The Bohemian Girl, an opera in four acts by Balfe, will be presented on Thursday, May 1, by the York College music department under the direction of Dean Charles Amadon. The date was changed from April 25 because of conflicts.

The plot concerns the child of the Austrian, Count Arnheim, who as an infant is rescued from an infuriated stag by Thaddeus, a Polish exile. The grateful Count asks Thaddeus to join in some festivities, but the Count is angered when the Pole refuses to pay homage to the Emperor. Thaddeus escapes with a band of Gypsies, one of whom, Devilshoof, kidnaps Arline, Count Arnheim's heir.

Harriet Thomas And G. Edgar Named To Sandburr Positions

Edgar, the only junior among those nominated to the four staff positions, is an ex-GI, as is Holst, his Marathon counterpart. Vice president of the Press Guild, Edgar has been a consistent Sandburr contributor. He is a member of PALS literary society.

Henry Ford and Confidence

This month the people of America paid their last respects to a great American, Henry Ford. He is an American who made good, in spite of the derision he faced at the beginning of his career. He knew that his "carriage" would work and he had the confidence to go ahead and develop his ideas, revolutionary as they might be.

Henry Ford's type of confidence was not the over-confidence which makes a person objectionable and overbearing. Over-confidence does not help to promote ideas and get one closer to his goal, but hinders him.

Henry Ford had ambition and determination. Yet, without confidence these two would have been useless. Ford also had the confidence in his ability which gave him courage to go ahead to his ultimate goal.

Encouragement gives confidence. Men and women close to Henry Ford who had foresight, saw that his inventions and ideas were not follies and gave him the encouragement to go on. They helped give him confidence in his ability by expressing their confidence in him.

For success these three are needed: ambition, determination, and confidence. And the greatest of these is confidence.

Saludos Amigos!

Last week Pan-American Day was celebrated. People of this continent were thinking of their fellow Americans down south. For these Latin people are Americans also. Many times the thinking of the North American people becomes so narrow that when speaking of America, they tend to exclude the people of the south.

These people have contributed to the lives of the north Americans and the "Yankees" have contributed to their mode of living. The gaiety of life, the love of country, and the zest for living are found in both north and south. Educational opportunities, religious training, and social life are approximately the same in both hemispheres. Industry, political life, and scientific advancements are found in both.

From each other the north and south gain art, music, and literature. They share new inventions. They use each others resort spots. They share natural resources. They learn each other's language. Yes, they speak the same language.

They believe in their fellow man. They let the underdog have a chance to succeed in life. They have learned to live together and to be called Americans, these two countries which have as many differences as likenesses.

The Americans are making a great step toward world unity.

Lucretia couldn't believe it when she saw three Y. C. faculty members doing a jig in the library. Could be that Miss Shipley, Mr.

White (slavesky), and Mr. B. Herrick were excited about the faculty reception. They say that at this event the faculty "let their hair down." My question is, what does Mr. White (slavesky) do in that case?

POETRY (it sez hyar)

Spring on the campus?
A lot of common things:
"Con" Spring house-cleaning
The first robin sings;
Couples strolling thru' the park;
Almost more daylight than dark.

Spring on the campus?
New odors fill the air;
The scent of nature's new life;
Mixed with rain everywhere;
One odor never changes tho'
The everlasting, stinking Zoo!

Speech Recital A Success, Says Staff Critic

By Norma Jean Anderson
Marie Harris, junior, Great Falls, Mont., and Jean Rasp, junior, Shelby, combined their artistic talents, Sunday, March 30, to present an outstanding dramatic recital at the Evangelical United Brethren Church. They were very ably assisted at the organ by Lois Anderson, senior, Billings, Mont. After an organ number, Miss Harris gave her first selection, "Dark Victory" by Brewer and Block. This ever popular drama left few unmoved hearts in the assembly and disclosed deep insight into character and skill in interpretation. Miss Harris' other reading was the fantasy, "Many Moons", by James Thurber. It had a fascinating appeal to all.

Miss Rasp read the dramatic "Bittersweet", by Evelyn Neuenberg as her first rendition. No exaggeration is needed to describe the audience as spellbound. The listeners left the church still chuckling over the humorous complications revealed in "Brotherly Love", by Leota Hulse Black. Miss Rasp displayed true ability in portraying such a series of diverse characters so effectively.

