Council-Sponsored Spring Banquet Takes Place At Church With Program, Decorations of "Cleaning" Theme

Jack Miller Is Toastmaster of Annual Informal Affair

With a program and decorations centered about the theme of "Spring Cleaning", the annual informal Spring Banquet sponsored by the Student Council was held at the United Brethren Church on Thursday, March 20. Jack Miller, junior of Pueblo, Colorado, acted as toastmaster for the occasion.

Miniature step ladders, tiny mops, and scrub buckets furnished the center pieces for the tables, and spider webs consisting of a network of strings with balloon-made spiders decorated the corners of the room, adding to the atmosphere.

"Mother Miller", alias Jack Miller, introduced the speakers and entertainers with some term relating to "spring cleaning". Several brief and humorous toasts were given by the following: Max "dust rag" Oswald, Betty Jo "scrub bucket" Ericson, Vera "glo-coat" Blinn, and Bruce "trash can" Herrick.

Shifting for a moment from the humorous to a more serious side of the program, Professor "carpet beater" Noll stated in his toast that we ought to beat out the blunders and wrongs in the tapestries of our lives and remember to leave in such things as our obligations to others, encouraging words and kindnesses, good counsel, health, opportunities, and noble purposes in life, and always look for new achievements.

Others on the program were; Elaine "paper hanger" West, who sang a medley of popular songs arranged with impersonations, accompanied at the piano by Carmen Ware; Larry "squeegie" Smith, accordionist, who played the Twelfth Street Rag; Coach Earl "paint brush" Tonkin, who sang "Return With The Spring-Time Auchusla Machrea" and "Sylvia", accompanied by Larry Smith. A humorous skit "Beauty Contest" given by the "scrub sisters" Bill White, Harvey Peters, Paul Worthington, and George Shaneyfelt, climaxed the affair.

Seniors Entertain Juniors At Patriotic Party Tonight

A patriotic theme featuring toy soldiers, games, and music will mark the annual junior-senior party at which the juniors will be entertained by the senior class this evening at the U. B. Church.

Lois Cobe, Gladys Mohler, and Henry Hansen are the members of the general committee for the party.

Helen Lumbus and Audrey Zike are working on the food committee.

Invitations are being written by Lodema Frieden and Betty Jo Ericson.

Cain Award Goes To Speece

Amy Speece, York, received the Mary Mutch Cain award at the Senior Recognition Service on March 13. Miss Speece is the president of the senior class, and during her four years in college has been outstanding in many activities, mainly histrionics and athletics.

Mrs. Cain was a graduate of Leander Clark College in Toledo, Iowa, and a missionary in Africa. She was killed during an uprising of African natives. Her friends have erected this living memorial of several dollars to be given each year to the senior girl chosen by the faculty women as the one who most nearly represents the character of Mrs. Cain.

Faculty Issues Invitations, Makes Ready For Reception

Invitations have been issued to the student body for the annual faculty reception, to be held April 4 in the reception rooms of the United Brethren church.

A program of dramatics and music will be presented by the faculty. Miss Alma Tress Lundman is general chairman of arrangements. Committees appointed are as follows:

Refreshments: Miss Gladys Pearson, Mrs. Muriel Thomas Clarke, Miss Edith M. Callender, Miss Zelda M. Wakelin, Prof. W. J. Karkaker, and Prof. J. C. Morgan.

Properties: Miss Mary Alice Slee, Prof. Charles Bisset, Prof. E. I. Doty, Miss Irene Foster, and Prof. Frederick Von Wicklen.

Program: Miss Alma Tress Lundman, Miss Anna J. Thompson, Miss Mary Alice Slee, and Prof. Charles Bisset.

Invitations: Miss Anna J. Thompson, and Prof. R. E. Townsend.

Decorations: Miss Irene Thompson, Mrs. W. E. Bachman, Miss Eda Rankin, Coach R. E. Tonkin, Prof. Lloyd C. Oleson, and Prof. W. C. Noll.

N. A. C. C. Reelects Bachman To Secretary Post

Once again, in the N. A. C. C. meeting at Lincoln last week-end, church college representatives re-elected York's Dean W. E. Bachman as secretary of the Association. This is Dean Bachman's fourth term in that position.

