College Co-eds Have Man Hunts For Leap Affairs

Personnel of Select Chorus Announced; Make Preparations For Spring Tour

Group To Travel 1100 Miles; Dean Amadon Directs

The personnel of the select mixed chorus was announced recently, and rehearsals are now under way, under the direction of Dean Charles Amadon, to prepare an adequate repertoire of numbers for the spring tour which annually takes the musical group into the field of the supporting constituency of York College.

Beginning their trip March 29, the selected chorus of 35 voices will tour three states, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri. Returning April 7th, they will have traveled 1100 miles.

New Officers Have Music, Leap Week Programs For PALS

The second semester officers of the PALS, who were elected February the second, were installed Tuesday, February the thirteenth.

The program consisted of an impromptu vocal solo, "Once I Went in Swimmin'," by Gerald Dierdorff, junior, of Geneva; two vocal solos, "Sweetheart, Let's Grow Old Together" and "God Bless America" by Bertha Riggs, junior, of Moline, Iowa; and a piano solo by Barbara Zimmerer, commercial student of York.

A group picture for the Marathon was taken preceding the meeting.

Group singing concluded the program.

Bill White, sophomore, Des Moines, Iowa, Scotty Heatherington, junior, Independence, Kansas, Bertha Riggs, junior, Moline, Iowa, and Arline Beason, sophomore, Circle, Montana, presented the skit "The Ideal American", based on the leap week theme, at the February twenty-fifth meeting. Alfred Kamm, junior, of Platte Center, sang "Captain Mac" and a trio consisting of Mary Lue Warner, junior, Kalispell, Montana, Verlene Witham, sophomore, York, and Jerry Dierdorff, junior, Geneva, presented "Ninety-nine women and a man".

"The Ideal American" was based on the supposition that all men assumed women's tasks, and all women visa versa.

PLACEMENT BUREAU READY FOR APPLICANTS

"Application blanks for this year for the placement bureau of York College should be in as soon as possible," says Miss Mary Alice Slee, education professor. This bureau is for the purpose of helping prospective teachers to find positions.

This agency has been working for many years. Recently more calls have come in for high school appointments than for elementary, and practically none for rural schools. Last year the most calls were for music and commercial. The more subjects a person can teach, the more apt he is to be elected, according to Miss Slee.

Records Show Y. C. Alumni Successful In Many Fields

Graduates of York College and of other United Brethren educational institutions of the Southwest area are serving humanity in many professions and many lands. Dr. Charles Birect, professor of history and social science, pointed out in an address at the College Church February 4.

Alumni of Western, later Leander Clark College, Lane University, Campbell College, Kansas City University, and York College have been found at work from New York to California and from Michigan to Mississippi. Not only in these states but in Africa, China, Persia, India, the Philippine Islands, Puerto Rico, Alaska, and South America students from these schools have been found making their contributions to the life of the people.

Not only have some seventy

RAMSAY SPEAKS TO Y. M. ON WASHINGTON THEME

"The greatest of all accomplishments is to put new hope into the hearts of men," the Rev. A. C. Ramsay, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, told the Y. M. C. A. February 20.

"George Washington by winning new freedom for the men of a great nation gave hope, not to a few men, but to an entire nation and, indeed, to all the world," Mr. Ramsay pointed out.

Speaking of the advantages of American life, Ramsay said, "I have been able to accomplish more in life in America than would be possible in any other land because of the greater freedom granted to us here."

Ralph Hines, Yuma, Colo., led the devotions. Announcement was made of the annual "Y" conference to be held at Kearney early in March.

Enola Lassell Recovering From Appendectomy

Enola Lassell, sophomore from Beach, North Dakota, underwent an emergency appendectomy Tuesday evening, February 20, at the Lutheran hospital. She is recovering very satisfactorily, according to reports.

Council Sets Date Of Spring Banquet At March 15

One of the members of the student council revealed recently that the calendar date for the opening of spring will be ignored this year and that they will sponsor the annual spring banquet on Friday evening, March 15.

