has been brought to his feet with excitement with a first half demonstration of power that swells his chest. But chagrin follows as the tide invariably turns. Such has become the strange coincidence and eleven followers of York College athletic teams.

Mathematic and simple explanation is that while the first strength of opponents naturally wears them into dogged though spirited fighters. Eventually the result is the same as the game before. With the smallest enrollment in the N. C. A. C. York has a valid explanation for its lack of reserve strength.

BUT WE DO NOT HAVE A VALID EXPLANATION FOR BEING THE SMALLEST COLLEGE IN THE CONFERENCE. If there were a lack of prospective students the outlook would be a virtual blank wall. But from all sides reports come that if all students were here who want to be and who possibly could and should be here, the enrollment would be swelled to three, four or five hundred. Throughout Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, and all the states of the area are young people who are eager to be in York but they are not able to support themselves entirely. They must have part time work and until they can be given assurance that they will receive it they will stay at home or go to some college where the jobs are more plentiful.

Acting on the belief that an increased student body would mean a corresponding percentage increase in the number of athletes and potential reserve strength, the Y Club has taken the initiative in a plan to boost the enrollment to at least 300. The plan of the Y Club embodies four points:

1. To get the cooperation of former York College men in sending names of such men as we desire to the Y Club president.
2. To get York College students to help us bring in prospective students.
3. Because the demand for jobs here will be greater than the college will be able to meet, to suggest that students have some capital to begin with in securing a college education.
4. To urge that our representatives try to make it possible for athletes as well as others to go to college not by paying them, but by assuring them of work by which they can meet a part of their expenses.

Acting concretely on its own suggestions the Y Club has sent letters to over 100 former college students and York alumni, in line with the first point here outlined. Realizing, however, that the fourth point will present the real difficulty, the Y Club invited about thirty York business men to a dinner booster meeting last week. The problem and the proposed solution were presented to them. The response has encouraged the Y Club and is spurring it to increased enthusiasm. The business men are intensely interested in the promised growth of the college and have pledged themselves to do what they can to make it possible.

The immediate end of the dinner meeting was to suggest that York through its business men could help support a larger college by offering more part time jobs to York College students. The actual and practical success of the meeting was assured when John Riddell, president of the York Chamber of Commerce, made known his intention to present the matter to the Chamber of Commerce and to appoint a committee to begin work on it. Credit and thanks are due Mr. Riddell.

No one can hope, however, that new jobs created downtown will increase our enrollment to 300. The real problem must be dealt with in a more far-reaching manner. If employment is to be given to all prospective students, forthcoming jobs in the city can be only a beginning. A cooperative farming project has been suggested. Such a project would involve putting to use the farms in this vicinity belonging to the college. Men would thus earn what they could by means of hard work. Another suggestion has been to invite some manufacturing concern to locate a plant in York and employ college men. Yet to succeed in any attempted plan, we must have the cooperation and support of the business men of York, The Y Club has already done much to secure that.

At a glee club practice Dean Amadon was giving a pep-talk, saying that he had ready replacements for those who were not sufficiently conscientious in the work of the choir. When Dean assured him that there were, Wayne Dahlstedt popped up to inquire if these girls were also on Jerry's list.

The horror gave way to a sheepish expression, as, opening the purse she carried, she displayed the missing money. She had been carrying it with her all the time.

Some light on the problem is beginning to dawn and before many years have passed, Mr. York College Fan may take his hat from his eyes, wave it over his head and whoop until he becomes hoarse.

AROUND YORK COLLEGE
By Wilmer

Wanted: A drastic censorship of the chapel films. A complaint for the "5th International": see Der Fuehrer Red or Comrade Lutz. For Sale: A third interest in the northeast quarter (NE 1-4) of the southwest half (SW 1-2) of a philosophy book. Dirt cheap.

We have passed through and are passing through relapses, depressions and recessions. Concomitant with these hard times has come a feeling of pride in antiquity. Juniors in college boast that they are wearing the same suit in which they courted their first girl back in high school. Holes in the heels of stockings are accepted as almost stylish. As we walk we endeavor to come down easily on our shoes so as to save them. Hats are worn that would raise the skeptical eye of the Salvation Army. A coat isn't broken in until it conforms with one's swagger. Barney Rees unwittingly championed this feeling the other day when he looked at his shoes and said: "The tops of my shoes look all right. I wish my soles were a little more calloused."

Norma Harris and Sease Hoofnagle—moved by a feeling for poetic expression—composed in tripping trochee this vivid description of an imagined evening at the "Con."

Parlor neckers merrily mush, Murkily mugging thru the slush, In a field of slippy, slimy slobbers,— Cut that out!

