

Four Seniors Honored In Who's Who

Faculty Selects Girls To Be Listed

Four York College seniors were recently selected by the faculty to be listed in the 1946 edition of the Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, according to Dean W. E. Bachman. Those selected were: Roberta Berglin Allen, Berthoud, Colo.; Ruth Wiren Auchard, Woodston, Kans.; Esther Megill, York; Eunice Stauffer, Meadow Grove.

Students selected as representatives to Who's Who receive national honorary recognition, for this volume lists only those persons who are chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, participation in extra-curricular activities and their potentialities for future usefulness to business and society.

Roberta Allen is now president of her class and has been active in PALS, YWCA, and the Histrionic club. She is Editor-in-chief of the 1946 Maraton.

Ruth Auchard was Homecoming Queen this fall. She is active in YWCA, Recruits, and Alpha Psi Omega. She is Associate Editor of the Maraton.

Esther Megill is now president of the college girls Otterbein Guild. She was Botany Laboratory Assistant last year. She is active in YWCA, Zetas, Recruits, and WAA, and is an associate member of Press Guild.

Eunice Stauffer is president of YWCA. She was May Queen last year. She is active in WAA, Zetas, and Recruits, and is an associate member of Press Guild.

Miss Thompson Resigns As York College Registrar

Miss Anna Thompson, who has been in the office for the past eighteen years, has resigned as Registrar and Treasurer of York College, and has begun work in the office of the York Water Co. Miss Thompson, who sustained serious injuries when struck by a truck on Sept. 27, has so far recovered as to be able to go to work on crutches. In commenting on her resignation, Miss Thompson said, "I dislike to leave the College campus and all its pleasant associations, but I feel that the new work will be much easier for me, as the duties are not so varied."

During her years in York College, Miss Thompson has maintained an important place in college activities. Besides her duties in the office she was Treasurer of the Board of Trustees, was on three standing Faculty Committees, sponsored the Y. W. C. A., and was an honorary member of the Alpha Psi Omega.

Marathon Group Pictures Taken

Bill DeVriendt of the Capital Engraving Co. Lincoln, was on the campus recently taking group pictures for the Marathon. He took fifteen shots during the morning hours. The arrangement of the groups was under the leadership of Mrs. Roberta Allen, senior, Berthoud, Colo., editor-in-chief, and Mrs. Ruth Auchard, senior, Woodston, Kan., associate editor.

Alden Sears, sophomore, York campus photographer, has completed photographing the individual pictures of the freshman and sophomores. Even though he was interrupted by Thanksgiving vacation and the flu epidemic, he has completed the task.

In behalf of the Marathon, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Auchard motored to Lincoln on Saturday to secure further help in making the dummy.

The ring bearers, Pattie Barrett and Tommy Curran, carried the rings on white heart-shaped pillows of the same material as the bride's gown.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Ralph Hanson at the organ and by Miss Estelma Felton of Omaha who accompanied her on the violin during the prelude. Miss Dorothy Felton, Omaha, sang "Beloved, It Is Morn", and "Through the Years", before the ceremony and Malotte's "Lord's Prayer" at the close.

Pres. Weidler Announces Plans for New Building

Student Union With Dormitory To Be Called Middlebrook Hall

Cheers greeted President D. E. Weidler in chapel last Friday when he announced that plans are being completed for the erection of a new building on the campus in the near future. The executive committee of the Board of Trustees approved the plans in a meeting the previous evening.

It was learned later that the building is to be a Student Union Center with dormitory facilities and will be known as Middlebrook Hall in honor of a large initial gift made by F. C. Middlebrook of York.

The present plan is to break ground for the building in March, lay the corner stone at commencement time in June and complete the structure at an early date. The progress of these plans is dependent entirely upon the ability of the committee to secure labor and material.

The building which will probably cost $125,000.00 is likely to be placed north of Hulitt Hall facing west on Kiplinger avenue.

Those appointed on the building committee are: F. C. Middlebrook, chairman, Emmet L. Malster, E. A. Levitt, President D. E. Weidler, Dean W. E. Bachman, the Rev. Stanley B. Williams and the Rev. G. T. Savery.

The campaign for the Greater York College fund is progressing with over $220,000.00 in cash and pledges. Considerably over half the amount pledged has already been paid into the treasury.

The Rev. Virgil J. Hague, director of the campaign, reports satisfactory gains in all the churches of the area visited to date.

CHRISTMAS—PEACETIME STYLE

It was the first Christmas Eve. The stars were very bright. The night was clear and cold. There was beauty and serenity over the hushed earth. The Prince of Peace was born that night with a host of angels heralding and glorifying Him.

It is Christmas Eve—1945. The stars are very bright. The night is clear and cold. There is a beauty and serenity over the hushed earth. The Prince of Peace is close to this earth—touching it with His divine love, understanding and peace.

