

Allen Chen, Chinese Student, Arrives At Y. C.

A young man in typical American college attire including the sport packet and tie, and with a ready smile and a pleasant face was introduced to York College students last Friday as Allen Chen, the new student from China who had just arrived.

"I came to America so that I could broaden my education and return better equipped to serve my own people," stated Mr. Chen in an interview.

Mr. Chen has already served his country in the capacity of a pilot with the Chinese Air Force for two years. He spent three years in preparation for that.

"In China my name is Chen Allen but here I shall be known as Allen Chen", he asserted with a smile.

Concerning the 14 days he spent on the ocean coming from Shanghai Chen stated firmly, "Seasick? No, I didn't get seasick." Besides those days on ship he spent eight days in land travel.

Having been on the campus for just a few hand-shaking, picture-taking hours, Mr. Chen's impressions were boiled down to one simple statement. "I like it here. It is very nice, very nice."

When his ability to speak good English was commented upon, he smiled and said, "I have spoken it for ten years now".

Four years at York College as a political science major and then perhaps two years more in the states acquiring practical experience are his immediate plans. He hopes that on returning to his native land he can serve in the capacity of a diplomat in the Chinese Air administration.

"Christianity In Education" Is Discussed

"Christianity in Education" and its effects on college students in planning their careers, was the theme of a talk given by Prof. Myron L. Holm, registrar of the college, before the joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., Jan. 21.

The general conclusion reached in the brief open discussion period following Mr. Holm's talk was that the laws allow absolute freedom for the teaching of non-sectarian religion in public schools, but that public interference, in many cases, restricts such practices.

Professor Holm based his comments on readings from Nebraska state laws and also discussed, briefly, the Urbana, Ill. "test-trial".

"Juvenile Delinquency" is not what we must fight, but rather it is "Parental Delinquency", declared Ted Peterson, '31, in his talk before the young men of the college Y. M. C. A., Jan. 14.

Mr. Peterson, former coach and now director of the York Youth Center, took his text from the book of Esther: "Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

He went on to state that he believed the job as a high school coach or as a youth center director afforded the greatest opportunity (next to the ministerial profession) for moulding the lives of the younger generation.

YORK COLLEGE AS A CROSSROADS

With the arrival of a student from China, York college may be called a crossroads of states and nations. Besides having representatives from many of the states of the United States, York college now has a student from Africa and one from China. What can this mean?

Taking into consideration that all colleges and universities have students from foreign lands, students of America are learning to live and work beside students whose background and previous education was very different from their own. International understanding and admiration is a goal that can be realized in the colleges of today.

Not only does the foreign student learn in America, but also the American student learns from him. Sharing their experiences and ideas, they learn more of each other. By keeping all, all is lost; by sharing all, all is gained.

Racial prejudices can now have a practical removal. These prejudices will disappear when each student finds that color does not change character, nor intelligence, nor the ability to fit in with the rest of the students.

York College is working toward the ultimate goal of the nations of the world—an understanding among nations. Students of York College have a grand opportunity to do their share toward reaching that goal.

PEPLESS?

A skit given in a pep (?) chapel brought the idea of the lack of Y. C. enthusiasm before the students. This our problem. We must solve it!

Yes, there are a certain few who do their best. They wear themselves out at the basketball games and pep rallies. We are speaking of the cheerleaders and the Pep Band. But, they cannot do it all. They are there only to lead. We who go to the games must follow their lead and let the Y. C. Panthers hear and see that we are proud of them.

The Panther Salute says, "Let's show some fight, you Panthers". Let us change it to, "Let's show some PEP, you students." If we all work together we can show our team that we are behind them, not only when they are on the basketball floor, but also when they are the "guests of honor" at the pep rallies. Don't let them down and they won't disappoint you.

Library Notes . . . News Briefs

You who are on the backstage crews of Junior Miss, take heed to A Stage Crew Handbook. Cornberg and Gebauer have compiled valuable advice for those ambitious people who slave away behind the curtains.