Thirteen Y. C. faculty members attended the convention. The general topic for consideration in the various meetings was what colleges can do to improve the preparation of high school teachers.

Several general meetings were held in connection with the convention. Outstanding speakers were, Dr. Russell M. Cooper of Mt. Vernon, Ia., Dean T. Raymond McConnell of the University of Minnesota, Chancellor C. S. Boucher of the University of Nebraska, and C. Ray Gates, superintendent of the Grand Island schools.

Departmental meetings took place Saturday. Prof. W. C. Noll and Prof. Edith Callender of York's faculty had charge of the Biological and English departments, respectively. William C. Hice, '34, of the English department of Fremont high school, and president of the Nebraska Council of Teachers of English, was one of the speakers in the English departmental meeting.

OPERATION FOR AUCHARD

Edward Auchard, senior of Luray, Kansas, underwent an appendectomy at the Lutheran hospital, Monday, March 17. His parents, the Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Auchard Luray, were in York for a short time.

Alumni Units Start Active Work

"Recent activities of the York College alumni associations are gratifying", according to Pres. D. E. Weidler, who has received an invitation from the Chicago unit for the members of the York College chorus to be its guests during their stay in Chicago on their spring tour. The Los Angeles unit is planning a meeting to be held at the First United Brethren church of Los Angeles, April 12, and the York county unit held its initial meeting March 18.

Dara Mohler, '21, of Chicago was elected president of the Chicago unit at its initial meeting held March 9, and Clara Belle King, '18, of East Chicago, Indiana, was elelected secretary. Eleven alumni were present.

"Every alumnus within reach is urged to be present at the Los Angeles meeting and to send his name and address to Mrs. Nathan Gutschow (Marion Shambaugh, '34), 538 South Friends Avenue, Whittier, California," according to Mrs. Gutschow, chairman of that unit.

How to promote the fiftieth anniversary drive and how to form a better alumni organization in York county were the plans considered at the York county unit. Plans were also made and a committee appointed to interview all York county alumni and former York College students concerning their contributions to the anniversary drive. The committee was also asked to propose a ballot for the election of new officers. There were about 25 alumni members and friends present.

Seminary Pres. Speaks Here

"The Reason for Living" was the subject Dr. Walter N. Roberts, president of Bonebrake Theological Seminary at Rayton, Ohio, chose for his chapel address to the York college student body on Thursday, March 20.

Quoting Robert Wicks, Dr. Roberts said, "The reason for living is to cooperate with others in helping something better to become real." Then, using this quotation as the theme, he went on to say, "Happiness and satisfaction are by-products of cooperation with others in helping something better to become real. We find happiness by losing ourselves in something noble. We derive the deepest satisfaction from life by living in an unselfish way."

After citing several instances of men who had lived with a purpose and had fulfilled that pur-

Speech Group Enters State Meet At Wayne

Debaters Also Tangle With University Team

Seven York College debaters, composing 3 teams participated in the State Forensic tournament at Wayne State Teachers College March 12-15. Two teams of men and one of women were entered.

The men's A team composed of Floyd Richert and Edward Auchard, broke even, winning four of eight debates. The men's B team made up of Robert Jones and Stine Douglas won two of six, and the women's team of Arline Beason and Lorena Wygle with Marjorie Warner as alternate, won two of five.

Richert also represented Y. C. in the old-line oratorical contest with his original oration, "The Last Shift". Jack Miller entered the after dinner speaking contest and Edward Auchard was York's entry in the extemporaneous division.

Last Friday a debate team from the University of Nebraska met at York College team during the chapel period.

Lorena Wygle and Floyd Richert composed the York team. Wygle replaced Edward Auchard who was in the hospital recovering from an appendicitis operation. The question for debate was, "Resolved: That the Nations of the Western Hemisphere Should Form a Permanent Union."

No judges' decision was rendered in the debate.

Histrionic Club Works On Two Three-Act Plays

Members of the Histrionic Club are working on two three-act plays to be presented in the near future. The first is a drama by Frederick Jackson, entitled "The King's Messenger."

