Y. C. Votes to Shorten Freshman Court Period

By a vote of 82 to 57, the York College student body decided last Friday in chapel to shorten the period of freshman subordination to upper-classmen to four weeks from the time of the Jolly-Up. Previously, frosh had been at the mercy of upperclassmen and their court from Jolly-Up to Homecoming, often nearly eight weeks.

In presenting the amendment to student vote, President Fred Novak of the student council stated that the council had approved the plan for presentation to the students because frosh court had dragged out so long that it became stale. The four-week term should overcome that difficulty, the council thinks.

The amendment in the language it was presented to the student body reads as follows:

"Proposed Amendment to Article I, Freshman Rules:

All students of freshman rank taking nine or more hours of college work shall obey the following rules from the beginning of the annual first semester Jolly-Up and ending at 12 P. M. four weeks later."

Pres. Weidler To Kansas City For Air Meeting

President D. E. Weidler went to Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 13, Saturday, to attend a meeting of the Army, Navy, State Aeronautical, State Selective Service, and C. A. A. officials and to discuss and coordinate plans and requirements for the spring Civilian Pilot Training program which is scheduled to start in January.

While announcement was made some time ago that York could not have a spring unit unless a municipal airport were available, developments of this meeting may assure another unit here.

Chorus Sings Messiah Sunday

The annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" was given Sunday afternoon, December 14, under the direction of Dean Charles Amadon. Those participating were the York College Chorus, String Ensemble, guest soloists who are former students of York College, and members of choirs of York churches.

The program was as follows:

Mystery, Comedy Stand Out in Club's "Cat and Canary" Production

Mystery and comedy were combined to make successful "The Cat and the Canary," a three-act mystery-melodrama, which was presented Tuesday evening, December 9, at the York high school auditorium by the Histrionic club.

The scene was laid in shadowy old Glenclyff Manor, where the will of Cyrus Canby West was to be read on the twentieth anniversary of his death.

Annabelle West was named as heiress of the estate, and during the play there was continuous action which had been planned to cause her to become insane. Weird happenings were blamed on a maniac monster who was reported to have escaped from the nearby asylum.

Johnson in Difficult Role

Iris Johnson, senior of Benedict, played the difficult role of Annabelle West. Especially good were her portrayals of varying emotions—fear, scorn of those who would frighten her, and bravery at time most needed.

The character of Paul Jones was portrayed by Bill White, senior of Des Moines, Iowa, and added humor which relieved the mystery-laden atmosphere. Paul was frightened to death of spirits and Mammy Pleasant (Eloise Tabor, sophomore of Glendive, Montana,) a West Indian voodoo woman who had lived alone in Glenclyff Manor for twenty years. Paul did not get an idea very often, but when he did, it was a "bear cat." He tried his varying ideas in solving the mystery, but his best one came when he sent Mammy for a minister so he could always protect Annabelle.

Jordan the Villain

Roy Jordan, freshman of Beloit, Kansas, enacted the part of Charlie Wilder, a charming young man whose disarming smile made you forget he might do something criminal. Yet this man had planned to deprive Annabelle of the

Psych Students Tour Ingleside At Hastings

Professor and Mrs. W. J. Karkaker, and twelve students made a trip to Hastings, Wednesday, Dec. 3 to tour the Ingleside hospital for mental patients. Four doctors of the institution presented cases, in a lecture room, which represented different degrees of psychosis.

Others who made the trip were: the Rev. Lyle Roe, Dorothy Jean Sadoris, Marjorie Reisbeck, Margaret Bollinger, Stine Douglas, Marie Pettit, Shirley Anderson, Shirley Talbot, Bob Hunt, DuWayne Grimes, Frances Bullock, and Jean Mattingly.

Students Carol Over Speaker

The carols sung over the loud-speaker system during the last week were sung by members of the student body who gathered in the chimes room of the "Ad" building. The singers were not any particular group, but included anyone wishing to sing.

Senior Busy Time Here

The seniors are a busy group these days. Senior term papers, senior activities, and the Marathon, besides their regular studies keep them stepping.

Seniors Buy Jewelry

Dec. 3, Howard Kingsley, of the Telfer Lord Company showed class rings and jewelry to the seniors. A design, which will have the college emblem on it, was selected.

Because of the present war, the stone sets for rings and pins have risen in price, the reason being that most of the stones are imported.

Term Papers

The seniors' struggle with their term papers has well begun. The seniors in the advanced composition class are required to hand in their first draft before Christmas vacation. As seniors are notorious for putting off writing until the last moment, there is much worry about them now.