Here's a biography of a queen who might have been a victim of semester exams, The Mad Queen of Spain, by Michael Prawd. However, upon further investigation, you'll find that the subject, Joan of Spain, was not really mad, so maybe finals weren't responsible. Her madness was only a legend, and her biographer offers proof of her sanity.

If you've never hummed a Victor Herbert melody, you've probably lived your entire life in an isolated section of the Arctic. His music successfully bridged the gap between Tin Pan Alley and the classic art song. The book offers glimpses of Damrosch, Dvorak, and others of Herbert's famous contemporaries.

The unusual title of Dictators of the Baton, is an intimate appraisal of America's thirty leading symphonic conductors and their famous orchestras. The book is by David Ewen, one of America's leading contemporary critics.

Deloris Smith, freshman, of Plattsmouth, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Smith, after the latter visited the campus on Friday of Exam Week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Huebert were hosts Saturday evening to four young men from a former pastorate at Helvey. The four, graduates of Fairbury High, and prospective Y. C. students were Charles and J. Leaman Fairley of Fairbury, and Charles Sukovaty and Lawrence Smith of Powell. All attended the Chadron game.

Most students, suffering a relapse from last week's exams, probably didn't open a book for at least two hours after the last test. When they did, it might have been the new Cokesbury Stunt Book, by A. M. Depew, which would assist in party planning, or, for the woman, the Cokesbury Shower Book. This last volume will no doubt be used a lot on this campus.

They Tramped These Halls

By Prof. J. C. Morgan

The treasury of the Alumni Association needs a "March of Dimes". As is well known, the treasury has no fixed source of income, no dues. It has to depend upon the proceeds from the sale of plates at the two annual banquets. If the amount realized from either of these banquets does not cover the expense incurred, then of course, there results a deficit. And such is the present condition of the treasury. So, a shower of coins upon the treasurer would help relieve the situation.

Miss Pauline Kopcho, ex-'35, who for the past two years has been employed at Slater Camp, Fairbanks, Alaska, enjoyed a month's visit in York with relatives.

The Rev. and Mrs. Everett Tracy, ex-'45, will leave soon for Dayton, Ohio, where Rev. Tracy will enter the seminary. He has served as pastor at Vermillion, So. Dak., for two and a half years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Tracy have received the A. B. degree from the University of South Dakota.

Mrs. Mabel Meeker Kirkpatrick, '24, is recovering nicely from a severe hospital experience.

Weddings:

Miss Odessa Green, ex-'35, to Mr. Truman Youngberg, Thursday, December 26, at Axwell, Washington. Mrs. Youngberg has been teaching for several years in the Lawrence and Topeka, (Kansas) public schools.

Birth:

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wolstenholm (Alice Allen, ex-'35) a son, Rex Kent, December 24, at York.

York College Students Hear Pianist As Second of Series

Once again many college students were privileged to hear a concert of fine music when pianist Randolph Hokanson appeared at the city auditorium on Jan. 23, as the second artist in the Community Concert series. His selections ranged from one of Beethoven's lesser known Sonatas, the C major, to an encore, Debussy's Clair de Lune.

Although Mr. Hokanson denies it, critics term him a child prodigy. The British pianist, Harold Samuel, was impressed with the young Hokanson to such an extent that he took him to England for study. Upon the death of Samuel, the young American was trained by Myra Hess, Tobias Matthay, and Howard Ferguson. Soon after his return to America and the eastern concert stage, he was under new management, the U. S. army. His talents were made available to G. I.'s in the U. S. and in Europe, until 1946, when he returned to civilian life and the concert world.

Backstage after his performance here, the musician refused to limit his favorite composer or composition, but did admit a fondness for Bach great enough to influence his ambitions. "I would like to be known as a Bach specialist," he said, adding, "Bach is one to study for development of technique toward perfection. Yes, my career was decided when I was very young. I myself decided it when I first began to play. I never play anything I do not like."

It was natural for Hokanson, being a native of the state of Washington, to list mountain climbing as an outside interest. Equally understanding was the fact that his other pursuits were of necessity obscured by the demands of his music. He agrees with many artists and critics that America's musical maturity is being greatly aided by influences such as this concert series.