Another cast is engaged in rehearsing "The Impatience of Job", which is a character comedy by Pauline Phelps and Marian Short.

pose in various fields, Dr. Roberts said that every legitimate piece of work, or any worthy occupation, should be sacred to the Christian, and that a person should invest his life where he can most effectively serve.

Sec. Heatherington Reveals All About Y-Club Benefit

For the benefit of Y-Club finances, a combination program and box-social will be staged April 7, says Scott Heatherington, secretary of the athletes' organization. According to Heatherington, the benefit is the first of what will be an annual occurrence.

Working with the Y-Club will be the W. A. A., which organization will see that boxes are provided for masculine bidders.

Plans for the program are being made apace, Heatherington states. All performers on the program will be drafted from Y-Club ranks, and students may expect to see a play and numerous other features.

"Not the least of these will be the Hominy quartet, so-called because they are so corny," announced the secretarial Heatherington.

Heatherington attributes the lack of money in Y-Club coffers to the fact that membership in the organization has been at a low ebb the past year. New football lettermen will help out, however, when they pay their dues.

Inquiry concerning the identity of the auctioneer for the social resulted in the admission that it was probably the secretary's duty.

Reporter Gets First Flight Reactions

"Give me my plane and helmet", seems to be the cry of our ten new flying aces-in-the-making.

One air-minded student disregarded the old superstition that the Ides of March signified an evil omen when he soared for the first time into the atmosphere March 15. Typical of many college students, this prospective aviator arose later than usual on Saturday morning, little expecting anything out of the ordinary in the day's routine. However, about 9:00 o'clock, the ground instructor, Prof. W. J. Karkaker, called and told him that information had been received from authorities in Washington, D. C., saying that everything had been approved and that the next step was actual flying. The student lost no time in going to the airport where the pilot gave him the preliminary instructions before "taking off."

This student's first experience was quite different from that of some of the other beginners in that it had little effect on his digestive system or his sense of equilibrium.

"As the pilot and I were trying to acquire momentum, we got stalled in the mud and I had to push," said another prospective member of the air corps. "No, we were not in a dust storm" he added; "the mud was on the runway."

The one and only prospective aviatrix in the class was expecting a real thrill when she "went up", but was somewhat disappointed in that the instructor refrained from "cutting capers". "But the thrill will come when I solo," she declared. (Who said women didn't like to be alone?)

"I was having the time of my life until the pilot decided I should know what sensation one receives when going into a dive, and then it seemed that my stomach became dislocated first in one direction and then in the other," commented another student.

Some of the students aren't sure just why they are learning to fly. Perhaps they think the eagles will stage an endurance test in the future and they may compete. Others say they may eventually enlist in the navy air corps and contribute their services to the protection of Old Glory.

"We all like the hum of the motors, but some of us cannot keep them in tune," one of the class declared.

They Tramped These Halls

By Prof. J. C. Morgan

Miss Wrelda Wrye, '33, who is a senior this year at Bonebrake Theological Seminary, is holding a two weeks' meeting at Webster City, Iowa, where the Rev. Russell Hanson is pastor.

Mr. Thornton Miller, '29, writes that his new address is 2107 Washington Street, East Charleston, W. Va., instead of 424 Elizabeth St. of the same city. He is employed by the Farm Credit Administration and his particular position is that of a field representative of the Credit Union Section. He covers several counties in each of the states of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. He adds: "The Sandburr is read from cover to cover."

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Huebert, ex-'40, announce the birth of a son, Michael Wayne. Their present address is 416 Twelfth street, S. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Robert G. Morgan, ex-'43, has finished his course in Aerial Mechanics at Rantoul, Illinois, and after a brief vacation, will be transferred to a school in California.

ENTERTAINS STUDENTS

Mrs. J. B. Butter, 651 East 7th Street, entertained several college students at her home Wednesday evening, March 19. Stine Douglas, Floyd Richert, Elwyn Phillips, and Nyle Douglas, were the guests of honor. Others present included Daryl Severin, May Martin, Margaret Bollinger, Mary Lue Warner, Lorena Wygle, Gladys Mohler, and Arline Beason.