The struggle has already left its marks. Weary seniors are seen creeping around the campus with desperate looks in their eyes. The circles under their eyes bear testimony of sleepless nights. One may see seniors sneaking furtively by the open doors of the class rooms and one wonders why.

These papers! And they are just begun!

Know Your Campus

By Larry Smith

No doubt you have noticed the two flags and a picture which are mounted on the east wall of the library, but do you know their history? The flag in the background is a service flag of the first World War. On its white field is arranged a number of blue and gold stars. A star appears for each York college student who participated in the war and the six gold stars of the 184 total represent those who died in the service.

The U. S. flag in the foreground which frames the service flag floated over the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore in 1912 and again at St. Louis in 1916 when Woodrow Wilson was nominated as a candidate for president of the United States. The flag was presented to the Hon. M. O. McLaughlin, who had been president of York college prior to his election to Congress, and was in turn dedicated by him to the college football team of '19.

It was the class of '24 that mounted the flags, and the autographed picture of Mr. Wilson which is in the upper center section of the case was received at the request of William Floyd Laws of Norton, Kans., president of the class. The case with its display was originally mounted on the south wall of the college chapel and was cleaned and moved to the library during the summer of '40 when the chapel was redecorated.

Style Show Highlights Joint Reception

To the music of the string ensemble paraded models of a style show, as a highlight on the program at the joint-reception which was given by the PALS and Zeta literary societies at the United Brethren church Tuesday night.

A color scheme of blue and gold was carried out in the decorations, while mirrors, flowers, and blue lights, added to the setting, which represented the interior of a cafe.

Acting as master of ceremonies, Bill White, senior of Des Moines, Iowa, gave information concerning the clothes modeled. Four women and two men from each society performed as models, displaying styles for street, sports and formal wear.

Vocal numbers were given by former students, Jane Caldwell and Harold Wochner, who were one-time members of Zeta and PALS, respectively. Music during the evening was furnished by the string ensemble under the direction of Mrs. Muriel Clarke.

Members of the Zeta society acting as models were: Catherine Woolever, senior of York; Doris Landon, senior of Russell, Kansas; Iris Johnson, senior of Benedict; Frances Bullock, senior of York, Marvin Herrick, sophomore of Archie, Missouri, and Lora Hol-

Pres. Weidler's Message to Students . . .

War has come and every citizen desires to do the most and best he can to restore peace and justice in the world. Students have a special problem as to what their duty is. The following statement by the Commission on Colleges and Civilian Defense appointed by Mayor Fiorello LeGuardia, National Chairman of Civilian Defense, should govern in solving the question of immediate duty:

"The Commission urges on the colleges and universities the need of reviewing existing courses and the development of new courses directed toward the building up of civilian morale; but it also records its opinion that the normal values of education are still valid and that the primary function of the college and university is still, even in the emergency, to give its students a sound education."

York College will continue to provide sound education under the inspiration of high ideals of scholarship and of character as she has done for more than fifty years. Necessary adaptation will be made to emergency needs. Let us express our loyalty to God and country by being better persons than we have ever been.

Sincerely,

D. E. WEIDLER,
President.

Wygles Says Operation Seems Just Like Christmas

"It seems like Christmas! Everyone is so kind to me, and brings me so many nice things." That is what Lorena Wygle, sophomore of Russell, Kansas, said recently while she was in the Lutheran hospital recovering from an appendectomy, a modern pain costing about two hundred dollars more than the old-fashioned stomach-ache.

When I visited her, I found her surrounded by a menagerie consisting of a rabbit, a turtle, an octopus, the head of a dog, and a duck which was as large as any two of the other animals put together. These had been fashioned from modeling clay, and their presence showed that Lorena had not been idle.

But modeling animals was not

Con Keeps Up With Times, Blacks Out

Blackout Was Unplanned But Still Effective

No siren sounded, no whistles blew, but the dormitory experienced its first two blackouts of the war on Monday night, the evening after Congress declared war on Japan. The first one, which lasted about 15 minutes, produced several kerosene lamps.

The west half of the library and several rooms of the Administration building were also dark.

The second blackout lasted about 30 minutes. Catherine Woolever, in describing the first blackout, was saying ". . . and just then the light went out," and then, just as if she had ordered it, the lights were out again.

J. R. McVey, caretaker, said that the source of trouble was not found.

According to Mrs. Bachman, Dean of Women, this was the second blackout since her arrival at York college in 1936. The first, she said, occurred when a storm blacked out the entire east section of the city.

Wakelin Advises On Etiquette For Y. W. C. A.