Bertha Riggs, junior, of Moline, Iowa, is the chairman of the program committee. Other members of this committee are: Gladys Mohler, junior, Humacao, Porto Rico, and Charles Scott, sophomore, Leocompton, Kansas.

Catherine Woolever, sophomore, York, is in charge of the committee to arrange for a place and make other general arrangements. Kelly Saindon, senior, Zurich, Kansas, Maxine Hoover, junior, Dallas Center, Iowa, and George Shaneyfelt, freshman, Aurora, are assisting.

Jarvis Cobe, senior, of Dawson, and Otis Mattox, senior, Granger, Iowa, will be in charge of the ticket sales and advertising.

N. A. C. C. Officers Plan Spring Meeting To Be Held Here

Doctor W. E. Bachman, as secretary of the N. A. C. C., and President D. E. Weidier, as representative of the host institution, met with the Executive Committee of the Nebraska Association of Church Colleges in Lincoln on the morning of February 17. The purpose of the meeting was to plan for the spring meeting of the organization which is to be held in York the eighth and ninth of March.

Dean Bachman, who is spending this semester in Lincoln working on the book he is preparing in the field of religious education, was on the campus Wednesday and Thursday, February 21 and 22, preparing the program for the N. A. C. C. meeting for publication.

Debaters Point For Omaha Tourney

Five York College debaters, Warren Neal, Brookfield, Mo., Herbert Bryant, Marshalltown, Ia., Robert Witt, Shickley, Hugo Mierau, Henderson, and Frederick Carlsen, Muscatine, Ia., accompanied by Prof. J. C. Morgan, attended an invitation practice tournament at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln, February 17. The debaters will go to Hastings February 27 for a practice debate.

York College will be represented in the State Forensic Tournament at the Omaha Municipal University, March 7-9 by two teams of debaters consisting of Neal, Bryant, Mierau, Carlsen, and Jack Miller, Johnstown, Colo.

Henry Hansen, Des Moines, Ia., will participate in the Old Line oratorical contest delivering his original oration, "Give Us This Day."

Miller will be the York College representative in the after dinner speaking contest. This contest forms part of the program of the Annual State Forensic Banquet to be held on the evening of March 8. Miller will draw a topic for his speech on the evening preceding the contest.

Participants in the tournament accompanied by their coach, Miss Alma Tress Lundman, will leave York on the forenoon of March 7.

Many Activities Crowd Leap Week As Cupid Reverses Methods

GALE IS EMPLOYED IN EASTMAN LABS.

Robert Gale, '39, has accepted a position with the Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, New York. He is employed in the research and testing laboratories in the department of sensitometry. There are about twelve men working in this department testing films.

Gale majored in chemistry at York College and did graduate work at the University of Nebraska last semester. He reports that this is an "excellent place to put a knowledge of chemistry into practical use." His address is 14 Clay avenue, Rochester, N. Y.

Women Defy Old Rip At Initiation, Slumber Party

Noah Webster describes slumber as sleeping lightly or quietly. Therefore, at a slumber party girls should at least pretend to sleep instead of completely defying "ye olde" Van Winkle legend. But the YW cabinet slumber party in the YW room under the library, on the night of February 16, was indeed a hilarious party, and those who felt the need of sleep went home.

This is an annual affair with the purpose of initiating new officers and honoring retiring cabinet members. New officers are Vera Blinn, Winnie Noble, Shirley Talbott, and Audrey Zike. Those retiring are Leona Berry, Marjorie Cook, Lois Miller, and Arline Beason. Other members remain the same.

Lois Miller and Marjorie Cook were chairmen of the committees. Mary Lue Warner is the retiring president, and Helen Lumbus will soon assume the presidency.

MRS. MORGAN TELLS OF "BEAUTY OF SERVICE" AT Y. W. C. A. MEETING

"You are just a vessel of clay, but you hold in your hands the roots of the Easter-lily," quoted Mrs. J. C. Morgan, guest speaker for the Y. W. C. A. February 20, as she told the story "The Little Red Flower Pot" by Henry Van Dyke.