He revealed a personal fondness by the presence of three Chopin numbers on the program, and Chopin's Etude in Thirds as an encore. "Chopin is not feminine," Hokanson was emphatic. "It is only that there is a bit of feminine sensitivity in every artist."

The pianist entered at the beginning of the evening and announced the addition of a Handel number to precede the first selection programed. These few spoken words established a fine degree of audience contact. His body movement seemed exaggerated, but not without purpose. Sensitive interpretation was well coordinated with mere skillful suggestions of mood.

Hi-Lites from Chapel Talks

By LOUIS RACHOW

The simple things of the universe make a pattern of life that is intriguing. This was the statement made by Dr. G. T. Savery at the last formal chapel program. We must approach the universe with reverence—it talks of God, he declared.

"We are living in an intelligible and planned universe. Above us is our Guide, Planner, Thinker," continued Dr. Savery. "If the universe were not intelligible our study of science would be in vain."

In closing, Dr. Savery declared that we must avail ourselves of what is at hand and become more aware that we are in the presence of God.

"How are we to react toward material things, toward people, and toward ideas?" asked Bishop V. O. Weidler of Kansas City, Mo., in a recent formal chapel address. "The results of these reactions will determine the foundations of our living," declared Bishop Weidler.

As stewards we must use our material things for our fellowmen, he continued. Humankind has not as yet found the basis for our reactions to racial difference. Our ideas must be based on fact assisted by the scientist and philosopher who are willing to step across the border into the religious or moral field, he continued.

"Foundations are covered and we must discover these foundations in order to live a satisfactory life," concluded Bishop Weidler.

Mrs. E. I. Doty of York read the poem, "Journey of the Magi" by T. S. Elliot in the chapel program, January 13.

"Tradition says that the Wise Men came to see Jesus 13 days after His birth," said Mrs. Doty. "Therefore," she continued, "the poem, 'Journey of the Magi' by Mr. Elliot is quite appropriate after the Christmas season on this thirteenth day of January."

Hastings Broncos Stop Panthers

Panthers Drop 49-38
Decision Before Record
Crowd; Kaedings Cold

Behind all the way, the York College Panthers lost a thriller to the Hastings College Broncos at the City Auditorium to the tune of 49-38. With the loss went second place in the conference standings. More than 1300 fans, a record crowd, witnessed the game.

The highly touted "stop-the-Kaedings" defense of the Broncos wasn't necessary as neither of the Panthers' hotshots could find the range.

As usual, the Panthers allowed their opponents to open the scoring, going out in front on a gift toss by Rader on Wayne Kaeding's foul. Sleckman increased the lead to 3-0 before Dick came through for York with a free throw. With five minutes gone, the visitors led 8-1, before Jim Kaeding potted York's first fielder, to make it 8-3. The Panthers had sneaked to within seven points of the Broncos when Moore made it 18-9 as the half ended.

McIllice, ever a thorn in the Panthers' sides, increased the margin to 20-9 as the second half got under way. From then on, the teams traded baskets, with the Panthers about ten points in arrears. With about 3 minutes left, Hastings led 45-28. Quick baskets by Robson, Conway, and Campbell brought to life smoldering hopes and made the count 45-38.

A furious Panther rally fell short, however, as Robson fouled out, and the Broncos connected for two more field goals, winning 49-38.

Scoring honors for York went to Jim Kaeding, and Campbell, with ten points each. McIllice of Hastings scored twelve points. Standout player of the entire game was Don Robson who hustled all the way, although Campbell, too, turned in a sparkling defensive performance. Wayne Kaeding and Jim Conway, likewise played good floor games, though neither could locate the basket, as time after time, shots were missed and Hastings grabbed the rebound. The story of missed free throws is not a pleasant one, either, as the margin of hits was in Hastings' favor.

This loss drops the Panthers below the Bronchos in conference standings and leaves fans wondering what will happen when Peru and Hastings tangle on the latter's floor.

In the curtain raiser, the Panther cubs yielded to the Hastings B squad 41-40, after trailing 26-13 at the half. Munsinger stood out for York.