Tuesday, Dec. 9, Miss Zeldia Wakelin talked to the Y. W. C. A. on etiquette. She brought out points that would be of use to all college women. Her conclusion was "When in doubt on questions of etiquette, do the kindest thing in the kindest way."

Maurine Marvel sang "Wind of the Westland" by Gerald Grey.

At the Y. W. C. A. meeting Tuesday, Dec. 2, Lillian and Dorothy Sadoris reported the Regional Peace Conference which was held at Wesleyan University at Lincoln November 22. They reported a plan that Dr. Norman Hill, teacher in the Economics Department of the University of Nebraska, outlined for post-war reconstruction.

Rev. Cassel Addresses Chapel Dec. 8

"The center of the gospel is love", the Rev. Isaac Cassel stated in his talk before the student body in chapel Monday, Dec. 8. "The Christian religion", he explained, "is the power that holds people together with love, and when decisive forces come up to divide, the whole force of the gospel is lost". The Rev. Mr. Cassel said that people might worship in their own way so long as the great commandment to "love God" is the center of their lives.

War Claims Students Thought . . .

Circulate among Y. C. fellows today, and before the talk even turns to campus news or home, you find yourself discussing the war. It has supplanted, at present, everything else for highest place in student thought. Mostly, fellows aren't worried about the war. They do wonder just how it's going to affect them. They like to speculate, —whether 18 year olds will be drafted, whether the air corps will want the C. A. A. trainees and how soon, and probably most of all, whether they will continue their education next year.

These prevailing thoughts have put a new phrase on the tips of Y. C. tongues. That phrase is a new "if." No longer do students hope that the team has new football suits next year without adding "if the army doesn't get them," or "especially if I'm still here." For Y. C. manhood doesn't know what's coming. They are trying, now, in their talk, in their philosophy, to be ready for anything. Most of them opine that Germany is the root of the whole trouble, and that axis power must be wiped out totally. There is no fear, no emotion, only that speculative "next-year" attitude evident everywhere.

Meanwhile, the opinion is that just now Uncle Sam has all the soldiers he can care for adequately. York students, the majority under 21, aren't worrying about immediately being drafted. Not before next year, they say, and try to plan accordingly.

So, history repeats itself and major problems for young people of 25 years ago are major problems again today. Today's college youth will accept, help unravel them, and try to set the world back on a secure footing again. Though many did not want the war, they accept it now with American stolidity. "We'll lick 'em; it may take a while, but we'll lick 'em."

And college life goes on in its regular tenor while students wait and wait and watch for that which is to come.

Cheers for the Council . . .

We approve heartily of our student council's recent move to cut the length of time for freshmen cap-wearing and knee-bending come next fall. It's not so much that we have any special pity for the long-suffering freshmen, but more that such action shows that our student governing body is at least awake and alive to its responsibilities. On its toes, as we say.

It's easy for councils to fall into a lethargy. It's easy to diddle along with legislation enacted years back. It's easy to get into the old rut, which someone has compared to a shallow grave, and do only what is required. Of course, the student body would get along. But it will get along a lot better if the council makes itself vital and necessary in the scheme of things. We say, "Show us more, student council."

Miss Wygle's only entertainment—she also had a group of bedtime story books and a bubble pipe.

Someone had been worried about the safety of the patient, or at least I gathered that much when I found she had a water pistol for use in case of any dire emergency, as well as a whistle with which to call a nurse.

The Thursday before Miss Wygle left the hospital, she had her first trial at walking after being in bed for over a week. That was a momentous occasion! You just try walking on pins and needles and see how it feels!

After Christmas vacation we will see Lorena "bobbing-up" again, but until then, she will be recuperating at her home in Kansas.

You can't blame kids for wondering why they have to go to bed when they're not sleepy and have to get up when they are.

Twenty Panthers earned letters in football this year, according to announcement by Coach Tonkin last week. Four of the twenty are seniors, Kenneth Willits, Don Porter, Harvey Peters, and Russel Dunlop.

Other letter winners were: Don Haberman, Garold Denton, Melvin Boehr, Lester Auchard, Floyd Taylor, Burl Graff, Earl Graff, Cliff Hartman, Cleo Campbell, Abe Dick, Harvey Klick, William Feemster, Adolph Mares, Glenn Stauffer, Darryl Severin, and Harold Jensen.

estate, and even disguised himself as the maniac monster.

Cynical Harry Blythe (James Koontz, senior of Des Moines, Iowa) was in love with Annabelle, and hated Charlie Wilder because he, too, loved her.