The story concerned a small lump of clay who, "though the Creator had seen fit to make him so ugly," found enjoyment in watching others. As the story progressed further, the lump of clay was taken to a molding plant and later, as a "little red flower pot," found happiness in serving others.

Doris Landon led the group in singing "I Would Be True" as an opening number. The meeting closed following group singing of a round, "While Choral Bells", also led by Miss Landon.

Helen Lumbus served as program chairman.

Harris Visits Campus Enroute To New Mexico

Norma Harris '39, Great Falls, Montana, was on the campus over the week-end visiting former classmates and the faculty members. Miss Harris is on her way to accept a teaching position at El Calde, New Mexico.

Y. W. Has Special Features For Unusual Fun Week

The greatest man hunt in the history of Y. C. is on. The dime stores have been raided and rounds of amorous ammunition laid by. Poor man slinks about; woman sharpens her repartee, plucks her eyebrows, winks, and adds another to her growing date list. 'Tis "leap week."

In short, leap year has been condensed into a week, and all feminine wooing has been stepped up in ratio.

Meticulous to the last degree, the women have made out a calendar of events to which men may be taken economically. It robs the week of surprise, but adds feminine security.

In any great struggle, participants usually wear some uniform to signify the common cause. In the case of leap week, it is a red ribbon bow, tied neatly in the hair of each woman in active competition.

Although leap week started February 25, it was the activities on Tuesday that gave the impetus to an incipient institution. Tuesday was commencement day at Madame Sylvia's School of Enchantment, a school erected on the

Zeta Heads Installed; Ladies In Control At Leap Week Meet

Rosemary McCormick was elected vice president of the Zetas, Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, to replace Ralph Schmidt who had been previously elected but had resigned. Carmen Ware, Gertrude Lindstrom, Andy Jordan, and Phyllis Foster were voted in as new members.

The new officers were installed with Henry Hansen taking over the role of president. Mr. Gale, the man with the camera, was there and he snapped a picture of the Zetas for the Marathon.

At the business meeting, plans were made to hold the annual Zeta-PALS basketball classic, Tuesday evening, March 5. There will be a game for both the men and the women. A new ruling will prevent all college men who have been members of either the A or B basketball playing squad, from participating in this event. According to the Zeta president, if this rule proves satisfactory, it may be permanently adopted by the societies.

Leap week, and what happens when the ladies are in control, was made more clear by the Zeta program, Tuesday evening, February 27. The program consisted of a reading entitled "The courting of four sons by a daughter", by Jimmie Koontz; a mock wedding; a piano solo by Lucile Haub; and a reading by Elwin Phillips. Partners were chosen by finding a member of the opposite sex who was singing the same song that he or she was singing. Refreshments were served and games were played.

They Tramped These Halls

By PROF. J. C. MORGAN

Since the Historian of the Alumni Association is not a mind reader, he does not know the thousand and one things of note that the many alumni of York College have been doing the past month. Neither has any proverbial little bird coming from here and there told him. Hence a word to the wise, and all York alumni are wise, is sufficient. So, as one publication remarked, "News is scarce this week."

On the York County basketball tournament held last week, the Henderson team coached by Charles Lenihan, '34, won first honors.

Miss Regina Heatherington, ex-'40, is now preaching at Toronto, Kansas.

Robert Gale, '39, has accepted a position with the research department of the Eastman Kodak company at Rochester, New York. In a letter to his parents here in York, Robert expressed his pleasure of working with the Eastman firm and also his satisfaction with Rochester.

Miss Norma Harris, '39, and Mrs. Dulcie Overmiller were campus visitors the week end of Feb. 17 and 18. Miss Harris is on her way to Santa Cruz, New Mexico to take a position in the McCurdy Mission School.

Miss Hazel Emma Morgan, '39, was a York visitor Feb. 24 and 25. She is teaching at Hayes Center, Nebr.

Mrs. Esther McLaughlin Marshall, '25, is teaching this year at Mascot.