Mr. O. U. Leviticus, Editor of the Register, Dullpun, Arkansas.
Dear "Levy":

Carl Bedient and I were holding a serious discussion the other day regarding your editorial destiny. I am afraid from what he said you won't make your place in this world. He said, if brains lectual growth, suggests that these students spend four year in the Y. M. C. A. or the Elks. "These bodies have high ideals, they are organized by mutual improvement and good fellowship, and their dues are lower than the tuition our parents laid out for our college education."

In these days of scrupulosity it is hard to believe that anyone would make the mistake of giving anything away. The other day a business man, feeling the approaching cold, feared that the water in his radiator might freeze. Accordingly, he stepped into an auto supply store and inquired for some alcohol. "Is your car that one out there?" He pointed to a car with wrinkled fenders and general wear. The purchaser answered in the affirmative. "No need to buy any. Somebody just put alcohol in yours by mistake." Who said there wasn't a Santa Claus?

Trivialities: Sease and Jerry, coming back from a hike, walked through the park. They jumped from a knoll onto a road—but the road was a creek. . . . The other night a girl's basketball game was stopped because of unnecessary roughness. . . . Hankette Hanson and Katie Allison looked like Mae West all right, but they had Garbo's feet. . . . It's a good thing that Don Eberhart and Rex Lutz work in a lunch room with their amazing manias for "down with's."

Midland Scalps Gallant Five by 32-23 Count

"SUICIDE SIX" LEAD MIDWAY BUT CAN'T WITHSTAND WARRIOR PACE

Still another N. C. A. C. smearing was added to the Panther record as Coach Neal Gallant's "Suicide Six" faded in the last half and lost to the Midland Warriors, 33 to 23, at Fremont last Friday night.

Led by big "Rollo" Tonkin, the York team pulled away to a 16-12 advantage at half time. But in the last period the Warriors flashed past a tiring Panther five to roll up a decisive advantage before the gong sounded. Only five men saw action for York in the game. Electing to take only one car-load of players, Coach Gallant had just one substitute, Bob Gale, available, and Gale watched the entire fray from the sidelines.

Peterson of Midland was high point scorer of the game, netting ten counters. Tonkin topped the Blue and White with six, and Saindon was second high with five points. Starting for York were Saindon and Haberman, forwards; Tonkin and Quick, guards; and Overmiller, center.

Zetas Eke Out Double Victory Over PALS

In two steaming-hot games of basketball the Zeta men's and women's teams eked out a double victory over the PALS athletes in the college gymnasium last Friday evening. In the curtain raiser Anna May Johnson, freshman forward, hit the hoop for seventeen points to pace the Zeta females to a narrow 26 to 25 triumph, while the second game found the Zeta men overcoming a thirteen-point PALS lead in the last half to gain a 36 to 35 decision.

Rooters on both sides were in a ferment as the closing seconds of both contests found the scores tied. A free throw by Johnson in the final minute proved the undoing of the PALS in the opener. "Sease" Hoofnagle, forward for the losers, tallied fifteen points and was the sparkplug in a PALS attack that overcame a 12-9 Zeta lead at halftime and almost changed the complexion of the battle.

Hitting the basket for eleven points, nine of them in the last canto, John McLaughlin led the Zeta men to their win. It was a free throw by Forward Bill Carter in the last 25 seconds of play that finally settled the issue, however. Hugh Pursell, tiny PALS sharpshooter, led his team with five field goals and a free toss.

Big Bad Bullies of Y Club Torture Innocent Candidates

Smash! Crack! Bang! No, it isn't the war in China or a Louis-Schmeling fight. It is merely the first part of the "Y" Club's formal initiation.

Having been fed to capacity, the victims were herded like ten frightened sheep to the slaughter. Twenty-five blood-thirsty members of the clan were waiting with willing hands to wield the paddle of admittance and discipline. This paddle needed no introduction for it was already well known on the campus. But as the panorama unrolled, this red hot board was viewed with utter disregard when compared to the other punishments meted out.

Soapsuds! It sounds like a nice clean word. But there was some question about the purity of the words which accompanied the compulsory use of soapsuds as a beverage. And when it comes to concocting a green banana-llm-burger cheese combination seasoned with epsom salts, Bill McConnell has a recipe that will literally "knock you on your ear."