Greatly adding to the beauty of the recital were the musical interludes by Miss Lois Anderson. Her selections were: "Idylle" by Lefebure - Wely; "Prayer" (from the octette) by Franz Schubert; and "Berceuse" (Jocelyn) by Benjamin Godard.

The program was made up of selections varying from the most fanciful imagery to the most tensely dramatic. Each actress chose readings which offered opportunities for wide interpretive range.

The formally-attired ushers were: Barbara Blauch, sophomore, York; Lois Shaneyfelt, junior, Central City; Wanda Wantz, senior, Shelby; and Elaine Hicks, junior, York. Each of these women wore a corsage in her hair.

Miss Harris and Miss Rasp are expression majors studying under Miss Irene Shipley of the Dra-

Senior Sketches

J. Hill Anglin, of Amistad, New Mex., leads our senior sketches of four men this week. J. Hill returned to Y. C. this year after having served a "hitch" in the navy. Characteristics of J. Hill are his almost illegible handwriting, his mad passion for steak, and his ability to acquire childhood diseases like chickenpox. J. Hill will receive a B. S. degree in June and will take up graduate work leading to an M. S. degree in chemistry. He has served as one of the chemistry laboratory assistants this year.

Another chemistry major who will attend the University of Nebraska next fall to get his M. S. degree is Howard DeBoer, York. "Housie" is a chem. lab. assistant, president of the senior class, and president of the Y-Club. He has lettered in football. His education was interrupted by the war and he served in the army air corps. Housie eats anything that is edible, but likes best cherry pie. He spends much of his time listening to and adding to his collection of recordings.

"What a revolting development," is the favorite saying of Richard Foulk, Adrian, Mich. "Dick" plans to go to the University of Nebraska after graduation to get an M. S. degree in chemistry. During the war, he served in the army air corps. Dick lettered in tennis. He is treasurer of the Student Council and is always after delinquent dues. He drives a black car and is proud of its loud Michigan license plate.

Caught on the run, Earl Graff of York, gave your roaming reporter only the plain, hard facts. After graduation, Earl plans to coach and to teach mathematics and history. Earl and his twin brother, Burl, are famous in the Y. C. sports world as football players. Earl served in the navy. He is married and lives in the college "Vetville".

Hi-Lites from Chapel Talks

By LOUIS RACHOW

Christ Is Our Cornerstone
"The stone which the builders rejected has become the cornerstone in our social and individual lives," declared Dean Walter E. Bachman in a recent formal chapel address. "Our foundation stone, Jesus Christ, is with us always. Without Him our civilization would crumble."

The Christian home, school, church, and community must be built upon the cornerstone, he continued. Jesus laid the foundation for us; we must use it in building our character.

"We must think clearly, love sincerely, act from honest motives, and trust in God and heaven," concluded Dean Bachman.

Liquor is a Menace to Mankind
Miss Sarah Palmer, head of the Women's Christian Temperance Association, spoke at a recent chapel program using as her subject, "Liquor, the Highway Menace."

"Once in every man's life there comes a moment to decide," declared the speaker. "Are we going to decide for or against liquor, the menace to mankind? It is up to us," said Miss Palmer.

Did You Know?

Have you ever wondered how your state received its name? The Indians seem to have had a hand in naming the middle west states. NEBRASKA comes from the Otoe Indians from a word meaning "Flat River" — for the Platte river. KANSAS and IOWA were named after a tribe of the Sioux Indians. The former meant "People of the South Wind" and the latter "Sleepy Ones". MONTANA comes from the Spanish for mountains. CALIFORNIA was named after an imaginary island, near the earthly paradise, by the Spanish Conquistadores. Another explanation is that it was named by some missionaries and explorers when they called it the land of oven's heat—"Aixo es calor de forni de fornalla". MISSOURI was the name of a tribe of the Sioux. NEW MEXICO comes from the Aztec word "mex-til"—name of their national war god.

York Panthers Drop Opening Meet To Kearney Antelopes

Hitting the water-logged cinders of the Kearney track after a week's layoff, the Panthers dropped their opening meet to the Antelopes by a decisive score.

The York speedsters, however, gave a good showing under adverse weather conditions. The dash men, Denny Auchard, and Dick Dean, both came through with places in the 100 and 220 yard events, while Frank Medsker ran well in the 440 yard event and Harold Walker added the only first of the Panthers in the meet by winning the two mile run. Don Watson, distance runner, turned in two good races in the mile and two mile events, thus showing that the year ahead might contain headaches for the opposition in most of the track events.