Irwin Wall, ex-'39, is teaching at Union, Ore., in a large high school. He teaches four classes in English. He is planning to visit in York sometime next summer.

Wendell Johnson, ex-'38, is now employed at Grand Island, at the government air port.

Record Is Made Of Names Printed In The Sandburr

To ascertain the different students and departments which are most prominent in the Sandburr publications, staff members have been keeping record of the names appearing in each issue.

Up to the present time there are six people whose names have appeared more than twenty times in the issues of the Sandburr this year. Having been in print 32 times, Harold Haberman's name leads the list. Jerry Dierdorff and Bill White were second highest with 27 times. Others appearing with more than 20 were Scott Heatherington, Lois Miller, and Ferdinand Saindon.

Nearly every student enrolled has appeared in the news at least once.

More names have appeared in athletics, with the music and dramatics departments showing up to be close second.

Press Guild Initiates New Members At Banquet

New members were initiated into the Press Guild at their banquet Thursday evening, February 22. President Jerry Dierdorff presided as Master of Ceremonies.

Being called upon unexpectedly, several initiates had to make impromptu speeches. Du Wayne Grimes spoke upon the subject "Why Would George Washington Chop-Chop the Style Sheet?" Bill White gave some opinions on "If the European crisis is terrific, why do cakes fall?" Frances Bullock solved the question "Why is it warmer in Chicago than in May?" Following this was a vocalization of "In the Garden" by Fred Carlsen, soprano, and Otis Mattox, alto.

The style sheet review enabled several to reveal their designing abilities. Judges were Robert Spore and Wayne Dahlstedt. To conclude the initiation, new members were compelled to write a story of the evening's program.

Those initiated were: Mrs. Velma Anderson, Ellsworth Carlson, Fred Carlsen, Stine Douglas, DuWayne Grimes, Alden Harris, Betty Jordan, Robert Oswald, Deane Tack, Frances Bullock, Al Zerwekh, and Bill White.

The Class Bore

(Ed. Note—Miss Norma Harris, '39, who was a visitor on the York College campus two weeks ago, was the originator of several fictitious youngsters such as "Oscar" and "Junior", energetic little scamps who always had something clever to say or do.

Because of her clever way of putting her characters in humorous situations and endowing them with innocent but entertaining wit, and because of her own jovial, friendly personality, Miss Harris was called upon many times to present or write little "skits".

Upon request, being an old Sandburr reporter herself, Miss Harris submitted this article, formerly a paper written for a composition course, depicting her idea of a typical "class bore."

With four or five books and notebooks under his arm, the class bore comes swaggering into the room. His head is held high as he surveys the other students, and a calculating self-satisfied smirk comes onto his face as he confidently thinks of what an exemplary student he is, of how the students surely appreciate the knowledge he constantly volunteers, and of how fortunate the teacher is in having such a helpful, self-appointed assistant in teaching the ignorant people taking this course.

He begins his impression-making by laughing profusely at the professor's least attempt at joking. Then, warming to his task, he eagerly answers the first question by a dissertation beginning with the remark, "I rather suspect—", or "My opinion is—". What he says for the next five minutes I cannot tell you for no one knows. The professor is busy trying to think of a polite way to interrupt or a clever way to squelch him. The students gesticulate behind his back, pretending to sleep, to snore, or to listen vacantly with a morose expression. Some don't even pretend to listen. By the time he has almost completely demoralized the class he brings his speech to a close and gazes around for the adulation of his fellow students. As the instructor lectures, the class bore continually nods his head in agreement or shakes it negatively. He winks visibly and simpers audibly whenever the teacher happens to use an extraordinarily technical term or a long word which is beyond the vocabulary of the ordinary student. He always knows the lessons for a week ahead. He tells, whenever possible, countless anecdotes which only vaguely relate to the lesson. He often speaks disparagingly of famous men. He invariably calls these same great men by their nick-names—such as, "Andy" Jackson, "Tom" Jefferson, or "Old Bill" Shakespeare.