"No, No, A thousand times no." It could be Kate Smith but it happens to be the grand finale of the "Y" Club initiation, enacted on the chapel stage. Not content with physical abuse alone, the committee for organized torture of defenseless athletes added insult to injury. Knowing the varied talents of the recruits, the aforementioned committee assigned each to the task most fitting him. Therefore, the orator, Boehr, was heard to expound profusely on his own appeal to girls. Marlin Bedient, the famous Broadway cowboy, yodeled the "Coyotes Call." Charles Buller and "Hattie" Haberman gave their own renditions of "No, no, a thousand times no." Others proved their ability as feminine impersonators. Don Eberhart pleaded with discontented students to form a "down with —" society.

All in all, the initiates seemed to have been properly received. Just ask them.

Western Union Nips Panthers by One Basket

In a close but lackadaisical ball game the Western Union basketball team edged out a narrow victory over the York college cagers. So close was the score all through the game that in the last quarter it became apparent that the team which scored the last basket of the game would also win the game. Western Union scored the last basket and won 37 to 35.

At one time during the first half, York took 6 points in the lead, but at no other time during the game was there more than four points between the two teams. Peterson opened the game with a free throw for the Panthers which was followed immediately by a field goal by Voas for Western Union. During the next few minutes first one team and then the other took the lead until the teams tied at 8 all. York forged ahead and led at the end of the half by a score of 22 to 20. During the second half Overmiller was called from the game after four personal fouls had been called against him, and Caskey and Voas for Western Union began to find the hoop more frequently. Deep in the last quarter the score was tied at 28 all. The two teams opened fire taking the lead alternately and when the game ended Western Union held the edge 37-35.

Voas led the scoring with 17 points, closely followed by John Haberman, who, though somewhat handicapped by a leg injury, led York's scoring with 13 points. Tonkin and Overmiller, using their length to an advantage, spoiled a number of potential scores when they reached over the heads of the Western Union players to knock down well directed shots.

Wesleyan Wears Down Early York Lead

The York college Panther raised its head and snarled briefly on the night of February 4, but nobody had taught it how to bite. After getting away to a slow start the York lads following "fuzzle-dazzle" Saindon, pumped both field goals and gift tosses into the hoop to lead at the end of the first half. During the opening part of the first half, York garnered but two points, and these on Peterson's free throws. Saindon warmed up, however, and chalked up eleven points, and just as the half ended Quick came through with a nifty toss that put York out in front by a score of 15 to 14.

The second half opened with a bang. Hedges, Souders, and Barret for Wesleyan, and Quick, Haberman, and Saindon for York all opened fire at hoop and when the smoke cleared away the score was knotted at 23 all. Saindon added two points to give York the lead, but Barret tied the score again with a short field goal. The Plainsmen, led by Hedges and Souders, began to pull away and York never again held the lead. The score at the end of the game stood Wesleyan 51, York 40. Hedges of Wesleyan was high point man with 23 points. "Ferdy" Saindon stood out for the Panthers, scoring half of their total number of points. His fast breaking and clever floor work made him invaluable to the York cause. Tonkin and Quick were outstanding defensively.

They Tramped These Halls

By Prof. J. C. Morgan

Some interesting items concerning alumni: Mr. Paul Myers, '36, writes that he is now employed by the First National Bank of Elkhart, Indiana. He is especially interested in the York Scholars Association, and sends five dollars for the boiler project.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Murdoch, '28, announce the birth of a son, Daryl Eugene, on January 9, at Laurel, Nebraska. Mrs. Murdoch was Miss Dorothy Johns, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Johns, '01, now a professor in Nebraska University.

Mr. Carl Guise, C. C., '11, is serving as dean of Itasca Junior College at Coleraine, Minnesota.

The Rev. Charles Richards, C. C., '05, is pastor of the Congregational church of Seneca, Kansas, and also represents his district in the Kansas state senate.

Parley Plotner, C. C., '10, is County Treasurer of Republic County, Kansas.

Mrs. J. C. Morgan, C. C., '08, who is a member of the York Board of Education, reports this experience recently. She attended a meeting of school boards and superintendents at Norfolk and there were present also at this meeting Mr. Walter Young, ex-'17, who is a member of the Omaha Board of Education and Mr. Jake Glur, ex-'19, who is a member of the Columbus Board of Education. Many pleasant memories were revived since both of these were former students in her classes. "Walt" was an expert passer on the football team, and Jake was usually on the receiving end. Jake also had an almost unerring ability in detecting the plans of his opponents.

Miss Ada [Name] is announced of Miss Ada [Name] a former student, to Mr. James A. Fernbaugh, of Lincoln. The wedding took place on December 31 at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Frank Stowe, (Alvie Kaliff, '20), of Pekin, Ill., was a recent campus visitor.

Mrs. Floyd Thompson, (Bertha Whitaker, academy, '16), of Aurora was a chapel visitor recently.