Susan Sillsby (Arlene Beason, senior of Circle, Montana) brought comedy with her acid disposition and her great disdain for men.

Others in the cast were the murdered lawyer, Roger Crosby, Ralph Hines, junior, Yuma, Colorado; Cicily Young, Arlene Johnson, sophomore, Republic, Kansas; Hendricks, the asylum keeper, Gordon Kealther, freshman, Bradshaw; and Patterson, a doctor, Warren Neal, senior, Brookfield, Missouri.

All the parts were well done and special mention should go to Arlene Johnson who did not join the cast until after Thanksgiving vacation.

The play by John Willard was under the direction of Miss Charlotte Miller, head of the Speech department, and was produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York.

Virginia Hinkel, junior of Cambridge, Iowa, was student director, and Reba Grimes, freshman of Woodston, Kansas, was her assistant.

Panthers Lose To Peru After Leading 17-5

York's young Panther got a throat-hold on Peru State's Bob Cat early in the game last Friday, led 17-5, then lost its grip in the late minutes of the first half as the veteran Bob Cat came up to 15 to York's 18 at the half, and fought on to whip the Panther 42-36.

York missed the scoring punch of sophomore Jake Kaeding, out with a bad ankle, and couldn't quite match Peru's infrequent hot streaks on the Bob Cats' home floor.

Bill Gallant, however, carried off top scoring honors, the freshman center tallying most of his 16 points on close-in shots. Wayne Kaeding gave steady support with 10, and 6 1-2 foot Abe Dick added five in his first game at guard.

Abe's play at guard was one of the encouragements Coach Tonkin got from the defeat. He teamed well with veteran Harvey Peters, took rebounds, and played steadily. Another encouraging item was the way the Panthers took charge early in the game to lead 18-15 at the half.

The game was the first real test for York after knocking off Concordia 47-31 the week before. Peru, big and rugged, tired the Panthers, then went on to average last year's 41-33 defeat York handed them here. Hobbs had 10 and Hiatt eight points in Peru's scoring.

Few fouls were called, 9 on York, 12 on Peru, but the game was rough and full of contact. Gallant of York and Hanna of Peru both sidled to the bench in the closing minutes with four fouls.

Christmas Comes
Again, This Year
To Weary World

By Bill White
To the countless millions all over the world who have lost homes, belongings, loved ones, health, and liberty, this is probably the saddest Christmas they have ever had. Over vast areas, familiar customs of the Yuletide season have been interrupted.

So, the question comes to us, "How can Christmas in 1941 have the brightness, festivity, and joyousness of other happier Christmases?"
We must remember that the real meaning of Christmas has not changed. Twenty centuries have almost passed, since, in a manger in a stable, Jesus of Nazareth was born. The radiant illumination of that day still shines in spite of the war and bloodshed, doubts and fears which abound in the world today. This Christmas an increasing number of people all over the world will look up and say, "In His light, we see light."

Peru Wins 42-36;
York Misses J. Kaeding

Vacation Will Be
Head Scratching
Time for Tonkin

While his blue and white cagers open Christmas presents and consume Christmas turkey, Coach Tonkin will probably spend his vacation head-scratching over the future of his young cagers.

For pre-season games with Concordia and Peru State revealed little except that the Panthers could one quarter be a red-hot quintet, the next the original five ice blocks. (The Hebron game Tuesday night was too late for this issue.) So, the coach has plenty to meditate over as conference games approach in January.

Has Some Quantities Given
There are a few quantities Tonkin has given to him. First, he has a young, relatively in-experienced squad. Take one senior, two juniors, seven sophomores and freshmen, five of them lettermen, mix well, and you have this year's Panthers. Experience in games may steady them, and do away with inconsistent play.

Another quantity given to Tonkin, and not a bit hard to take, is the Kaeding brothers. Forward act for York, they are veterans and sophomores at the same time, and teamed with senior Harvey Peters, smooth-working guard, are left from last year's starters.

Two Holes to Plug
But the holes Tonkin has to plug are those left by all-state center George Shaneyfelt and guard Harold Haberman.

It didn't take long for Bill Gallant, freshman brother of Neal, former athlete and coach here, to show that he is capable of taking over the center position. In two games he has scored 27 points, while also doing good rebounding work.

For the Peru game, Tonkin shifted lengthy Freshman Abe Dick to guard, and the 6 1-2 footer did so well that he is likely to be a fixture there. Thus, Y. C. starting line-ups for these early games have included one senior, two sophomores, and two freshmen.

First competition for the Panthers after holidays will be the Hebron Junior College team here on January 8. Then come Wesleyan and Hastings in conference games.