AROUND THE CONFERENCE

By BLAINE RONNE

York college dropped into number three spot in the Nebr. College Conference after the 49-38 defeat handed them by the Hastings college Broncos. The Panthers hopes are still high, because they still have a chance to come out on top as champions. Peru plays at York on Feb. 4 and York will get another whack at Hastings Feb. 27. These two games will tell the story whether or not the Panthers can redeem themselves. They have been defeated this year by both teams. The highlight game of the week was the Peru-Wesleyan game which took two over-time periods for Peru to win. The conference ratings at present:

	W.	L.
Peru	7	0
Hastings	6	1
York	5	2
Midland	4	4
Kearney	3	3
Doane	2	4
Wesleyan	1	4
Chadron	1	4
Wayne	0	6

Probably a record in individual scoring in a single game has been set by Midland's Bob Hahn, who scored 35 points in the Midland-Doane game last week. Jim Kaeding of York hit 31 points in the Peru-York game and leads individual scoring in the NCC.

York's Kaeding brothers have been doing a few other things besides playing basketball. Wayne was married last week and it is rumored that Jim will be following the same procedure within the next month.

Veteran Guard

Cleo Campbell

Cleo Campbell has again regained his position on the Panther basketball squad as a guard since his return from service. Cleo, who weighs 195 pounds and stands 5' 11" tall, played on the 1941-42 championship team and has two years of experience as a Panther squad member.

Although he has some trouble with his legs, which accounts for the tape he has been wearing around his legs the last few games, Cleo has been a steady ball player. His defensive play has been outstanding and he always has a word of enthusiasm for his teammates. Cleo scored ten points in the Hastings game.

York Chalks Up Third NCC Win; Defeats Wesleyan

York college chalked up number three win in the Nebraska College conference Jan. 14, with a 55-39 victory over the Wesleyan Plainsmen at Lincoln. The York B squad won their preliminary game 41-35 over the Wesleyan B team.

The Kaedings had hit the hoop for 21 points before the rest of the team had scored. Then Denny Auchard and Jim Conway added seven points between them to give York a 10 point lead which they held at the half.

The Panthers came back the second half to increase their lead, and Coach R. E. Tonkin sent in his substitutes. The reserves held their own until the last minutes of the game to give York a 16 point margin and clinch the win.

Jim Kaeding added 18 points and Wayne Kaeding added 17 points to boost their conference scoring and take scoring honors for the evening. Sterns had 13 points to his credit for Wesleyan.

The game as a whole was clean, but Wesleyan was weak both on the offense and defense, while the Panthers' passing was not very smooth.

Chadron Eagles Fall to Panthers In Two Games

"B" SQUAD FALLS TO UNI. "B" TEAM

By Fred Vorce

The University of Nebraska "B" squad, by superior height and reserves, defeated the York college "B" team 63-30, Jan. 18, in the city auditorium.

The game with the university team called to attention the forgotten men of all athletic teams, the reserves.

The York "B" team this year has won four of seven games this season, and one of two conference games. Concordia College "B" team was the first opponent and likewise, the first victim. Henderson town team then fell before the "Panther-ups", before the Milford town team bestowed the defeat of the season upon them. Then followed a defeat by the Midland Warriors "B" squad, a victory over the Wesleyan "B" squad, a victory over the Utica town team, and the final game on record, their defeat at the hands of the University of Nebraska cagers.

The "B" squad of any athletic group is always handicapped by the shifting of players from "B" squad play to varsity competition. The York college squad has been no exception to the rule, as five men have been shifted up and down between the "A" and "B" squads. Of the five, three now play with the "B" squad and two have "made good" with the varsity players. With this number of changes being necessitated, the possibility of any combination of players being able to practice together and develop good teamwork is naturally decreased.

However, the "B" team has shown good promise for years to come and for a good season this year. They have fight and spirit, two of the greatest assets of any athletic club, and this, combined with the ability possessed by the cagers of the future, offers a good game for all opponents on the schedule for this year.

The York college Panthers won their fourth and fifth conference games Jan. 17-18, taking an easy 62-48 win over the Chadron Eagles the first night but having the "livin' day-lights" scared out of them before winning the second contest 58-54 in a very close game with a story book ending.