If the professor asks the students' opinion he always takes it upon himself to answer, consciously using the largest words

Future World Trade Is Discussed At Inter-Rel Meet

World trade and its future was the topic discussed by the International Relations Club at their regular meeting February 22.

Robert MacCanon, senior, Des Moines, Iowa, and Donald Porter, sophomore, Aurora, reviewed a book by a British economist, Salter, entitled "World Trade and its Future".

MacCanon discussed the first half of the book which concerned World trade before and after the first World war.

Porter discussed trade during the depression, factors in the present situation, and a policy for world trade in the future.

Charles Whitney, senior, Aurora, conducted a short open forum discussion on some of the points mentioned in the book.

Professor E. I. Doty, the faculty sponsor, conducted a brief business meeting following adjournment.

and the most minute detail of which he is capable. Sometimes, despairing of the knowledge of the one teaching, he explains a problem to the class in his own way. Once in a while he deigns to ask the teacher a question. Usually he merely wants to show off his own deep reasoning ability. No one has ever been able to find out why, but every class bore has previously attended a larger, superior university where he has had the same work under famed, more learned men. He is always remarking "Professor Fuzzypuss of Utopia State always used to say . . .".

The class bore (with all apologies to Charles Lamb) is the most prolix thing in nature, a piece of indulgent verbosity, a user of circumlocution, a purveyor of tautology, a conveyor of pleonasm, a planter of verbiage, a Miss Bates in the seat next to you, an Ancient Pistol shadowing you, a nail in your shoe, an invader of your dreams, a conceited weaver, an utter nonentity, the one thing you never need—yet there is one in every class.

woman should find out for what purpose. The ceremonies were held in Y. W. C. A. at the regular meeting time.

On Monday the men received a personal invitation to attend the school, and they arrived Tuesday to hear Bertha Riggs as Madame Sylvia give an introductory talk following a professional by Miss Eda Rankin. Lois Miller offered a marimba solo, and Frances Bullock, alias Madame Lovejoy, a woman familiar with love intrigue, gushed out the commencement address. The Sweethearts' Trio, consisting of Rosemary McCormick, Verlene Witham, and Elaine West placed Cupid in a jovial mood; and then turned the meeting back to Madame Sylvia, who presented printed diplomas to all women leap week contestants adorned with heart-shaped, betasseled mortar boards, then led the entire assembly in singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Tuesday was confession day, too, for the girls all wore love knots of various colored ribbons in the vicinity of the heart, each color revealing the following conviction: red, man hater; pink, bashful; white, going steady; green, fancy free; blue, in love; and yellow, after a man.

Compressing an entire year into a week leaves repercussions inevitable, and for these explosions a roving reporter sounded deep into student opinion:

Carl Biedert: "Interesting project for diversion. The majority of us will have an opportunity to catch up on study."

Frances Bullock: "Yeah man."

Max Oswald: "Wallflowers will blossom. Economical, too."

Betty Jordan: "I'm bashful."

Marlin Biedert: "I've got a date. Not bad."

Evidently leap week is being approved by all; there are no misgivings the poll reveals, but even Gallup can be wrong occasionally.

Panthers Drop Two Conference Tilts To Wesleyan, Doane

York dropped definitely out of the running for honors in the upper bracket of conference wins when the Fighting Panthers dropped a heart-breaker to Nebraska Wesleyan 39-30, on the Lincoln maples, February 18, and another to Doane at Crete last Friday night after leading with only three minutes to go. A last desperate Tiger rush did the trick and left the local boys on the short end of a 49-38 score.

Wesleyan Leads all the Way

In the Wesleyan game, the Lincolntes pushed ahead of a ragged Panther crew at the start and stayed there. Spurts of scoring kept them in the lead from five to ten points in all four quarters.

Elb Souders, Plainsman one-hand artist, held up the Wesleyan scoring the first half with a hot streak that netted him 11 points by intermission. Close guarding by Saindon, who was assigned to him, held him to only two free throws in the concluding quarters.