IRC Hears Porter, Talbot Review Books

"America will have to abide by the Monroe Doctrine in her dealings with the Orient", Don Porter, senior from Aurora, told the International Relations club in their regular monthly meeting Thursday evening, December 11. "Sacrifices must be made on our holdings in the resources of the Far East if peace is to be realized. The Orient must be allowed to industrialize", Porter said in a review of the recently published volume entitled "Prerequisites to Peace in the Far East" by Nathaniel Peffer.

Shirley Talbot, senior of Merrill, Iowa, reviewed T. A. Bisson's book entitled "American Policy in the Far East". The Open Door Doctrine; the Manchurian Crisis; the Sino-Japanese War; and the Japanese American Trade Friction were among the topics discussed.

Former Editor Marries; Now In School in Iowa

The marriage of Jack Graham, '35, former 'Burr' editor, to Miss Lucy Ann Neylan of Elkader, Iowa, took place on August 9, in Elkader, Iowa. After a quiet ceremony with only the immediate families present, the bride and groom left for a short trip into Wisconsin and later spent two weeks in the Jackson Hole country of Wyoming. They are at home at 604 South Clinton Street, Iowa City, Iowa.

Mrs. Graham was graduated from Iowa University in June of this year and Graham will receive his Ph. D. from that university next June. XMAS PRESENT, OR DOES PROF. HAVE SECRET HOBBY?

The newest addition to the Department of Biology of York College arrived during the absence of Prof. W. C. Noll. A helpful laboratory assistant opened the box to care for the supposed specimen. Imagine her surprise when she pulled from the box "Dancing-Dan, the original wooden dancing doll" and a long flexible paddle on which Dan could exercise. Someone relieved the assistant's mind by suggesting that the "specimen" might have been intended as a Christmas present for the Professor's eleven-year-old son.

Klone Klan Has Xmas Party

The Klone Klan held a Christmas party, Dec. 11. The Klan consists of Ruth Brandstetter, Doris Landon, Marle Petit, Iris Johnson, Irene Johnson, Betty Pickrell, Virginia Belle Klone, Cecelia Klone, a former York college student, and Mr. and Mrs. Klone. Special guests were Enos Dean Hohnbaum, ex-'42 student, Mrs. Hohnbaum, their son, Garry, and Bob Swan.

Each member of the Klan contributed a number to the program. In the midst of the gayety, the jingling of sleigh bells announced the arrival of Santa Claus. He passed out nuts and candy. After Santa Claus had passed out the gifts, Mrs. Klone served refreshments.

Nothing could make a better Christmas present than a snappy Arrow Shirt and Tie—

Introducing Ye Olde Hash House Where Numerous Ambitions Hide

By Eloise Tabor
May I introduce you to the members of "Dual Trace Amee-guz," formerly called a "hash-house," but now an aristocratic eating place for six girls who enjoy eating, talking, cooking, and dish-washing together.

Margaret Bollinger is from Kansas, and her object in batching is that she will need to know how to cook in the future when she entertains people in the parsonage.

Helen Hall is another Kansas girl with an eye to the future, but not in the same way as Margaret. Helen's idea is that "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach," and if she can become a good cook, perhaps she will be able to find a "prospect" or two.

From North Dakota comes still another girl with an eye to the future. Enola Lassell is mindful of the fact that when she is an old maid she will have to eat; so she is learning to cook in her youth.

Nebraska Mary Miller is a present day creature. She already knows how to cook, so she is seeing to it that the batchers at Dual Trace Amee-guz receive at least one good meal in six.

Iowa has sent Dorothy Windsor, who has a professional outlook. She hopes to culminate her cooking efforts by becoming a famous chef.

And the sixth girl? Oh, I am from Montana, and I—well, someone has to keep up the conversation, doesn't she?

A group of students, directed by Dean Charles Amadon of Hulitt Conservatory, and with Miss Eda Rankin of the piano department, as accompanist, presented a program for the Women's Club in the Osceola high school auditorium, December 1. The chapel choir sang several numbers from Handel's "Messiah". The girls' trio sang "Dearest Lord Jesus" and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach. Several other students gave a short pageant, "The Christmas Story", taken from "Ben Hur".

Koontz-Eutsler Announce Marriage

The marriage of Margaret Eutsler, daughter of Mrs. B. C. Eutsler of Las Vegas, New Mexico, to James Koontz of Des Moines, Iowa, was announced at a party given by Dean of Women Mrs. Lucille Bachman, December 5. They were married in Lincoln. Mrs. Koontz is a sophomore, and Koontz is a senior.