Zetas Hear Savery; PALS Have Party As Literary Societies Meet March 18

"One reason we regret seeing England bombed is because there are serviceable buildings still standing there which were built soon after the first invasion by the Romans (c. 40 B. C.)," declared Dr. G. T. Savery as he spoke to the Zetas Tuesday evening, March 18, about England, his native home.

He pointed out that the Sunday School movement was started at Gloucester, which is not far from his boyhood home. He lived for a while near Stratford-on-Avon and from his home could see the spires of the church where William Shakespeare and Anne Hathaway were buried.

Dr. Savery continued by saying, "The Germans have fired their huge guns from the coast of France across the Straits of Dover, and southern Wales has recently been under terrific bombardment. Coventry has been almost destroyed," he said.

The speaker said that he had recently received a letter from his niece in Gloucester saying they had been bombed, but adding "we can take it."

Laurence Smith, freshman of Pontiac, Michigan, played two piano solos; "Lotus Land" by Cyril Scott and "Rush Hour in Hong Kong" by Abram Chasens.

The society decided to purchase a gift for Edward Auchard, senior of Luray, Kansas, who is in the hospital.

Discussion Held At Y. M. Meet

Everett Tracy, sophomore of Henderson, led the devotions at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on March 11. Floyd Richert, senior of Whitetail, Montana, and Max Oswald, junior of Aurora, gave short talks on the importance of the spirit and the body, respectively, in the three-fold purpose of this organization. Lester Auchard, sophomore of Luray, Kansas, led the group in a discussion on the principles of the Y. M. C. A.

Roberts Points Out Christian Way To Recruits

Dr. Walter N. Roberts, president of Bonebrake Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio, offered practical principles for Christian living at the Recruit meeting on March 19. Three important methods are keeping the quiet hour, beginning work with calm and poise, and losing self in some great, unselfish cause for God.

For devotions Ruth Brandstetter read from Psalms 19 and compared a Christian to a traveler. Elaine West sang "I Heard a Forest Praying", accompanied by Catherine Woolver. Prayers were offered by Mary Lue Warner, Stine Douglas, and Vaughn Leaming.

In the absence of Edward Auchard, Arline Beason took charge of the meeting.

"Jesus Calls Us" was the theme of the meeting on March 12. Four topics were discussed: "Living" by Evelyn Beason; "Witnessing" by Vernon Overturf; "Worshipping" by Eloise Tabor; and "Jesus calls us to heaven" by Clayton Lehman.

Marjorie Warner led the devotions with the text, "Go ye therefore and preach". Floyd Richert and Edward Auchard led in prayer.

Wakelin Speaks On Etiquette To Y. M.

Miss Zelda Wakelin gave a talk on etiquette at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on March 18. Fred Carlsen, senior of Muscatine, Iowa, had charge of the devotions and Tom Zike, freshman of Moravia, Iowa, presented a trombone solo.

Following a short business meeting of the PALS Literary Society March 18, the winning team in a membership drive conducted last fall was entertained at a party.

Jean Mattingly was in charge of the program, assisted by Bill White. "Truth and Consequences" was the theme of the entertainment.

During the evening Nyle Douglas led the group in singing. Refreshments were served, and were in charge of Blanche Leach, Evelyn Beason, and Fred Carlsen.

Y. C.'s Youngest Student Is Four Years Old

Comes From Fairmont To Study Violin

We are due to have a new violinist among us—none other than little Master Ivan Conway, student of Mrs. Muriel Clarke.

Ivan is only four and one-half years old, and comes from Fairmont each week with his mother to take his violin lesson. He is the youngest child Mrs. Clarke has ever taught, but he is making rapid progress.

Of course, you are thinking that he isn't big enough to hold a violin, but he manages to do so by using a three-quarter size instrument.

In a few years, when this little fellow has graduated to a standard size violin, we will perhaps listen to him, and recall that he began his work while he was young and that it was not necessary for his teacher to try to teach an old dog new tricks.

Y. W. Stresses Poetry, Secret Chums In Recent Meetings

Marjorie Reisbeck, program chairman, was in charge of the poetry meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on March 11. This was the first meeting with new officers and cabinet in action.

Several types of poetry were read by some of the girls. Lorena Wygle led devotions, and Doris Landon led the opening song.