What offensive power the Panthers could muster came mostly from Saindon and Shaneyfelt, each scoring nine points. Feaster added seven to the Panther total.

Every one of Wesleyan's nine men found the hoop, Souders and Metzler, lanky center, leading with 13 and 8 points respectively.

Max Quick, back-court mainstay, injured his leg in the fray, and was kept out of the Midland and Sterling games. Paul McLaughlin ably replaced Quick at the guard post.

Cubs Drop Second One

Fading out in the last minute, the Panther Cubs bowed to the Plainsmen's seconds for the second time this year, 29-24. Friesen was high point for the Cubs with nine counters.

Panthers Lead Doane

The Doane game looked more like the real thing when the Panthers, surprising the Tigers with an early burst of scoring, ran up a 10-2 lead and stayed ahead at the quarter 12-10. The see-sawing of the second period left Doane leading 23-21 at the half.

Still clinging close through the last half, the Panthers went ahead 35-34, but Doane's finishing kick gave them the victory.

Outstanding player on the floor was Belka, Tiger center, who shot and hit from anywhere to account for 24 points, half of his team's total.

Saindon Is High for York
"Kelly" Saindon was the only Panther scorer to get under way. He sparked York's attack with 14 counters, the rest of the Yorkmen scoring evenly.

Tall Paul McLaughlin moved over from his guard post to fill the center vacancy for the Panthers.

With this game the Gallantmen completed their conference schedule with a record of three won, five lost.

"Hot Shots" Still Hot In Women's Intermural Tourney

In the women's intermural basketball tournament, the Sure Shots won over the Leaping Lenas, and the Hot Shots defeated the Zippers in the second of the series of games, Saturday evening, February 17.

In the first game the Leaping Lenas were the victims of the Sure Shots in a fast contest ending with a 25 to 12 score. Imogene Smith paced the Sure Shots with 10 points.

The Hot Shots, in the second game of the evening, grabbed an early advantage over the Zippers in the first half, but the Zippers applied pressure in the second half making their final score 15 to the Hot Shots' 26 total points.

Amy Speece, lightning forward of the Hot Shots, sifted in 17 points while Gladys Mohler, Zippers' captain, followed up close with a total of 11 points.

In the next series of the tournament, played February 22, the Zippers defeated the Sure Shots 29 to 18, and the Hot Shots trimmed the Leaping Lenas 34 to 8 in games that provided all the thrills and spills of a varsity fray.

The Sure Shots were put away by the Zippers in a fast battle which had a 21 to 8 half-time score. Gladys Mohler and Doris Holloway together made 23 points for the Zippers while the baskets made by the Sure Shots were evenly distributed.

The inexperienced Leaping Lenas were literally caught by the Hot Shots on an "off evening." Due to Lois Miller's close guarding, the score for the Hot Shots was 16 to the opponents' 0 at the half. In the second half the Leaping Lenas gathered 8 points to the Hot Shots' final score of 34. Amy Speece and Bette Crum accounted for most of these. Although the final score was one-sided, the Leaping Lenas battled all the way through.

Panthers Take Midland Warriors In Overtime Period 46-43

Kansas Quintet Sets Too Hot Pace For Gallantmen

A hot Sterling, (Kans.) College basketball five uncorked a high-geared offensive here Saturday, Feb. 17 to roll over the tired Panther crew, 54-34. The Panthers had subdued stubborn Midland in an overtime period just the night before.

Kansans Hit from First

From the opening minute when Tunnel began the Sterling assault on the basket with an overhead flip, it was apparent that the Kansans were hitting. Tunnel who utilized fake and turn shots to perfection showed the way for Sterling with 14 points, while Kreie with 13 and Helm with 12 helped bury the struggling Panthers.

The Kansas team, with their criss-cross offense and off-balance shots, displayed a wide-open game which kept the Panthers on the run. Though generally hard to bowl over on their home floor, York could not match the visitors' pace, and the Warriors piled up a big margin.

Like the Wesleyan encounter, much of the game was follow the leader, with York doing the following. Only 6 points behind at the first stop, the Panthers trailed 21-12 at the half, and after Sterling's third period splurge of scoring, were behind 42-23.