Outstanding for Kearney was their highly-touted dash man, Quillan. In winning the 100 and 220 yard events and carrying the baton in the 880 yard relay, he established himself as high point man of the day.

The York tennis team battled Kearney's team to a 3-3 deadlock in the meet played on Kearney's courts and the golfers of Y. C. lost to Kearney by six strokes in a hard fought 18 holes of play.

Miss Marjorie Ice Speaks To Recruits On God's Purposes

"God has a purpose for each of our lives," declared Miss Marjorie Ice, a representative of the Danforth Fellowship Grant, now serving at the University of Nebraska, in a recent meeting of the Life Work Recruits.

Miss Ice, who has been helping to promote religious organizations on college campuses, outlined a program of vocational guidance for the Recruits. God calls all people to an occupation, she said, and He has a plan for everyone, but He never calls anyone to do something which he does not have the ability to do.

Miss Ice outlined a number of points to consider when thinking of a vocation, and said in conclusion, "Unless we find ourselves living completely for God then we have not successfully found our calling."

Alumna Visits

Mary Harris, '46, Nelson, was visiting on the campus recently on her way to Schenectady, New York, where she has a position with the General Electric Company. She will be an engineering assistant in Aeronautical Development.

Miss Harris formerly worked as a computer in a Acoustics Electrical Unit at the Boeing Aircraft Co. in Seattle, Wash.

Women's Sports To Include Kittenball And Women's Track

The women's physical education classes will revert to outdoor sports with the return of spring weather. Kittenball will be rejuvenated and a new project, women's track, will be introduced.

The classes under the supervision of Mrs. O. L. Donahoe, have done much this year to encourage interest in women's athletics. After several months devoted to calisthenics and physical improvement exercises, actual games were taken up. Activities including kittenball, basketball, volleyball, and tumbling. The tumbling act exhibited on High School Day found its origin in Mrs. Donahoe's classes.

Miss Jeanne Anderson, freshman, Des Moines, Ia., has announced her engagement to Merwin Kurtz, sophomore, Alton, Kans. The wedding date has been set for June 6, 1948.

Former Student Aids Rescue Crews At Mine Explosion

Howard Harris, ex-'47, worked with the rescue crews at the scene of the mine explosion at Centralia, Ill., last month. Harris was among the group of men sent out by the morticians' school in St. Louis, Mo., which he is attending.

Harris worked on the crew which removed the personal effects from the bodies as they were removed from the mine. Then these effects were turned over to the mine officials. Harris spent three days in this work.

After getting pre-medical requirements at York college, Harris entered mortician's training in St. Louis. He will receive his certificate of graduation in June. He then plans to take his apprenticeship with A. A. Metz, a York mortician.

"Bohemian Girl" To Be Presented May 1

Twelve years later, Arline, ignorant of her parentage and happy with the Gypsies, is betrothed to Thaddeus. But the Gypsy Queen also loves him and plans to separate them.

During a great fair, Florestein, the Count's nephew, is met by the Gypsies and they steal a medalion from him. The Queen hangs it around Arline's neck, and Florestein accuses her of stealing it. She is brought before the Count who, after questioning her, realizes she is his long-lost child.

Arline, in the midst of the court splendor of her father's house, cannot forget Thaddeus. They have a secret farewell meeting, but are discovered by the Count, through the scheming of the Gypsy Queen. Since the Count will not allow Arline to wed a Gypsy, Thaddeus reveals his true rank. The Queen tries to have Thaddeus murdered but is herself killed instead. With the happiness of Arline and Thaddeus assured, all ends happily.

Prof. W. C. White has been assisting Dean Amadon with the production. Miss Irene Shipley and Prof. Bruce Herrick have aided with costuming and orchestra. The art department under the direction of Mrs. Josephine Hartsaw, is in charge of the setting. Marjorie Thornton, senior, Great Falls, Mont., and Wanda Miller, sophomore, Russell, Kans., have acted as pianists.

The principles of The Bohemian Girl include Hoover Fisher, freshman, Stillwater, Oklahoma, as Count Arnheim; Fred Vorce, sophomore, Brookfield, Mo., as Thaddeus; Richard Riggs, Ames, Ia., as Florestein; Lee Huebert, senior, York, as Devilshoof; Barbara Blauch, sophomore, York, as Arline; Ruth Weston, sophomore, York, as the nurse, Budda; and Barbara Rick, freshman, Hastings, as the Queen. They will be supported by a chorus of seventy-five voices.