The editor has received a letter from a friend of long standing and a graduate of Campbell College of the class of 1906. Mr. L. A. Kenoyer is now teaching in Western Teachers' College, Kalamazoo, Mich. He formerly taught at Leander Clark College, Toledo, Iowa, and in a mission school in India. He is one of the co-authors of the general biology text now used in the college. Kenoyer was famous in college for getting his Greek lesson on the way to breakfast and his math lesson while on the way to the recitation. For the past three months he has been botanizing along the Pan-American Highway in Mexico.

Rev. Paul Caskey ex-'28, former secretary to President Overmiller, is proving quite successful in his pastorate at Dacoma, Oklahoma.

The address of Will Widdoes, ex-'08, C. C., is Sebastopol, Calif. He is engaged in fruit farming.

Fred Rasp, ex-'38, who attended York College three years and is now attending the University of Nebraska this year is making an enviable record there in mathematics. The latest report is that he received the highest grade in the department.

tion", perhaps does not sound particularly intriguing at first glance, especially to the student who, with apologies to Professor W. C. Noll, has been obliged to labor through the intricacies of a course in botany, but the text itself, written in simple style, with large type, reads much like a story book. It includes a narrative of Burbank's work, with examples of plant transfer, and describes the actual work of creating new varieties of flowers and fruits, all illustrated with full color prints.

Students whose knowledge of Burbank and his work has not extended far beyond his namesake, the potato, will discover a new and interesting world of nature between the covers of these books, and others who have devoted more study to the subject, will certainly find something that they hadn't known before. Also, for the majority, who undoubtedly consider themselves too busy to spend a great deal of time in detailed perusal of such an extensive work, a swift scanning of one or two volumes, if only to glance at the pictures, would be profitable.

And if, as the poet has said, a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love, the staff suggests, for botany students in particular, a library date, where business may very agreeably be combined with pleasure, and result in mutual benefit for all parties concerned.

Charles A. Bowers Dies Suddenly

Charles A. Bowers, '13, executive secretary of the Nebraska State Teachers' Association, died suddenly at his home in Lincoln, Saturday morning, February 5. Death was attributed to heart failure.

Upon concluding his college and university education he began his teaching career at St. Edward. Later he was superintendent of schools at Ord, Exeter, and Holdrege. He was very popular with men and was president of the Nebraska School Masters' Club and the Pi Kappa Delta. He fought in the World War in the battles of Hautl-Alsace and Meuse-Argonne.

He is survived by his wife, Elma Bowers, his four children, Jack, Jean, Robert, and Gretchen, a brother, Elbert Bowers, residing at Kearney and a sister, Miss Hazel Bowers, at Roca.

CHAPEL HIGH LIGHTS

We should "put on the whole armor" said Dean Walter E. Bachman in the first chapel service of the second semester. "The breast plate of righteousness, the flexible shoes of peace, and the shield of faith should be put on" continued Dr. Bachman. He stated that the armor must be of the right type and be of the same kind as that of the opposing force to be effective.

"Our feet are very expressive . . . As the mental attitude shows in the walk so does the character," observed Prof. Charles Bisset in his chapel talk of Thursday, February 3. He stated that our feet express our anger, joy, grief, sorrow, determination, pride, laziness, and ambition.

Motion pictures on "Estes Park" and "Br'er Rabbit and His Friends" have recently been shown to the student body.

A team needs support the most when the score is against it, stated James C. Curran, a local attorney, in his pep talk in the rally of Friday, February 4. Short talks by Coach Neal Gallant and members of the team followed.

Press Guild Meets for Business and Pleasure

Mary Margaret du Rand was hostess to the Press Guild at the home of Mrs. Pence Tuesday evening, February 9, with the sponsor, Miss Edith Callender, eight active members, and seven associate members in attendance. Maurice Herrick was elected Program Chairman during the business session. The discussion of journalistic keys, letters, and awards resulted in the appointment of Norma Harris, Esther Thornton and Maurice Herrick for further consideration of the matter. Refreshments were served at the close of the hour.

COLLEGE GROUP TRAVELS

Ten representatives of York College present at the United Brethren church at Woodston, Kansas, Sunday morning, February 6, were the Rev. and Mrs. A. V. Howland and children, Regina Heatherington, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buttermore, Mary Jean Buttermore, and Lois Cobe. The Rev. Mr. Howland gave the morning message. The Howlands and Miss Heatherington visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Smithers on Saturday and Sunday. Woodston is the former home of Miss Heatherington. The remainder of the group drove to Woodston on Friday and visited until Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buttermore and family. The group returned to York on Sunday evening.