Warriors Have Height

Kreie and Helm fired from well out, and Sanderson and Tunnel did dangerous work under the basket to account for most of these third quarter points. A distinct advantage in height helped the Warriors.

Bud Feaster's scoring eye was good for nine points for Panther honors. Guard Haddie Haberman registered seven to be second high.

The game closed York's home season in which they won three of seven games played.

Close Game Gives York Third Conference Win

Although hard pressed all the way, York College defeated the Midland Warriors from Fremont 46-43 in an overtime game on the college maples, Friday, February 16.

With five seconds remaining to be played in the game, Harold Haberman fouled Dean Draemel. Draemel missed the free throw and the score was 41-41 at the end of the regular playing time.

Ferdinand Saindon sank a long archer from the side court to start the scoring in the overtime period. Myron Draemel made one for Midland. George Shaneyfelt added two points and Paul McLaughlin made a free shot for York, making the final score 46-43.

Shaneyfelt, York's freshman center, and M. Draemel, Midland forward, tied for top scoring honors with 16 counters each. Green of Midland accounted for ten points while Saindon made 9.

Score Close All the Way
The first period ended with the score tied up 9-9. Midland led at the half time 26-21. Tied again 34-34 at the beginning of the fourth, both teams went to work with a will but neither could build up a substantial lead. After forty minutes of playing, the score was 41-41.

Max Quick, injured in the Wesleyan game, conceded his guard position to McLaughlin, whose height was an asset to the Panthers.

Science and Christianity

We are living in a scientific age, marked by reasoning which leads to definite and rather conclusive deductions. The engineer says that a certain dam will withstand so much pressure because the amount and quality of material in the structure meets specific requirements. The doctor says Mrs. Smith's baby has straight hair and brown eyes because every member of the family for generations back has had straight hair and brown eyes. Both of these answers seem very obvious and simple, but the scientific thinking behind these and all problems—physical, biological, and spiritual—is detailed and thorough.

To answer the "why", "how", and "from whence" concerning our bio-spiritual lives, geneticists and religious leaders apply the same method of thought and deduction the laboratory technicians use in solving physical problems. Many new discoveries and facts have been uncovered during recent years in regard to genetics and life. Although the scientific principles involved in these discoveries sometimes challenge Christian living, they never in any way try to destroy Christianity, but rather strengthen and uphold the ideals of Christ-like living.

It is to this end that the Christian colleges are working through their biology departments. They are trying to present these new discoveries of life, what it is, whence it came, and how it is to be perpetuated, in such a way that Christianity approves of the method and scope in its research. Geneticists don't ask that the church accept every new idea they bring to light, but they do desire that the church understand their quest for truth. It is hoped that through these discoveries and experiments a better formula for complete and peaceful living will evolve.

PERSONNEL OF SELECT CHORUS ANNOUNCED; MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR TOUR

Small Groups Included

The variety of talent within the chorus makes it possible for two distinct programs to be given without repetition. Some of the more outstanding group divisions will be the men's chorus, the women's chorus, and the male quartet. There are two trios and a string trio. Several of the chorus will give vocal solos and instrumental solos on the trumpet, trombone, piano, violin, and cello.

The chorus intends to visit the following places on the dates indicated: Concordia, March 29; Salina, March 30; Wichita, March 31; Enid, March 31; Oklahoma City, April 1; Tulsa, April 2; Coffeyville, April 3; Parsons, April 3; Chanute, April 5; Kansas City University church, April 6; and Topeka, April 6.

missionaries, scores of ministers, and hundreds of teachers been educated in these colleges, but they have sent out doctors, lawyers, statesmen, engineers, journalists, psychologists, sociologists, men outstanding in various fields of scientific research, business men, and farmers.