New secret chums were drawn, and committees for the coming year were announced in the Y. W. C. A. meeting of March 18.

Following devotions by Phyllis Foster, Margaret Bollinger announced the committee chairmen and the members of each committee.

The meeting was then turned over to Letha Robinson for the selection of secret chums.

Following adjournment, the committees met to discuss their duties.

Dotys Play Host To Sophomore Class At St. Patrick's Day Dinner

Prof. and Mrs. E. I. Doty entertained the sophomore class at a St. Patrick's Day dinner, Monday evening, March 17, in the United Brethren church. Decorations and favors were appropriate to the theme of the day.

It was revealed that the word "sophomore" means wise and foolish, and so each guest was provided with either a dunce cap or a mortar-board.

Prof. Doty acted as toastmaster, and a program consisting of musical numbers, poems, and toasts, was presented by various members of the sophomore class.

Backwards Party Entertains C. E. Members Friday

Members of the Christian Endeavor of the United Brethren church participated in a backwards party held in the college gym Friday evening, March 21. Guests arrived in various styles of backwards dress, and were met with instructions to use the back door.

Contrary to usual procedure, lunch was served at the beginning of the evening. Three courses were served, the first consisting of cookies, the second of sandwiches, and the third, pickles.

Following refreshments, the guests participated in various games and relays. The remainder of the evening was devoted to several games of volley ball.

Marjorie Warner was in charge of arrangements. She was assisted by Grace Shirk, Hal Goodrich, Evelyn Beason, and Lucille Bruce.

Prof. and Mrs. E. I. Doty were among the guests.

"Slumber" Party Hard On Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Women

Frowsy hair, baggy eyes and drooping shoulders characterized the girls of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet on the morning of March 8. The girls had just been to a slumber party given by the old cabinet as an initiation for the new.

Initiation began at 8:30 and lasted until about 12:30. Sandwiches, ice cream, and cake were served by the retiring members. About twelve girls and the two sponsors then "went to bed" and really slept from 2:30 till 6:30. Blankets and pillows were rolled up and the girls went home to "sleep it off".

Shaneyfelt Makes All-State Team

Panther Center Also Chosen As All-Conference

Haberman Receives Honorable Mention

Big George Shaneyfelt, sophomore, Panther center and high scorer in the conference, won positions on both the N. C. A. C. all-conference team and on the all-state team as chosen and announced by United Press last week.

Each conference team placed one man on the mythical team. Other choices included Wilson Belka, from Doane, and Dean Draemel, from Midland, the next two in the all-conference scoring race, at forward positions, and Wolfe, Hastings, and Metzler, Wesleyan, as guards.

Belka and Shaneyfelt both won berths on the all-state selections along with Bruer, Chadron center; Anderson, Wayne guard; and McIntire, Peru guard.

Harold Haberman, senior guard at York, won honorable mention on the all-state selections.

PALS Women, Zeta Men Win Decisions In Basketball Tilts

Intramural tournaments provided more thrills for basketball fans as the PALS and Zetas Literary societies split their annual tournament. In the curtain raiser March 10, in the college gym, the PALS' feminine crew rallied to defeat the scrappy Zeta women by a score of 29-24.

The game was fairly close all the way with the Zetas leading at intermission by a score of 11-10. In the second half a shift in the PALS' lineup started Amy Speece and Arline Beason on a scoring spree which did not let up. Glova Eberle was the outstanding Zeta player making swisher shots from the difficult corners.

In the second game, Donald Yager sparked the Zetas who led all the way to a 38-37 victory. George Shaneyfelt and Don Porter were the PALS standouts but they could not hold Yager and Harvey Peters who were out to avenge the girls' defeat.

Pantherettes Win W. A. A. Tourney In Last Game

Pantherettes are the champions of the W. A. A. basketball tournament, having won five games out of seven played.

The Cadets were tied for first place with the Pantherettes until a championship game was played Friday to break the tie. The Panther women won 28-17. Doris Holloway, captain of the Pantherettes, played a good game throughout, and led her team to victory.

The Cadets' captain, Glova Eberle, made all 17 points for her team. Pantherette forwards, Beason and Cobe cashed in on setups in the first quarter piling up a 14-4 lead which was too much for the Cadets to overcome.