Friday night the Panthers got off to an early 9-2 lead. The Eagles decided it was time to play ball and knotted the score at 15-all after 12 minutes of play. The score was tied at 19-all and 22-all before Jim Conway and Jim Kaeding boosted the score to 26-22 at the half.

Chadron overpowered the Panthers the second half to take the lead, but it was Jim Kaeding's shooting that put York back in the lead after seven minutes of play.

From then on it was easy sailing for the Panthers. They built up a 16 point lead which they held to the end of the game. It was Jim Kaeding's 26 points and Wayne's 15 that gave York the lead to win.

Saturday night's game started off with a bang and at the end of 10 minutes the score stood at 19-12 with York out in front. At the half-time the Panthers were leading 36-26.

The second half there was plenty of action with both teams fighting furiously. With six minutes remaining, the Eagles tied the score at 52-all. York took a one point lead and then Chadron tied the score again on a gift toss.

With only a few seconds to go, Wayne Kaeding sank one of his special long shots. Jim Conway made a basket and Jim Kaeding added one point on a free throw to give York the necessary lead to clinch their fifth conference win.

Wayne and Jim Kaeding scored 24 and 21 points respectively to pace the scoring of the evening. Al Butterfield didn't do so badly either, scoring 17 points for the Eagles with teammate Groves helping by adding 14 points.

Don Robson and Cleo Campbell played excellent defensive ball both nights. Campbell also contributed nine points and Robson three during the two nights. Conway was also a big factor under the basket on the defense.

News Briefs

The college men at the C. D. Pritchard home were entertained last week in honor of the approaching marriage of Wayne Kaeding, senior of York, to Miss Ellen Meyers of York and in observance of the birthday of Louis Rachow, junior of Strang.

Ice cream and cake were served. The surprise birthday cake was baked by the latter's mother.

Bishop V. O. Weidler of Kansas City, Mo., brother of Pres. D. E. Weidler, was on the campus January 16 and 17 attending the college executive committee meeting.

Other members of the committee from out of the city were Dr. Claude H. Crandall, Trenton, Mo., Dr. H. H. Thomas, Topeka, Kan., Dr. A. E. Moore, Enid, Okla., Dr. Maurice Nichols, Denver, Colo., Rev. R. C. Mann, Portland, Ore., and Dr. G. E. MacCanon, Des Moines, Ia.

Local men serving on the committee included President Weidler, Rev. A. C. Core, superintendent of the Nebraska conference of the Evangelical United Brethren church, Rev. G. T. Savery, pastor of the college church, and Mr. J. R. McCloud and Mr. N. Hammer, York business men.

This mid-year meeting of the committee was a busy session as it developed new plans for the college. These will be published before long, according to Pres. D. E. Weidler.

Benefit Game Won By Panthers

Starting fast, and playing steady basketball, the York College Panthers defeated the Sun Drug team of Lincoln 60 to 49 in a benefit game Saturday night.

The Panthers got off to a 20-4 lead in the first 10 minutes of play and were never in serious trouble, although the Lincolnites paced by Lawson, pulled to within 5 points at half-time when York led 28-23.

Denny Auchard, ably substituting for Wayne Kaeding, led the York scoring with 12 points in a game which saw all but one of the Panthers scoring points. Lawson, center for the Sun Drug team, took top scoring honors for the evening with 18 points; 15 of which he scored in the first half.

In the preliminary game, the York "B" team nudged the York Legion team 55-53 in one overtime period. Harold Nordland paced the Legionnaires with 19 points while Bob Schneider countered with 17 points for the college team.

Concert Pianist

During the second part of the concert his real ability was more brilliantly displayed. Perhaps it was that an adjustment between the audience and the performer was completed, but here a golden thread of true artistry ran through the music of Albeniz, Granados, de Falls, Ravel, and the difficult harmonies of Faure.

The entire program was carefully, discerningly chosen, balanced between the known and the new. His presentation was warm and showed a depth of art indicative of many more potentialities. His listeners were fortunate in hearing great music, under his hands, become even greater.