Many United Brethren leaders including the late Bishop and Mrs. A. B. Statton, Vera Blinn, founder of the Otterbein Guild, Dr. C. E. Ashcraft, dean of Bonebrake Theological Seminary, Dr. O. T. Deever, general secretary of the denominational board of Christian Education, Dr. A. W. Drury, theologian and historian, M. R. Drury, associate editor of the Telescope, Dr. C. W. Brewbaker, pastor and writer, as well as many conference superintendents and others were educated in colleges in the Southwest Area.

Religious leaders of other churches and men prominent in interchurch work like Omar Hite, formerly editor of the Christian Herald, came from United Brethren colleges in this section.

Outstanding educators graduating from York College and the earlier institutions include Lewis Bookwalter, president of Leander Clark College; C. M. Brook, president of Lane University; P. O. Bonebrake, president of Campbell College and later of Philomath College; Jeremiah George, president of York College, W. E. Schell, president of York College and later general secretary of the board of Christian Education; T. D. Crites, president of Campbell College and Kansas City University; J. R. Overmiller, president of York College; W. G. Brooks, president of Illinois Wesleyan University; and L. R. Gregory, president of State Normal School, Fredonia, N. Y.

The United States Commissioner of Education, John W. Studebaker, and Congressman U. S. Guyer of Kansas are both alumni of Leander Clark College.

Among members of the faculty of York College who are graduates of one of the United Brethren colleges of the West are: J. C. Morgan, Earl I. Doty, W. C. Noll, Miss Edith Callender, Coach Neal Gallant, R. E. Townsend, Dr. Charles Bisset, and the pastor of the College Church, the Rev. A. L. Deever.

The Rev. and Mrs. I. N. Cain who lost their lives in West Africa in 1898 were alumni of Leander Clark College.

Lincoln Is Honored At Recruit Meeting

"The greatest element in the life of Abraham Lincoln was his implicit faith in God", declared Dr. A. P. Vannice, Nebraska conference superintendent, at the meeting of Life Work Recruits, February 12. Dr. Vannice stated that Lincoln was great because of what he was and did, and that anyone may learn lessons of leadership and integrity from him. He closed with an original, present-day "Gettysburg Address."

Lenore Stephenson, Archie, Missouri, led the devotions. Preceding the meeting a picture of this group was taken for the Marathon.

On February 19, Miss Zelda Wakelin stated that having a sense of humor gives the ability to see objectively. She cited several theories of Rene Descartes, a seventeenth century French philosopher. His outstanding principle was, "I think, therefore I exist".

Lois Miller played a medley of hymns on the marimba, and Enola Lassell read the scripture. At this meeting the group decided to buy a picture of Christ in Gethsemane for the Reception room, in which they meet.

Cubs Lose Practice Game

In a rough sea-saw battle staged on the York College maples, the Polk Swedes, of Polk, gained a one point lead near the end of the game to defeat the Panther Cubs, 31-30.

SPORTS REVIEW . . .

Ripley and us both used this one: It seems that Butch, in doing a little snooping and scouting, came across this phenomenal incident.

A few years ago when the first team of the Zurich, Kansas, primary grade school played basketball with the Codell "Wildcats", from a few miles away, a terrific battle took place, and after the smoke cleared up and the hair and claws were swept up in a nice neat pile, Zurich had won by the score of two to nothing, and our own F. F. E. Saindon was high point man. He modestly testifies that he made the two points of the game on free throws. Which just goes to show: "Once a star, always a star".

Our chambers usurped . . .

We, the staff of the Register, don't want to complain. But there once was said something about the sanctity of a newspaper office. The Sandburr staff has kindly consented to let us work in their office, and we consider it a rare privilege. At first we said nothing when somebody turned the editorial room into a gallery for the last histrionic play (although a life was almost lost in attempting to open one of the bottom desks in the pile). Those things seemed mild. But just the other day Leviticus was trying to type with a moving picture machine buzzing beside him. Now they've gone and built a little projection room for the thing, and Penelope remarked that the projection room "projected" so well, that she had difficulty ascertaining in which room she should work. These are just minor inconveniences, we know, and we believe in democracy. But please don't put any more chairs in here. We have so many now we can't sit down.