Glova Eberle was high point scorer of the tournament with 84 points in all. Shooting from all corners, Miss Eberle swished the ball through the hoop, time and again.

Miss Cobe cinched second place with 82 points and Miss Beason third with 51 points. Other high scorers were Leaming and Speece.

Two varsity teams are to be chosen by Miss Irene Foster, W. A. A. sponsor, Evelyn Beason and Lodema Frieden, the referees. These teams are to be taken from the group of girls playing in the tournament. The girls will be chosen according to their ability, sportsmanship and team play.

The girls on the winning team are Doris Holloway, Grace Shirk, and Helen Lumbus, guards; Velma Farley, Letha Robinson, and Marjorie Warner, centers; and Arlene Beason and Lois Cobe, forwards.

Spongy Track Greets Panthers In Workouts

Thirty Report To Coach Tonkin; Five Lettermen

Thirty candidates for the Panther track team, five of them lettermen from last year, checked out track equipment and worked out on a spongy track last week in preparation for the first meet, a triangle, with Hastings and Kearney State Teachers college on the Bronco track April 11.

The lettermen returning include Floyd Gifford, in the pole vault and high jump; Harold Haberman, hurdles and dashes; Leonard Godown, half-mile and mile; and Don Yager, field events. Yager set records last year in the javelin toss at the Aberdeen, South Dakota, meet and at the Wayne State Teachers' invitation meet. His toss of 187' 4 1/2" at the Wayne relays is the best ever done by a York athlete in that event.

Coach Rolland Tonkin, busy supervising the work being done on the track and pits, declined to make any statements on the prospects of the team, inasmuch as he had not yet had time to give any of the candidates special attention.

He did state, however, that plans were being made for another high school invitation meet to be held on the York field April 26. Ninety-six schools have been invited to participate.

AMONG THE STACKS

By Clayton Lehman
Among the library shelves can be found new publications in the field of modern drama.

The Servant in the House, by Charles Rann Kennedy, is a drama portraying the corruptions of some of the older established churches and their clergymen. It shows that Jesus' teachings are practical, and that in order to become great, one must be willing to serve.

A Study of the Modern Drama, by Barrett H. Clark, is a handbook which assists the reader in studying some of the most important plays of several outstanding dramatists of modern times. The period covered is from the early days of Ibsen to the present time. It discusses plays and playwrights of most of the European countries and the United States.

The American Drama Since 1918, by Joseph Wood Crutch, offers both a connected account and a critical evaluation of playwriting in America since the

We Lunatics

'Tis spring, and now the time is back,
When young men's fancies turn to track,

A bunch of hardy lunatics
Begin to run, and throw long sticks,
And match their skills with similar fools
And lunatics from other schools.
The weather may be bad or fair,
They'll only don their underwear,
And run and throw, and throw and run

From dawn of day to set of sun.
What profit those, I wisely say,
Who on the well-packed cinders play?

"It gets one in shape," comes feebly back.

In shape for what? "Well . . . in shape for more track."
You ask, "who are you?" Well, I ahem,

THE LIMELIGHT

By William White

Surrounded with balloons, colored paper, and yarn was Maxine Hoover, senior from Dallas Center, Iowa, who was busy trimming programs for the spring banquet. Her ability as chairman of decorating committees wins her acclaim on the campus.

Miss Hoover has held this position for several banquets. These include two spring banquets, a Y. W. C. A. banquet, and a junior-senior banquet. Jack Miller, who was also working on the spring banquet, made this remark, "I have worked on about fifteen banquets, and Maxine is the most efficient chairman with whom I have ever worked."

This is a compliment, indeed, to Miss Hoover, and she well deserves it. Besides having talent for discovering banquet themes, she is full of pep and good will, and an excellent sport in both her work and play. Her ability to make whimsical remarks is one of her outstanding characteristics. Go to Maxine for the latest jokes. She knows all of them.

When asked as to her likes, she remarked with a deep sigh, "Oh, dear,—I like to bowl and play tennis. Along the diet line I like ice cream, olives, and nuts. Some combination, don't you think? Oh, yes, I also like to meet trains. That's fun."