All over the United States at Christmas time, people are rejoicing this year because of the return of peace to our land. We again enter a Christmas Season without battle cries to drown out our praises and adorations for the Christ Child. Sounds of Christmas bells are predominant over the rumble of the equipment of war. The Christmas star shines over the land instead of beacon lights and airplane spotlights.

In our hearts are we heralding and glorifying the Prince of Peace who again smiles on our land and puts a new glory into Christmas? Let us raise our voices and hearts in this prayer: "Glory to God in the highest and on earth, peace good-will toward men."

Among the Bookshelves

By Barbara Blauch

See what those Russian names in Victor Seroff's book, "Dmitri Shostakovich," will do to you? Read it, and you'll get your French assignments with a Russian accent. Seroff gives the family background of this composer in detail, as a means of better understanding his life and work. Some of you may remember the American debut of his Seventh Symphony performed by Toscanini and the N. B. C. symphony orchestra in July, 1942. Shostakovich, though only forty, has gained world fame, and earned for himself the title "Soviet Composer."

"Richard Wagner," by Gladys Burch, is an interesting study of a very interesting man. Although he didn't spring from a musical family, he became the perfecter of the musical drama. And don't tell me you've never heard of him, because someday his Wedding March from the opera "Lohengrin" may seal your doom.

You'll enjoy "The Story of George Gershwin", by David Ewen. Everyone from Spike Jones to the Boston Symphony has played Gershwin, for he has proven that music in the idiom of jazz is worthy of a more respected place in the musical world. His "Rhapsody in Blue," in spite of technical shortcomings, is loved and acclaimed throughout the world. His satires, "Of Thee I Sing" and "Strike Up the Band," the last a satire on war, are very well known. His folk-opera, "Porgy and Bess" is most unusual. Where else could a crap game be treated musically by a respectable fugue? A tribute from an enemy, which is quoted in this book, should be enough to convince you that you should know more of Gershwin. Because he is non-Aryan his works were not played in Nazi Germany, but a high official said, "Do you know there is not one of us who has not a Gershwin record in the bottom of a drawer which he plays sometimes late at night?"

To represent Italy, we have "Giuseppe Verdi," by Francis Toye. As well as an account of the composer's life, we have a brief resume of his operas and a discussion by the author following each. Incidentally, a "reincarnation" of Verdi was the guest on the Metropolitan opera

. . . a big upperclassman squeezed into the coat of his fiancée . . . continual procession of trays at the "Con" . . . familiar car around campus with its windshield kicked out . . . Santa Claus and his elves busy at work.

P. S. And remember . . . if you feel hoarse, it is likely because you have a little colt in your throat.

performance of Dec. 8.

"Great Symphonies" by Sigmund Apaeth requires no technical knowledge to understand. Its reading will help you recognize and remember many symphonic works. Haydn was the first of the old masters to use this form and, according to Spaeth, his sense of humor was obvious in his music. He wrote a symphony in which each musician has a lighted candle. One by one the instruments cease and the musician blows out his candle. Finally two instruments and two candles remain; then one, then complete darkness, and the symphony is at an end.

And so are the Library Notes for this time.

NEWS BRIEFS

Ramos Barela, Espanola, New Mexico, was a recent campus visitor. He is now a civilian and has gone to visit home folks until second semester, when he plans to return to the York College campus and enroll as a sophomore. The main hall of the Administration building is being brightened by the gay Christmas tree which the Y. W. C. A. has purchased and decorated. When vacation begins, the organization plans to donate it to some family who otherwise might not be able to enjoy a tree this season.

Martha Cox

"Martha, how do I crush this ascomycete?" "Martha, look what I have under this microscope!" "Martha . . ." These are typical questions that Martha Cox, from Espanola, New Mexico, hears during the afternoons when she is Botany Laboratory Assistant.

Having graduated from the McCurdy high school in Santa Fe, dark-haired, brown-eyed Martha came to York College. She is majoring in Biological Science and expects to be a Laboratory Technician or a Biology teacher.

Martha is an "outdoor girl". She is very fond of sports and enjoys going camping and hiking. Martha is very capable and responsible.

"I get so mad when I can't fold things square," she said when asked what irked her most. "I, too, hate to get up early in the morning. I do—but I hate it."

One of Martha's hidden talents is her artistic ability. Besides drawing landscapes, she also sketches caricatures of her professors. It has been said that she does a good job of it, too.

Martha is active in WAA, of which she is vice-president, PALS, YWCA, Recruits, and Otterbein Guild.

Nuggets From Chapel Talks

Discussing "Mental Hygiene, a Point of View", the Rev. A. D. Buchmiller, instructor in the Department of Psychiatry at Washington University at St. Louis, Mo., spoke in chapel recently. The Rev. Mr. Buchmiller and Mrs. Buchmiller, the former Genevieve Hammar, ex-'38 have been visiting the latter's parents in York.

"People who have mental ills," said the Rev. Mr. Buchmiller, "are not something different—something inhuman. They are people with problems." He emphasized that the Mental Hygiene Movement started as an attempt to develop a method of understanding individuals whose difficulties are not on the surface.