There are also some things she believes the world would be better without. Miss Hoover said, "Democrats and tests are nuisances and, oh, yes, it greatly disappoints me if I don't get mail when I'm expecting it."

Her other offices on the campus include: student council membership for two years; secretary of the council one year; secretary of W. A. A., and chairman of archery.

After graduation, Maxine plans to teach in the grade school. In closing the interview, Miss Hoover made this worthwhile remark, "I believe in doing the best I can, but not in taking things too seriously, for I wish to get the greatest pleasure out of everything. I believe in good cooperation. Whether there be two or ten, everyone must do his share in order for any project to be a success."

In Other Words . . . Is Y. C. A Smithville?

Strange, isn't it, this matter of pride? Take for, instance, a small town of 1000 population. The people there think that no place on earth can compare with it. Most of them are born, live, and die in Smithville. They play as children in its streets. They go to its schools. They are graduated from them and enter business under men who have known them all their lives. They know everyone else in town. They feel themselves to be in one big family, and in their governing bodies, they frame the policies, the activities, and the laws of Smithville to correspond with that feeling. They back to the limit anything Smithville, or anyone connected with it, attempts. They are the kind of people who point with pride to S-m-i-t-h-v-i-l-l-e spelled out in large, white letters on their lone water tower, and carefully renew the glistening paint on them each year. In short, their whole life is wrapped up in their town. And it is Smithville folk and Smithville pride which is keeping intact our democracy of today. For them it is an easy step from civic pride to state and national pride.

In contrast, look at the cities with thousands of buzzing people who are concerned with thoughts entirely of self, self, self. There is no time, no desire to think of their city. Oh, once in a while a big-towner may stop in his scurrying long enough to reflect that it's lucky he lives in this city, because the skyscrapers keep the sun out, and he doesn't have to worry about getting sunburned as he steps from the curb to a taxi. He gives never a thought to bettering his city. Let the other thousands of people do that. He has enough trouble getting the street department to clean out his gutters. All his city means to him is what he can get out of it.

Which is more truly American, the civically-conscious Smithvillian or the sophisticated city man? What if the Smithvilles all over America stopped proudly painting their letters on the water tower? What if they decided to become big-cityish and throw all civic pride overboard? What would happen to the morale of our country?

Our thought: Can't this also be applied to colleges?

Pork still goes with beans. Tsk, tsk. What a rut!

We have always wondered what firemen did before a fire. Now, we know. They play hydrant-go-seek.

Don't mind if the senior fellows look tired. There'll be freshmen next year.

Aw, go file your fingernails.

SPECIAL MOVIE . . .
Name of "Bing Bong"—Story of a gorilla—Bing Bong did a good job of aping

—In fact, he had the whole crowd gaping—One time he broke some bars out of his cage, but Tarzan got in the wrong movie and held him so he couldn't escape—It was a zoo-lu of a picture.

Increasingly warmer in chapel.

NEWS SECTION . . .

The Christening . . .

Life hasn't been the same lately, 'cause people who go around calling trousers by name are a little bit creepy. T'other day little D. Tack went into a cleaner's establishment, and briskly told the clerk, "I have two pairs of trousers here by the name of Tack." Twins, we guess.

Oh, Willie . . .

Having always been great believers in contrast, incongruity, etc. we were tickled pink not long ago to see husky football captain Kenney Willits sheepishly removing a display of delicate Luxables from the window of Hested's store. Of course, he works there.

Read 'Em and Weep . . .

Prof. Doty probably has more tales at his command than any one else in York. In a contest of best storytellers, he could no doubt hold his own. Other day he unraveled a sad one of the "Gay '90's." It was all about an innocent little maid who tried on her mistress's dress, got it upside down and was choked to death.

So Intellectual . . .

Our high regard for Benedict girls slipped a notch last week when Iris Johnson tried to open the library door by thrusting the Yale lock key into the old, unused keyhole, meanwhile turning it furiously over and over.

Maybe a Gun Next Time . . .

The life of a photographer must be a hard one. Andy Jordan, who flashed bulbs right and left at the spring banquet got sardonic "thank you's", many blinks, and caustic comments from the modest, defenseless toasters. That was all.