The purposes of the Mental Hygiene Movement, which was started in 1908, are to alleviate the unsatisfactory conditions of state mental hospitals, to establish child guidance clinics throughout the country, and to provide an educational and preventative measure.

"The field of psychiatry is not that which has to do with insane people," explained Rev. Mr. Buchmiller. "It has to do with people in difficulties." He explained that the unconscious actions of a person are the results of ideas that get into his makeup and he knows not how they got there.

Psychiatry is not all medicine alone was another point he stressed. Included in it are such fields as that of social work, vocational counseling, teaching, ministry, and college education.

Professor W. J. Karraker, Dean of Men and head of the Department of Education, spoke recently in chapel stressing the two techniques that people have to possess in order to get along with others, that is, the "thing technique" and the "person technique." He also enumerated four marks of a socialized person. These are "the having of certain habits that conform

York College Opens 1945-1946 Season By Winning Victory At Wahoo

York college Panthers opened their 1945-46 basketball season with a 42-30 win over Luther college at Wahoo on December 3.

The Panthers were able to build up only a 17-12 halftime lead due to the fact that they played on a small court which kept them from using their fast break. Auchard potted seven field goals for 14 of the 17 York points in the first half.

The second half proved better for the Panthers as they pulled ahead to win with a 12 point margin.

Auchard took high scoring honors for the evening with 19 points, while Don Robson came through with 11. Franson, with six points, paced the Luther team.

Several of the members of the Panther squad were ill with the flu and did not make the trip to Wahoo. They were hoping to be back in shape for the Wesleyan game on Friday night. The score:

with what people use to get along satisfactorily; the need of information and knowledge, that is, a broad background in order to fit into the social life of a community; the necessity of controlling the emotions; and the tying up of character traits with the Christian code of ethics."

Emphasizing love as the prerequisite for making service more vital and as the common denominator of the Christian life, Pres. D. E. Weidler addressed formal chapel recently. "We have to discover for ourselves," said Pres. Weidler, "what our prejudices are and whether we are willing to apply this common denominator to our experiences and also whether we are overlooking those things for which we are striving." He concluded that "people must demonstrate the 'more excellent way,' which can not be taken from them, throughout their Christian work."

"When God enters upon the scene, order takes the place of chaos," stated Dr. E. I. Doty recently in chapel. "In the creation there was the purpose and promise of a great deal more than we see today and also there was no disorder or chaos. When God comes into a life, everything is seen in a different light." He concluded, "God has the same effect in every walk of life today as He had at the time of the creation."

An address, "Heights Attained" by Dr. W. C. Noll in a formal chapel talk emphasized the idea that "the higher we rise the more there seems still to be another elevation." This is similar to the church experience in that we must be pioneers in carrying the church to new heights of success so that those who follow will find the church a real inspiration." Dr. Noll concluded, "Because man is human, he sets about to open new epochs of good will from the foothills to the mountains in this world."

York Panthers Drop First Home Game To Wesleyan

The York college Panthers dropped their first home game of the season to the Nebraska Wesleyan Plainsmen by a score of 35-53 at the city auditorium on December 7.

At the first of the game, it looked as if the Panthers were going to be out in the lead as they scored a basket within the first few seconds of play. The Plainsmen buckled down and came back to score several baskets and held the lead at the half-time. The score was 19-23.

The Panthers came back the second half and found that they were still having trouble playing together. In the meantime, the Plainsmen were hitting the hoop and built up an 18 point margin which they held at the end of the game. The final score was 35-53.

Auchard and Robson scored most of the York points with 16 and 13 points respectively. Bettger and Paap took the scoring honors for the Plainsmen with 17 and 19 points respectively.

The Panthers journey to Hastings Dec. 11, and to Seward on Dec. 14. Their last game, which will be a home game, before Christmas vacation will be on Dec. 17 when Dana and York meet at the city auditorium.

Alumna Sends New Address To Sandburr

Mrs. Wayne Douglas (Helen Lumbus '41) writes that her husband was discharged from the Coast Guard in October and made plans at once to enter a law school. However, after attempting to find living quarters in three university cities, they gave it up for the present, and Mr. Douglas accepted a teaching and coaching position at Howells, where they are now living. She wants the Sandburr to have the change of address.

AS I SEE IT

By Blaine Ronne

Basketball fans saw Panther basketball far below par the other night when Nebraska Wesleyan defeated York. With Coach Tonkin back only two weeks and with the flu epidemic which has hit almost every member of the squad, the Panthers haven't been able to get into top shape. Once they all get on their feet, there should be plenty of excitement before the season is very far gone.

A few familiar faces have appeared at the college gym the past two weeks. Harvey Peters, ex-'42 and Hugh Pursel, '42, ex-Panther sportsmen, and Neal Gallant, '32 ex-Panther sportsman and coach, called on Coach Tonkin and watched Panther workouts.

Wyoming men won 666 citations and awards in world war II.
